By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — (Special) — Defense Secretary McNamara's delayed disclosure of those Russian reconnaissance - bomber flights over four U.S. carriers is only part of this jolting story.

What the at - times - circuitous Pentagon boss didn't reveal is even more significant than what he finally did make known.

For security reasons most of these chilling untold facts cannot be divulged as yet. They are still tightly classified — altho, of course, no secret to the Russians; only to Americans.

In each of these ominous carrier overflights the Soviet reconnaissance-bombers flew direct to their mid-ocean "targets" by the shortest circular routes from bases in Russia. The giant Red planes (known in the West as Bears) did not search for the carriers. They set courses straight for them and flew over them.

Such extraordinary "bullseye flying," as it is being termed by members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is possible only in two ways, as follows:

Possession by Russia of a secret space (satellite) or other high level reconnaissance system that enables the detection and tracking of ships.

Advance Soviet knowledge of the exact location and courses of the four carriers — the Enterprise, Forrestal, Kitty Hawk, and Princeton.

Military authorities are convinced the former is the case.

These highly revealing incidents confirm for them a growing belief they have had for some time that the Russians have in orbit one or more reconnaissance satellites with the same capabilities as our very secret Samos and Ferret.

These U.S. satellites take photographs and monitor communications. The Air Force has at least six Samos' in orbit from 150 to 300 miles above the earth. These satellites snap pictures of Russian areas and installations and transmit them to ground receiving stations. The Ferrett, in addition to being equipped with a camera similar to those in the Samos, has a complex electronic system for monitoring communications.

Both the Samos and Ferret can take photos at heights of several hundred miles from which individuals on the ground can be identified.

Six Bids for Summit House Too High, Council Declares

City Council's plans to build a new summit house on Pikes Peak bogged down Tuesday when all six bids for the project proved higher than original estimates.

Officials present for the bid openings in City Council chambers expressed disappointment when they discovered that the lowest bid was $177,768 more than their estimate for the project.

"The bids are just as high as Pikes Peak itself," City Manager John Biery said after the bids had been opened.

The city was hoping to build the new summit house at a cost of $350,000.

Apparent low bidder was W. E. Ross Construction Co. with a base bid of $527,768. The highest bid was submitted by B. H. Baker Inc., for $627,652.

City officials, architect Carlisle B. Guy and representatives of the Ross company went into an immediate closed door session after the bid openings to discuss the project.

"We won't have anything concrete to say on the matter for at least a week to 10 days," Guy said.

His statement was backed up by Biery and Harold Heyse who heads a special citizens committee appointed by council to plan and implement the summit house project.

No Trace Found as Yet Of Three in Avalanche

The three were swept off the highway to Silverton by a mammoth snowslide Sunday morning.

Tuesday, howitzer shells were fired into potential snowslides which threatened crews trying to find the buried trio.

A pair of St. Bernard dogs also joined the search for the Rev. Marvin Hudson, 39, and his two daughters, Pauline, 12, and Amelia, 17.

The minister and his two girls were driving to Silverton for Sunday services when he got out to put chains on the stalled auto.

Three bulldozers cut 30 feet deep into the avalanche Tuesday in searching operations. Officers estimated the avalanche may be nearly 50 feet deep at the point where the Hudsons were swept off the highway.

Jury Selected In Damage Suit Against School

A jury was selected in District Court Tuesday for the $59,512.48 damage suit brought by Orie E. Husser, of 905 Westmoor Dr. against School District No. 11 and William H. Preston, principal of Wasson High School.

According to the complaint, Husser, acting in his professional capacity as a florist, delivered flowers to the school, Nov. 29, 1959. He was admitted by Preston who was there to direct the plaintiff's activities.

It is stated that Husser was then led in darkness to the auditorium and allowed to carry on his work on the stage without adequate lighting and without adequate warning of an unguarded orchestra pit.

While the plaintiff was arranging the flowers, it is alleged he fell into the pit and was severely injured. It is also alleged the defendants were negligent in failing to provide proper lighting and failing to warn the plaintiff of the possible danger and not providing a safe and adequate working area.

Widespread Property Damage Caused by Floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Floods which have driven thousands of persons from their homes and caused widespread property damage and inconvenience to millions in four states appeared easing in some areas today.

However, the threat of further overflows remained in many sections of the flood-stricken regions of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Indiana. Cities in Kentucky along the surging Ohio River were possible danger spots.

The floodwaters from rivers and streams swollen by heavy rains and melting snow were blamed for at least seven deaths, including three in West Virginia and two each in Ohio and Indiana. Outside the major flood belt, one man drowned in a rain-swollen river in McMinville, in central Tennessee.

Springs Man Dies Following Wolf Creek Pass Crash

Wayne E. Schlarb, 32, manager and partner with his father of Schlarb Automotive Co., 120 N. Weber St., died Tuesday of injuries he suffered when his car plowed off Wolf Creek Pass, about 19 miles east of Pagosa Springs.

The state patrol said Schlarb apparently tried to stop his car on the pass, but the vehicle skidded 200 feet, spun around and went sideways over the bank, overturning five times. Schlarb was thrown from the car.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schlarb, with whom he lived at 1213 N. Cedar St., were notified of the accident late Tuesday afternoon and left for Del Norte where their son's body was taken.

Law Mortuary is in charge of local arrangements and funeral announcements will be made later.

Schlarb was a native of Colorado Springs and attended local schools. He was not married.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Donald, 14, and a sister, Mrs. Gar McInnis of 2530 Meadowlark Lane.

Schlarb's demise brought Colorado's 1963 highway death toll to 60 compared with 55 at this time last year, the state patrol reported.

Pilot Survives Two Days In Subzero Wilderness

SALIDA, Colo. (AP) — A 52-year-old Los Angeles pilot, whose small plane crashed Sunday in southcentral Colorado's rugged mountains, lived on fish bait, withstood subzero temperatures for two days and came out alive.

Richard H. Bonham was the subject of a widespread air and ground search after his plane disappeared during a snowstorm Sunday on a flight from Grand Junction, Colo., to Denver.

The single engine Cessna 170 was caught in a powerful downdraft and plunged into 11,312-foot high Monarch Pass, only a mile and a half from a highway, Bonham revealed Tuesday when he climbed out of the wilderness.

The first to spot Bonham was Robert Rosenquist of Grand Junction. Rosenquist said Bonham flagged him down as he drove along U.S. Highway 50 near Monarch Pass.

Bonham said he was flying about 500 feet above the cloud level when "All of a sudden it hit. I fell at the rate of about 1,000 feet a minute. I hit some tall trees and the plane just broke apart."

Only the section in which Bonham sat was not wrecked.

"I was pinned inside the plane for 2½ hours," he said, "until I finally cut my overcoat free and crawled out through the windshield."

By the time Bonham crawled out of the plane it was dark, so he got back into the wreckage and went to sleep.

Bonham, who is a factory representative for several fishing tackle firms, said he ate only

Fountain Sues PUC in Service Area Dispute

The Town of Fountain filed a suit in District Court Tuesday against the Colorado Public Utilities Commission requesting a hearing on a PUC ruling which the plaintiff claims gave away part of its service area to the Mountain View Electric Association.

In the suit Fillmore S. Gibson, Fountain attorney, asks the court to order the commission to show cause why its action should not be declared void or that the defendants should be restrained.

According to the complaint the Mountain View Electric Association filed an application with the defendant, June 28, 1962 for an extension of public convenience to supply electricity to three specified areas.

The PUC had granted a similar certificate to Fountain Nov. 28, 1949, but the three areas which the association had been permitted to supply with electricity were not included.

Attorney Gibson said, in effect, this decision gives Fountain View an exclusive franchise in a part of Fountain which previously was in the town's service area.

The ruling, moreover, Fountain complains, will mean a duplication of service and additional cost of electricity to the town's more outlying customers.

Talks in News Strike Remain Deadlocked

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner said today, "We are moving toward the point when I hope there can be a fair settlement" in the contract dispute between striking printers and publishers of the eight New York City newspapers that have not printed in 89 days.

Wagner, mediator in the dispute since Jan. 26, made the statement after another round of day and night talks ended at 1:45 a.m.

No real progress was reported in peace talks here or in Cleveland, Ohio, where two newspapers have been shut down for 97 days by strikes.

Both sides met separately in the New York dispute.

Wagner said that he expected joint sessions this afternoon.

Wagner said, "We're not wasting time now," but that "if we are going to waste time, I'm going to take the next step."

By that he referred to his offer of 11 days ago to undertake a third-party role as impartial um-

Soldier Finds Cash-Filled Wallet Lost 2½ Years Ago

He turned it in to the Carson provost marshal's office where the currency was found in good condition but the leather and papers deteriorated badly.

Reibscheid recalled that he lost the wallet in November or December, 1960. He was returning from a Civil Air Patrol inspection at La Junta with another CAP member and they stopped to pick up five youths hitch hiking at the lonely spot.

The hikers said they were stranded from a Colorado College fraternity initiation. Reibscheid thinks he lost the wallet when he got out of the car to let the men enter.

LaBlance, who completed only 43 miles of his hike, plans to try it again when his duty schedule and the weather permit.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George LaBlance, Charlevoix, Mich.

Paris Banker Assassinated In Limousine

PARIS (AP)—The president of a Paris bank was shot to death today as he sat in the back seat of his parked sedan.

Henri Lafond, 68, was cut down by six shots fired at point-blank range by a lone gunman who escaped, police said, and died in an ambulance taking him to a hospital.

Police said Lafond and his chauffeur had just pulled up in front of a bank in the fashionable Paris suburb of Neuilly when a gunman opened the door, pulled a pistol from his pocket and fired.

The chauffeur was wounded slightly.

Police said they had no clue to the motive for the daring daylight slaying.

Pilot Survives Two Days In Subzero Wilderness

SALIDA, Colo. (AP) — A 52-year-old Los Angeles pilot, whose small plane crashed Sunday in southcentral Colorado's rugged mountains, lived on fish bait, withstood subzero temperatures for two days and came out alive.

Richard H. Bonham was the subject of a widespread air and ground search after his plane disappeared during a snowstorm Sunday on a flight from Grand Junction, Colo., to Denver.

The single engine Cessna 170 was caught in a powerful downdraft and plunged into 11,312-foot high Monarch Pass, only a mile and a half from a highway, Bonham revealed Tuesday when he climbed out of the wilderness.

The first to spot Bonham was Robert Rosenquist of Grand Junction. Rosenquist said Bonham flagged him down as he drove along U.S. Highway 50 near Monarch Pass.

Bonham said he was flying about 500 feet above the cloud level when "All of a sudden it hit. I fell at the rate of about 1,000 feet a minute. I hit some tall trees and the plane just broke apart."

Only the section in which Bonham sat was not wrecked.

"I was pinned inside the plane for 2½ hours," he said, "until I finally cut my overcoat free and crawled out through the windshield."

By the time Bonham crawled out of the plane it was dark, so he got back into the wreckage and went to sleep.

Bonham, who is a factory representative for several fishing tackle firms, said he ate only

Fountain Sues PUC in Service Area Dispute

The Town of Fountain filed a suit in District Court Tuesday against the Colorado Public Utilities Commission requesting a hearing on a PUC ruling which the plaintiff claims gave away part of its service area to the Mountain View Electric Association.

In the suit Fillmore S. Gibson, Fountain attorney, asks the court to order the commission to show cause why its action should not be declared void or that the defendants should be restrained.

According to the complaint the Mountain View Electric Association filed an application with the defendant, June 28, 1962 for an extension of public convenience to supply electricity to three specified areas.

The PUC had granted a similar certificate to Fountain Nov. 28, 1949, but the three areas which the association had been permitted to supply with electricity were not included.

Attorney Gibson said, in effect, this decision gives Fountain View an exclusive franchise in a part of Fountain which previously was in the town's service area.

The ruling, moreover, Fountain complains, will mean a duplication of service and additional cost of electricity to the town's more outlying customers.

Talks in News Strike Remain Deadlocked

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner said today, "We are moving toward the point when I hope there can be a fair settlement" in the contract dispute between striking printers and publishers of the eight New York City newspapers that have not printed in 89 days.

Wagner, mediator in the dispute since Jan. 26, made the statement after another round of day and night talks ended at 1:45 a.m.

No real progress was reported in peace talks here or in Cleveland, Ohio, where two newspapers have been shut down for 97 days by strikes.

Both sides met separately in the New York dispute.

Wagner said that he expected joint sessions this afternoon.

Wagner said, "We're not wasting time now," but that "if we are going to waste time, I'm going to take the next step."

By that he referred to his offer of 11 days ago to undertake a third-party role as impartial um-

He turned it in to the Carson provost marshal's office where the currency was found in good condition but the leather and papers deteriorated badly.

Reibscheid recalled that he lost the wallet in November or December, 1960. He was returning from a Civil Air Patrol inspection at La Junta with another CAP member and they stopped to pick up five youths hitch hiking at the lonely spot.

The hikers said they were stranded from a Colorado College fraternity initiation. Reibscheid thinks he lost the wallet when he got out of the car to let the men enter.

LaBlance, who completed only 43 miles of his hike, plans to try it again when his duty schedule and the weather permit.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George LaBlance, Charlevoix, Mich.

Paris Banker Assassinated In Limousine

PARIS (AP)—The president of a Paris bank was shot to death today as he sat in the back seat of his parked sedan.

Henri Lafond, 68, was cut down by six shots fired at point-blank range by a lone gunman who escaped, police said, and died in an ambulance taking him to a hospital.

Police said Lafond and his chauffeur had just pulled up in front of a bank in the fashionable Paris suburb of Neuilly when a gunman opened the door, pulled a pistol from his pocket and fired.

The chauffeur was wounded slightly.

Church Sexton Leaves Estate of $100,000

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Henry Mullin, 82, worked for 56 years as a sexton with St. John's Roman Catholic Church, before he died Feb. 21.

He lived and ate at the church.

Saturday his will was examined. It disclosed he left an estate of $100,000, most of it to the church and two other religious institutions.

"He never married, had only two suits, didn't go to the movies and spent most of his time in church," said the Rev. Anthony J. O'Neill, rector of St. John's.

George E. Honey, octogenarian, was honored Tuesday night Feb. 26, at the Ute Pass Lodge No. 188, A.F. and A. M., when he was presented with a fifty year membership pin by Jerry Bellinger, worshipful master of the Ute Pass Lodge. Honey became a Master Mason in 1903, at Medford Lodge No. 108, Medford, Okla., and served the lodge as its worshipful master in 1906-7-8. He is presently a life member of Wellington Kansas Lodge No. 150, a member of Royal Arch Masons Summer Chapter No. 37, in Wellington, and of St. Johns Commandry No. 24. On March 24 Honey will have completed 60 years as a Master Mason. He is the father of Mrs. Kenneth Pittman, and lives next door to Mr. and Mrs. Pittman in the Bee Hive cottage.

Kenneth Pittman left Friday to spend the weekend in Laverne, Okla., with his aged mother, Mrs. Ella La Munyon, who is ill in the hospital. He will also visit his two sisters and brothers while there.

Sympathy of the community is extended Roy Jones of Motel X in the death of his oldest brother, Harry Jones, on Feb. 26 in Moline, Kan. Mr. and Mrs. Jones left Wednesday to attend the funeral services.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Eckles of Doge City, Kan., opened their While Away cottage for a week's vacation in Green Mountain Falls.

The Feb. 25 stag dinner meeting of the Woodland Park Lions Club was served in the Community Building by members of the Lioness Club. There were 68 reservations. Dorothy Turpin, chairman, was assisted by Margaret Jackson, Laura Jones, Ruth Roth, Polly Lamb, Nell Brown, Carolyn McAdams, Lorene Lynch, Doris Rerick, Florence Salisbury, Helen Evans and Fern Parmley.

A newly organized bridge club of two tables has been dubbed the Conversational Bridge Club. Members are Helen Quinn, Carolyn Houchin, Pat Penman, Joyce Meurer, Beverly Page, Sandy Jolly, Sharaon Ernst, Diana Anderson and Grace Wilson. Mary Linda Mills was a substitute player last Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Sharaon Ernst. Meetings are twice a month.

Mrs. Clarence Bucher entertained the Kinnikinnik Bridge Club at her home in Paint Pony Country Club Thursday with a luncheon. Polly Lamb was a substitute player in the absence of Tina Warner.

Mrs. Beulah Peters is serving as secretary of the Ute Pass Hill Bowlies, replacing Ginger Nichols, who can no longer serve. The scores posted last week gave Hughes Construction 61 games won 31 lost, with total pins 44,944. Nichols won 46 lost 46 with 45,014. Dutch Kitchen won 46 lost 46 with 44,139. Haynes TV won 44 lost 48, with 44,169. Edwards Grocery won 44 lost 48, with 42,413. Fishermen's Inn won 37 lost 55, with 43,800.

High teams in single games were Dutch Kitchen, 725; Hughes, 688; Nichols, 680. High teams in three games were Dutch Kitchen, 2,031; Nichols, 1981, and Hughes, 1919.

High individual single games were won by Ann Rasner, 210; Pat Jensen, 209, and Lola Lawton 205. In the three - game series Lola Lawton hit 560 pins, Marion Flynn 557 and Ann Rasner 541. Juanita Johnson was a substitute player.

Jody Gayler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Gayler, has been chosen as the Pepperette of the week at Manitou Springs High School. Jody has attended most of the games this year and leads the crowd in yelling Mustang cheers. Jody has been selected as one of the alternates to represent Manitou at Girl's State this year, as sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 39. The delegates, Linda Hendricks and Judy Bonke, were chosen to spend a week at Colorado Women's College in June when they will study city, county and state government. An election will be held and the girls elected will meet the person whose office in Colorado government she holds.

Mrs. Louise Weiman is editor of the Church Reporter news letter for the Church in the Wildwood. She mailed the first issue last week, and plans to have a monthly paper. The deadline for news is Wednesday following the monthly Church Board meetings on the third Monday.

The Ladies Guild of Green Mountain Falls met all day at the home of Miss Marguerite McLellan, with twelve present. Mabel Anderson gave a devotional on "Prayer." Sewing on their annual bazaar items was the schedule for the day. A $10 gift of money was given the guild and designated for the Brockhurst Boys Ranch.

The meeting was changed from the original plans to meet with Mrs. R. A. Hendrickson in Manitou Springs, due to the accidental death of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson's twin grandson Johnny Relihan in Topeka, Kan. The Hendricksons attended the funeral services in Smith Center, Kan. Feb. 28. The sincere sympathy of the community is extended the family.

Ministry of Defense Is Planned in Britain

LONDON (AP) — The British government announced today it intends uniting the nation's sea, land and air forces under a minister of defense.

Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft told the House of Commons the move would mean disappearance of the Admiralty, War Office and Air Ministry. Each service would retain a minister and a chief of staff, responsible to a defense minister.

Thorneycroft was opening a two-day debate on the state of the nation's defenses. Opposition Laborites had set down a motion expressing no confidence in the government's handling of defense policy.

Two or three billion years ago, earth's atmosphere may have consisted mainly of methane, ammonia and hydrogen, instead of oxygen and nitrogen, according to scientists.

Below Maximum Fines Seen in Copper Case

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Fines well below the maximum have been imposted in a federal price-fixing case against some of the biggest names in the U.S. brass and copper industry.

U.S. District Judge M. Joseph Blumenfeld fined 13 defendants, including eight companies, a total of $158,000 Monday.

The Sherman Antitrust Act provided for fines up to $50,000 as well as prison sentences up to one year.

Blumenfeld said that even the top fines would not have been a major consideration for the companies involved.

The companies were convicted Feb. 11 after pleading nolo contendere (no contest) to charges of conspiring to fix prices of pipes and tubing for a five year period beginning in 1956.

The case was the third major anti-price-fixing action recently brought by the government. A similar case in the electrical equipment industry resulted in prison sentences for some defendants.

During the period covered by the indictment the accused companies' sales averaged $360 million a year, about 90 per cent of all sales in the United States of domestically-produced copper and brass.

The corporations and the fines levied against them are:

Revere Copper and Brass, Inc., New York, $25,000; Calumet & Hecla Inc., Chicago, $25,000; Bridgeport Brass Co. Bridgeport, Conn., $22,000; Phelps Dodge Copper Products, New York, $15,000; Mueller Brass Co., Port Huron, Mich., $15,000; Progress Mcf. Co., Philadelphia, $14,000; Cerro Corp., New York, $10,000; and Triangle Conduit and Cable Co., Inc., New Brunswick, N.J., $6,000.

The executives and their fines are:

Edgar P. Dunlaevy, president of Phelps Dodge Copper Products, $7,500; Richard H. Lewin, Cerro Corp. vice president, $5,000; John M. Dumser, former Calumet & Hecla official now with Bridgeport Brass, $5,000; Richard L. Allen, Bridgeport Brass, $5,000; and Alfred C. Dappert, Mueller Brass, $3,500.

Dream no more, my lady!

For now you can have that colorful bedroom of your dreams, that bedroom of timeless beauty that never goes out of fashion — as friendly, warm, and inviting as a blazing hearth fire.

Beautifully styled, with careful attention to the little details, such as the delightful brass hardware, here is quality we're proud to sell. It's carefully crafted of solid hard-rock maple, rubbed to a satiny smooth finish, aglow with the brownish gold of autumn leaves. And drawers: large and roomy for all your nice things. The dust-proofed drawer interiors of specially treated, quarter sawed sycamore (dovetailed-joined for extra strength) are as smooth on the inside as most furniture is on the outside — no snags to spoil your nylons. The drawers are precision center-guided, too, so they really work the way a drawer should.

We could go on and on about all the quality features that normally cost much more than this thrifty price, but you really must come in and see this exciting buy to appreciate the exceptional value. Do come in and make your dream bedroom a reality. By coming in tomorrow, you'll not only be able to make your selections at worthwhile savings from the biggest stock in the area, but also you'll be assured of having a bedroom that is uniquely and distinctively YOU, and in perfect taste, because Stark's exclusive Room Planning Service is free-for-the asking, as always! An election will be held and the girls elected will meet the person whose office in Colorado government she holds.

Mrs. Louise Weiman is editor of the Church Reporter news letter for the Church in the Wildwood. She mailed the first issue last week, and plans to have a monthly paper. The deadline for news is Wednesday following the monthly Church Board meetings on the third Monday.

The Ladies Guild of Green Mountain Falls met all day at the home of Miss Marguerite McLellan, with twelve present. Mabel Anderson gave a devotional on "Prayer." Sewing on their annual bazaar items was the schedule for the day. A $10 gift of money was given the guild and designated for the Brockhurst Boys Ranch.

The meeting was changed from the original plans to meet with Mrs. R. A. Hendrickson in Manitou Springs, due to the accidental death of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson's twin grandson Johnny Relihan in Topeka, Kan. The Hendricksons attended the funeral services in Smith Center, Kan. Feb. 28. The sincere sympathy of the community is extended the family.

Ministry of Defense Is Planned in Britain

LONDON (AP) — The British government announced today it intends uniting the nation's sea, land and air forces under a minister of defense.

Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft told the House of Commons the move would mean disappearance of the Admiralty, War Office and Air Ministry. Each service would retain a minister and a chief of staff, responsible to a defense minister.

Thorneycroft was opening a two-day debate on the state of the nation's defenses. Opposition Laborites had set down a motion expressing no confidence in the government's handling of defense policy.

Two or three billion years ago, earth's atmosphere may have consisted mainly of methane, ammonia and hydrogen, instead of oxygen and nitrogen, according to scientists.

Dream no more, my lady!
For now you can have that colorful bedroom of your dreams, that bedroom of timeless beauty that never goes out of fashion — as friendly, warm, and inviting as a blazing hearth fire.
Beautifully styled, with careful attention to the little details, such as the delightful brass hardware, here is quality we're proud to sell. It's carefully crafted of solid hard-rock maple, rubbed to a satiny smooth finish, aglow with the brownish gold of autumn leaves. And drawers: large and roomy for all your nice things. The dust-proofed drawer interiors of specially treated, quarter sawed sycamore (dovetailed-joined for extra strength) are as smooth on the inside as most furniture is on the outside — no snags to spoil your nylons. The drawers are precision center-guided, too, so they really work the way a drawer should.
We could go on and on about all the quality features that normally cost much more than this thrifty price, but you really must come in and see this exciting buy to appreciate the exceptional value. Do come in and make your dream bedroom a reality. By coming in tomorrow, you'll not only be able to make your selections of worthwhile savings from the biggest stock in the area, but also you'll be assured of having a bedroom that is uniquely and distinctively YOU, and in perfect taste, because Stark's exclusive Room Planning Service is free-for-the asking, as always! And, of course, you can program your payments up to 30 months, if you wish. We'll look for you tomorrow.

Unions, Carriers Will Talk About New Work Rules

CHICAGO (AP)—Five railroad unions, representing 210,000 on-train employes and seeking to save the possible elimination of 65,000 jobs, will meet with the nation's carriers next week in a climactic session of their long dispute over changes in work rules.

The new bargaining talks were set for March 13 after the U.S. Supreme Court Monday upheld the right of the railroads to make sweeping changes in work rules to eliminate jobs regarded by the carriers as unnecessary. The lines claim what they term antiquated work rules cost them $600 million a year.

A railroad spokesman and chief negotiator said the carriers will "move promptly as possible" to make the work rules changes. He added he was confident there would be no national rail strike.

But spokesmen for two brotherhoods warned of a possible strike if the railroads put the changes into effect before an agreement can be reached.

The new talks in Chicago will deal with the proposed elimination of about 40,000 firemen from diesel locomotives in freight and yard service. The Association of American Railroads said if this issue is settled, other points relating to a drastic revision in pay structure and make-up crews will be discussed.

The five unions—trainmen, firemen, engineers, conductors and switchmen who run trains on 195 railroads—contend the work rules would eliminate some 65,000 workers, including 40,000 firemen. They maintain that the present work rules and the jobs they provide are necessary for safe and efficient operation of trains.

Chairman Leverett Edwards of the National Mediation Board said that if no agreement is reached at the new bargaining sessions and a strike is called, a new presidential emergency board will be named to study the dispute. That would automatically delay both a strike and the carrying out of the rules changes for at least 60 days.

J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference and chief negotiator for the carriers, said that "certainly the union leaders know that this country can and will not stand for a nationwide railroad strike."

The Supreme Court's ruling by an 8-0 vote upheld the U.S. District Court and the U.S. Circuit Court in Chicago which ruled last summer that the railroads have a right to overhaul the work rules.

The work rules changes, announced last summer by the railroads, are based on recommendations of a study commission appointed in 1960 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Work Force Reduced At Kemmerer Plant

NEW YORK (UPI)—The F.M. Coke Corp. and U.S. Steel said Monday that the plant the two firms have operated jointly in Kemmerer, Wyo., reduced its work force because of successful completion of blast furnace tests there.

The Kemmerer plant will be run only during short intervals to obtain specific information about the new process which now makes possible production of metallurgical coke from low-grade subbituminous coal, the companies said.

The firms said the new process was the result of basic research started 10 years ago.

It is estimated that about two million U.S. families own some form of vacation retreat or weekend home.

Snow-Plagued City Goes On as Usual

By OTTO DOELLING

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — "I'm over 70 and I get around fine," the plucky, frail woman said and hurried on, unperturbed by the 10-foot wall of snow that lined the Watertown street.

Despite one of the worst winters in recent years, residents of this snow-plagued city of 33,000 just east of Lake Ontario are carrying on business much as usual.

They know that shortly the city traffic will be swollen by the automobiles of summer vacationers, hurrying to the nearby Thousand Island country of the St. Lawrence River.

Squalls from the lake have dumped 150 inches of snow this winter. Hardy residents dig themselves out, then keep digging to make room for more snow before the next storm strikes.

The city still has a long way to go before reaching the record snowfall of 245 inches in the winter of 1899-1900, but in many areas of the city, there is no room for more snow.

"You can pile it up only so high and then it rolls back down into the street," W. R. Galloway, head of the department of public works, explained. Galloway has six plows, three snow loaders, one snow blower, and 15 trucks to fight the snow.

Out in the country, where the accumulation has reached nearly six feet, things return to near normal once the snow plows open the lifelines to market. Northern New York is a dairy country.

"You get used to it if you're born here," a longtime Watertown resident said.

A travel agent, Thomas Bourcy, says he gets a query about southward travel every five to 10 minutes on the telephone.

'Body in Hedge' Turns Out Manikin

ANDERSON, S.C. (AP) — A sizable crowd had gathered on East Franklin Street Sunday night to view "the dead man in the hedge."

Patrolmen Billy Newton and Rufus Mitchell screeched to the scene. They saw a white-stockinged foot and part of a leg protruding from the hedge, and shooed the curious back.

Their official report at headquarters reads: "Regarding the 'body in the hedge', we sighted it, pulled it and learned it was someone pulling our legs."

Widow of U.S. Missionary to Stay in Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI)—The wife of an American Protestant missionary killed Monday by Communist guerrillas said today she plans to remain in South Viet Nam to continue missionary work.

Mrs. Vurnell Jacobsen's husband Elwood Jacobsen of Foreston, Minn., and fellow missionary Gaspard Makil of Salcebo, the Philippines, were shot to death in front of their families in a Viet Cong ambush north of Saigon.

Makil's American-born wife, Josephine, La Junta, Colo., said she has not decided whether to remain in Viet Nam or return home. One of her four-month-old twin girls was wounded by the guerrillas and died later in a Saigon hospital.

The Makils' three-year-old son was shot in both legs by the guerrillas but doctors said his condition is improving following surgery and he is expected to live.

Informed government sources said an all-out search by government troops has failed so far to locate the guerrillas, who fled into the jungle after gunning the missionaries down.

The missionaires were shot without provocation after they and their families were stopped by a Viet Cong road block about 50 miles north of Saigon.

Mrs. Makil's mother, Mrs. Orville T. Johnson, lives at La Junta.

Young Doctor Malone Will Be Canceled

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Young Doctor Malone," and all his friends, relatives and associates, have started the last month of the daytime serial's existence on NBC. Come April 1, after almost 30 years on radio and television, they depart for the Valhalla of canceled programs.

It promises to be a rather busy month as the cast goes about the business of knotting loose ends. Currently there's a murder trial in progress—and in soap-opera-land a murder trial normally stretches out for months. This will be speeded up so that the home audience can know whether Jill Malone Steele and a young interne are found guilty of killing her husband—an unlikely windup.

Then there's going to be a marriage — a doctor and nurse who have been what is called "romantically inclined" are going to take that leap.

The show has been around so long that the character of "young" Dr. Malone—Jerry—has become older, and there is now a second Dr. Malone, Jerry's adopted son, David.

Neither Jerry Malone nor his wife, Tracy, are involved in anything spectacular at the moment—except their daughter's murder trial, of course. Dr. David's wife disappeared a spell back and is believed to have drowned.

The writer, Richard Holland, didn't make the drowning absolutely positive, because there was some thought that maybe some time later the missing wife might return to start a new story line. Now they'll just leave her among the missing.

"We hope that the show will come back some time, so we're not going to make things too final," said Mrs. Quinlan. "The Malones have been sort of separated lately. We're just going to bring them back together."

Mrs. Quinlan says that the end of the show will mean a "real wrench."

"After four years, working with one group, it gets to be an important part of your life," she said. "We've had a great deal of mail about the program—after all, audiences get to know the characters and some are very involved with the people.

The venerable serial's place, another victim of poor ratings, will be taken by a game show, "You Don't Say."

Sumerians, a people who lived between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers, developed the art of writing about 5,000 years ago.

French Miners Refuse to Budge In Big Strike

PARIS (AP)—The French coal strike went into its sixth day today with no indication of the miners weakening or of the government cracking down on labor's first major stand against President Charles de Gaulle's 4½-year-old regime.

The 200,000 strikers, seeking higher wages and a 40-hour week, refused to bow to De Gaulle's draft orders to return to the government-operated pits. By defying the draft, the miners made themselves liable to dismissal, fines or imprisonment, but there was no report of any government action against the men.

"We have never ceased to affirm that men, clearly victims of an injustice, must be listened to and the maximum done for them," the paper said.

Reports from the vast northern coal mines near the Belgian border and from the pits in the Lorraine region near the West German border said that only mine security workers were on duty.

The first violence in connection with the strike came Tuesday night, and it was negligible. Between 1,000 and 2,000 students paraded in Paris in support of the miners. Police scattered the demonstrators and later scuffled with about 200 students. Three policemen suffered minor cuts.

In the coal fields riot forces mobilized by the government stayed discreetly out of sight. The Catholic, Socialist and Communist unions also maintained solid discipline among their ranks. In the Forbach area of eastern France, idle miners shopped with their wives, bowled or congregated in bars.

Small groups of pickets went to mine entrances at the start of each shift to make sure the strike order was obeyed.

Contact between the unions and the government reportedly was being maintained. But Labor Minister Gilbert Grandval said talks could not be started until production was resumed.

The miners contend they have been left out of the prosperity which has come to much of French industry. They demand an 11 per cent pay hike.

CC Musical In Three-Night Run at FAC

Colorado College's fourth annual spring musical "Most Happy Fella" opens at 8:30 p.m. Thursday for a three - night run in the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center.

Cast in the lead roles are Barbara Coury as Rosabella, Paulena Franklin as Cleo, John Giannes as Tony and Ben Lyon as Joe.

'Most Happy Fella" is the story about a California grape rancher and his struggle to marry his "mail - order" sweetheart. The musical was the third success of writer Frank Loesser when it opened on Broadway in 1956.

Firemen Assist Man With Inhalator

Firemen from Company 5 and car 14 responded to a call late Tuesday morning at the home of A. B. Hoffman, 46, 2426 W. Williamette, who was having difficulty breathing.

The firemen used the inhalator on the man for four minutes before he was taken to St. Francis Hospital by E and E Ambulance.

Battalion Chief Louis Fooshee was in charge.

At 8:05 a.m. today, a car fire was reported at 128 S. Wahsatch, with Company 1 responding to the call. The radiator of the car had been covered with a blanket which slipped causing the radiator to begin steaming. Neighbors thought the steam was smoke and reported the incident. No damage was reported.

Assistant Chief Herman Richter was in charge.

Two Cars Damaged In Local Accident

Damage was estimated at a total of $350 to two cars involved in an accident at 5:06 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of Cimarron Street and Wahsatch Avenue.

City police issued a ticket for running a stop sign to James A. Martinez, 25, 1931½ Mt. Washington St., whose car collided with one driven by K. C. Bester, 53, 404 El Paso Ave.

Today's Weather

(Reports furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 5:30 a.m. today!)

The low pressure system located over the middle Mississippi Valley Tuesday intensified during the night and moved northeastward to eastern lower Michigan this morning.

A narrow band of heavy snow fell Tuesday and last night across central and northeastern Iowa and southern Wisconsin. Amounts ranged from 2 to 8 inches with up to 11 inches locally.

Snow was accumulating rapidly this morning over portions of northern lower Michigan with freezing rain and drizzle falling just south of the snow area.

Locally heavy shower activity is in progress over scattered areas of extreme northeastern Florida and eastern portions of Georgia and South Carolina.

Early morning temperatures were mild and humid over the south Atlantic coastal states with the 60s reported as far north as coastal Virginia.

In Florida, readings were generally in the low 70s. Across the Gulf Coast states, from western Alabama to Texas, temperatures skidded during the night to near the freezing mark by sunrise.

Along the Pacific coast, 30s were the rule in the north and 40s in the south.

Malicious Mischief Damage Totals $95

Two incidents of malicious mischief in the city, with damages totaling $95, were reported today to city police.

The rear window of a car owned by Sgt. Michael C. Balog, Ft. Carson, was broken shortly after 12:30 a.m. today. Police said the car was parked at the rear of the Metropole Bar, 113 E. Colorado Ave.

Two plaster statues, valued at $45, were broken sometime Tuesday afternoon, police said. The statues were on the front lawn of the home of Betty L. Phillips, 209 S. Limit St.

Soviet Bombers Knew U.S. Warship Locations at Sea

Namara was characteristically vague:

The Navy reported that the Bear reconnaissance - bomber that flew over the 75,000 - ton Forrestal southeast of the Azores on Feb. 22 was tracked some 2,100 miles from a base in northeastern Russia. From the very start the Soviet plane made a beeline for the carrier and flew directly to it by the shortest circular route.

Thruout, the intruding Bear was under surveillance either by radar, radio or plane. Two Ferret satellites were tuned in on the Russians. What was learned is classified.

For two brief periods radar lost its "lock" on the Soviet plane. This was due to the Reds' using a new type of metal chaff that temporarily blotted out radar contact. But surveillance was maintained thru other methods, and interceptors of the Forrestal were in the air long before the Bear hove into sight.

However, intelligence experts point out that is not as important as it may appear to be.

They cite the fact that the Bear has the capability of being armed with a known Soviet air-to-ground missile that can be launched some 650 miles from a carrier — definitely out of the range of U.S. carrier - based interceptors.

One Navy report on the incidents — also not mentioned by McNamara — stated that a Bear that overflew a carrier was equipped with racks that could have carried nuclear bombs of more than 20 megatons. Photos were taken of this Communist plane showing these bomb racks.

An intelligence report stressed the point that, in direct contrast to these "bullseye" overflights, it took the Navy four days to locate that hijacked Venezuelan freighter.

Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., had much to do with forcing disclosure of these sinister overflights. He questioned McNamara about the Kitty Hawk incident during the latter's closed-door appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee. Obviously startled and disconcerted, McNamara admitted the accuracy of Goldwater's information.

Later, after conferring with the President, the defense chief hurriedly summoned a press conference and announced the overflights.

ABORTED MISSION

Two MIG-21s turned back a low-flying armed U.S. reconnaissance plane more than 30 miles south of Cuba.

This naval plane was preparing to make a low level reconnaissance run over the island when it encountered the two late model MIGs. They bore in directly on the U.S. plane and its pilot heard one MIG flyer yell to his companion, "Let's get him."

The U.S. pilot, with orders to avoid an incident unless fired on, took evasive action and streaked away from the threatening MIGs.

Later, he reported he believed they were piloted by Russians.

This undisclosed information has been conveyed to the Senate Armed Services Committee investigating the Cuban problem.

The committee is seeking further details. So far it has learned that reports on the incident were ordered suppressed by high Pentagon authority. The committee also has been informed that this encounter is one reason the number of low reconnaissance flight over Cub has been sharply reduced.

In the past several weeks there have been only a few such missions over the coast of Cuba and international shipping lanes.

Other Service School Cadets To Arrive Here

The cadets, from West Point, Annapolis and the U. S. Coast Guard Academy will arrive at Peterson Field and be taken by bus to the Air Force Academy.

While the cadets are visiting the Academy, a group of 50 Air Force cadets from the Class of 1964 will be guests of their counterparts at West Point, Annapolis, and New London.

Visits will also be exchanged March 14-17.

Following their 4:30 p.m. arrival at Peterson Field, cadets will be taken by bus to Arnold Hall where they will meet their escorts. They will be welcomed by Cadet Wing commander Sam Westbrook III.

Friday morning the visitors will attend classes with their escorts. That afternoon they are scheduled for briefings on the Academy academic, athletic and airmanship programs, and will tour the Cadet Gym and Falcon Stadium.

Saturday morning the cadets and their escorts will tour NORAD.

Six Bids for Summit House Too High, Council Declares

bids of course," Guy said. He said that the committee would made a report and possibly a recommendation to City Council at its meeting Tuesday.

When asked the reason for the high bids, Guy and Biery pointed out that the original estimates and the contractors estimates were based on "good guesses" since no one has had any actual experience in buildings of this sort.

"One of the main things is the efficiency of labor at that altitude," Guy explained. "We just tried to outguess them on that."

He explained that at the altitude the men would be working, they would be between 40 and 60 per cent efficient. Other difficulties to be encountered will be transportation of materials and the weather.

The project, as planned, would take two summers since no work can be done in the winter. However, some persons were of the opinion that the project would take three summers rather than two.

The city has been working on the project for about 10 years and this was the first time that it had reached the bid stage. The project was originally planned at an estimated cost of $500,000 but difficulties in getting financing for it forced officials to reduce the size of the building and they hoped, the price.

Officials declined to comment if they would re-bid the project or abandon it in favor of another facility. They said this would be hashed out at meetings prior to the City Council session Tuesday.

Other bids submitted were Bickley Construction Co., $580,000; Dugman Construction Co., $555,300; Bruce Hughes Inc., $585,600; Lembke Construction Co., $581,500.

Talks in News Strike Remain Deadlocked

Bertram A. Powers, president of striking Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union said on a taped television program Monday night: "There is no solution, in our opinion, to handing over to a third party the responsibility that belongs to us (the printers union) and to the publishers (sic) to find a mutual agreement."

Powers said that this would not rule out the mayor's proposal, from his union's point of view, because it "would not be arbitration."

In Cleveland, where the Plain Dealer and the Press & News have been off the streets more than three months, there were no progress reports in negotiations Tuesday with the printers and mailers unions.

They and a third AFL-CIO affiliate, the machinists union, are on strike. Two other striking unions have come to terms on new contracts, along with two that didn't strike. Five other nonstriking unions also seek new pacts.

Retail Lumber Dealers to Meet in Springs

The Allied Retail Lumber Dealers will hold their fifth annual convention at the Broadmoor this weekend. About 200 members, key employees and guests are expected to attend.

The board meets at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, prior to a 7:30 dinner. The Sunday program begins at 9 a.m. Delegates have been promised "a minimum of speeches but good ones."

Manufacturers' booths, to display new building products, will be set up in the International Center. A luncheon at noon Sunday concludes the convention.

The organization, which has members in Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Wyoming, and Nebraska was founded in 1958 to strengthen independent dealers in the changing market of retail lumber.

It is similar to the Associated Grocers in that it has a central warehouse and buying.

Two Grand Ole Opry Stars Die In Plane Crash

CAMDEN, Tenn. (AP) — The wreckage of a light plane with four Grand Ole Opry personalities aboard was found today about five miles west of the Tennessee River in west Tennessee.

Sheriff Loye Furr said there were no survivors.

Aboard were singers Patsy Cline, Hawkshaw Hawkins and Cowboy Copas and the pilot, Randy Hughes who was Miss Cline's manager and a son-in-law of Copas.

The Grand Ole Opry is a radio program broadcast by WSM, Nashville, which has attracted and developed top country and Western musicians for more than 35 years.

The single-engine plane was returning the recording artists to Nashville after benefit performances at Kansas City, Kan. It stopped at Dyersburg, near Memphis, early Tuesday night to refuel. Hughes telephoned his wife in Nashville to say they would be home soon. The plane never arrived.

Another opry star, Billy Walker, said at Nashville he intended to return with Hughes but came by commercial plane because the Hughes plane would carry only four.

Jones Is Ousted As Chairman of Navajo Indians

mittee and couldn't be reached for comment.

At his home in Flagstaff, Ariz., Nakai said, "I am a happy man. I will exert every effort humanly possible to bring about certain things that I have discussed with the people."

More than 25,000 Navajos, scattered from Los Angeles to Chicago, voted but most votes were cast on the reservation, where 73,000 Navajos live. The reservation covers parts of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah.

With 19 precincts still unreported, Nakai had 10,344 votes to 8,483 for Jones. The third candidate, Samuel W. Billison, 39, of Kinchilee, Ariz., polled 6,361. Billison also lost his seat on the 74-member tribal council, equivalent to a state legislature.

Defeated with Jones was his vice chairman, Scott Preston. Nakai's running mate, Nelson Damon, won the job, which pays $13,000 annually.

Nakai told the 92,000 Navajos the younger generation was ready to lead them. A World War II Navy veteran, he advocated veteran's preference for tribal job opportunities and campaigned hard against unemployment.

One tribal official said he felt another factor was the "peyote" issue. Peyote is a narcotic extracted from cactus and its use is prohibited on the reservation. The official, who would not permit use of his name, said he felt those using the narcotic may have voted for Nakai, who did not take a firm position on its use.

The Navajos, a sovereign people by treaty, and the country's largest tribe, also defeated 16 tribal councilmen.

Nakai, who announces for a Navajo language program over Flagstaff station KCLS, said he first plans to get out among the people and find out their immediate problems.

"Then we can go from there to do what we possibly can to bring about a solution to problems confronting the Navajo people," he said.

After World War II he moved to Flagstaff and went to work at the Navajo Ordnance Depot, an Army facility. He still holds the job.

Pilot Survives Two Days In Subzero Wilderness

some fishing bait made by one of the companies. "It said on the box it's fit for human consumption," he added.

To keep warm in the 15-20 below zero weather Bonham cut the sleeves off a jacket and made some mittens. He also wore an overcoat and an insulated vest.

He made no effort to find his way out of the area Monday because it was overcast. He said he realized that search planes would not spot him because the wreckage was covered by a new blanket of snow and was hidden by big trees.

The Civil Air Patrol searched for two days without results.

But Tuesday morning Bonham was out up a 45-degree slope in six feet of snow. He said it took him six hours to cover the mile and a half to U.S. 50.

Rosenquist drove Bonham to a Salida hospital where he was examined and released. Dr. Stephen Phillips said Bonham had several minor cuts and showed some of the effects of the hours he spent in the frigid outdoors.

Immediately after the examination, two members of the Ft. Carson Emergency Squadron of CAP, who had gone on the search and were in Salida at the moment, picked up Bonham and drove him to Denver. The two CAP members were two brothers, 2nd Lt. Mark Engle and 2nd Lt. Fred Engle.

Bonham insisted on going immediately to Denver, where he was to set up a display at a sport and travel show.

"I spent $200 on a booth and I want to be there," he said.

Bonham's wife, in Los Angeles, said her husband had been flying for about 15 years.

"He flipped over once before making a night-time landing on a snow-covered field in Idaho about six years ago," Mrs. Bonham said, adding, "He wasn't hurt that time, either."

Mrs. Bonham said she wasn't worried. "I knew he could take care of any situation."

The Bonhams have two children Nine, 15, and Ray, 20.

Mrs. Bonham said her husband reguarly uses a plane to cover his territory in the Western states. He has his own plane, but was flying a friend's when he crashed, she said.

JFK Admits Four Fliers Killed at Bay of Pigs

He said the men were flying support voluntarily.

He said that because of the nature of their work it has not been possible to make details of their flight public as might have been the case if they were official members of the armed forces.

The President reiterated the four were in service of their country but said it isn't helpful to the United States to go into details.

Soon after the question period began, the President was asked about the four U.S. aviators who lost their lives in the ill-fated Bay of Pigs Cuban invasion. Were they employes of the government or the CIA?

Kennedy did not directly answer the question. He said it was a voluntary flight, and that the men were serving their country. Many times over the past years, Kennedy said, Americans have served their nation but he added that it isn't helpful to U.S. interests to go into details.

Kennedy was asked a three-part questions, about the number of Russian military personnel in Cuba, but he obviously didn't want to make any comment on this.

"No," he said. "My answer would be no to all of them."

To a further question, Kennedy said he had seen charges that the administration has held up information on the Soviet buildup in Cuba.

"In hindsight," he said, "perhaps we could have picked up this information a few days earlier—but not many days earlier."

The President added that, "I feel the intelligence services did a very good job."

After all, he said, the missile bases were detected and exposed.

Kennedy was asked also about plans for continuing to deal with the Cuban problem, especially what he may discuss during his forthcoming visit to Costa Rica.

The President said the problem is people coming and leaving Cuba. The problem is one for other Latin-American countries, he said —each country for itself must keep track of these comings and goings, who the people are and what happens to them. Also, he said, there are the questions of trade, diplomatic representation and the West.

He would hope, he went on, that the other American republics would work with the United States in trying to isolate communism in Cuba.

A newsman said various Kennedy policies abroad and at home are encountering difficulties, and asked for comment on suggestions the administration has lost its momentum.

Kennedy agreed there are such difficulties—that Congress has not yet acted on programs submitted, some difficulties in Europe have arisen because the military threat is less and other problems have come to the fore.

But, he said, in the summer of 1961 Reserves were being called up because of a possible collision with the Soviet Union over Berlin, and the present situation is certainly not so dangerous.

He said Cuba is still a problem, but not a military threat as it was.

He said that if asked if this was "our winter of discontent," he would say no.

Kennedy was asked about a note to the U.N. from Havana which purported to deal with a friendlier attitude between this nation and Cuba. He said he understands that though this may have been in the note in Cuba it was not included in the one finally delivered in New York. Many of the issues aren't negotiable anyway, he said.

And, he said, there is no indication that the Cuban government wants to discuss its differences with the United States.

Among other matters coming up:

ROCKEFELLER—Kennedy was asked about a charge by New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller that he had been appointing "segregationist" judges in the South.

The President said he felt that, on the whole, the men appointed by him and by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had "done a remarkable job" on the civil rights question.

BUDGET—Asked about Republican talk of cutting government spending, Kennedy said there already had been deep cuts made in the budget presented to Congress. He suggested that if the Republicans wanted to make warlike speeches "it doesn't seem to me that we should be cutting our defense spending."

He also said the United States had made a commitment that it wasn't going to be second in space, or national security.

Russian spending for defense has been increased, he said.

NUCLEAR—Kennedy said it is not the administration position that a treaty would be accepted that would allow underground testing by the Russians to go on indefinitely. He said moreover the Senate would not approve such a treaty.

There is a good way to go before any agreement can be reached with the Soviet Union not only regarding the number of inspections, but the area in which the inspectors can operate, he went on.

CANADA — Asked about trade relations with Canada, Kennedy said there are regular consultations of the problems. He said "I would hope that the United States and Canada, having been drawn together by nature, would be able to cooperate."

the four-state area were closed. Many towns were isolated. Schools and industrial plants were closed in some communities. Train and bus service was delayed and in some places halted.

A tornado and severe windstorms swept across areas in Alabama and Georgia Tuesday. A twister which struck the Birmingham, Ala., area damaged about 85 buildings in nearby Bessemer and other suburban areas. Several persons were injured. Property damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars. Two persons were injured and several houses damaged in a violent wind storm in Cave Springs, Ga.

About 1,000 families were made temporarily homeless by the surging waters in West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania. An estimated 500 persons have been forced to leave their homes in Indiana.

In Athens, Ohio, about 800 students were evacuated from four dormitories at Ohio University Tuesday night as the Hocking River overflowed lowlying areas of the campus. Several dozen families also were forced to leave their homes. Athens, a town of 16,470 in southeastern Ohio, was completely cut off from other communities, with all highways and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks inundated.

In Warren County, in southern Ohio, the number of evacuees totaled more than 400 families.

In West Virginia, the Ohio River rose to flood stage from Wheeling southward into Kentucky. In Cincinnati the big river was expected to crest sometime Saturday at 57 feet, five feet above flood stage. It also appeared headed for crests above flood stage in Huntington, W. Va., Ashland, Ky., and Maysville, Ky., within the next three days.

Flood conditions in western Pennsylvania appeared generally improving. The crest of the Monongahela River passed Braddock and was expected to pass Pittsburgh without major overflows.

In Indiana, many rivers and streams headed toward expected crests above flood stage but the end of heavy rains eased the threat of major overflows.

Some flooding was reported in Maryland, with about 25 houses damaged in Crellin, in the western part of the state, after the Youghiogeny River spilled over its banks. Many highways in the area were inundated.

Outside the flood areas, rain fell in Georgia, the Carolinas and Virginia and moved eastward. Another belt of rain extended from the Ohio Valley eastward to the Atlantic Coast. Freezing rain mixed with snow pelted New England. Gale warnings were posted along the coast.

No severe cold weather was reported. Temperatures ranged from near zero in northern Maine to the 70s in southern Florida.

Judges Grant Ten Divorces

The following were given by Judge G. Russell Miller: Senida Lee from Major T. Lee, Feb. 21; Clarence Edward Bryan from Lillian Irene Bryan, Feb. 25; Georgia Christ Rich from James L. Rich, Feb. 27; Irma D. Journeay from James R. Journeay, Feb. 28; and Opal Pearl Cader from Charles William Cader; Doreen J. Goodman from Stephen B. Goodman; C. Sharon Yvonne Murphy from Joseph Clifford Murphy; Anita Reker from Norman C. Reker, all March 1.

Judge William M. Calvert granted a divorce to Lucy Mary Salazar from Philip Ned Salazar, Feb. 28; and Judge Hunter D. Hardeman to Alice C. Wallace from Marshall W. Wallave Wallace, March 1.

Water System Bond Election Approved Here

A $355,000 bond election to install a water system for Falcon Estate homes was approved Tuesday by a vote of 32 to 14.

A spokesman for the Woodmen Water and Sanitation District said the bonds will be handled by Boettcher and Company and bids for the water system will be let immediately.

Final installation is expected to be completed by July 1. Approximately 35 homes in the area now have their water supply from private wells.

Personnel Crisis Seen at CU After Tippo Resignation

ton and resigning Provost Oswald Tippo, and said it would support "a new president who has only the highest academic aims."

Eighty-seven per cent of about 225 faculty members voting at Tuesday night's meeting favored a statement circulated among the faculty on campus Monday and Tuesday, which said "this is a critical juncture in the life" of CU. The statement was signed by 390 faculty members.

The statement said "the future of the university hangs in the balance, for it must be decided whether or not the present intellectual growth can be continued."

Neither Newton, Tippo, both of whom resign effective June 30, attended the meeting, in which faculty members:

—Said they "deeply regret (the) resignations," and praised both administrators.

—Urged other officials to remain at their jobs.

—Asked the Board of Regents to refrain from entering "personal or political" squabbles and instead to confine themselves to broad policy.

—Assured students the faculty would remain dedicated to teaching and the pursuit of truth.

—Appealed for more financial support from the state.

—Said CU had become a "strong intellectual, teaching and research center."

The statement also called for more information about higher salaries, more money for scholarships, more doctoral degrees, and more graduate students.

It said to the regents:

"Although your office is elective, the issues that you must consider your province are not personal or political, but pertain only to the welfare of the university."

Newton will become president of the Commonwealth Foundation of New York; Tippo the head of the liberal arts colleges and graduate school of liberal arts at New York University, the nation's largest private school.

The scheduled departures triggered reports of a personnel crisis.

Newton and Tippo were involved in a long-standing political controversy, pitting "liberals" against "conservatives" in a fight over administration of the university.

Newton, an arch-foe of Republican Regent Charles D. Bromley, announced his resignation shortly after Bromley won apparent electoral support for his criticism of Newton's administration, and was re-elected in November.

The faculty members Tuesday night said they "deplore the circumstances under which (the resignations) occurred."

Another problem reportedly was a prospect for a tight budget from the Republican-controlled State Legislature, which would mean minimum salary increases a factor against which Newton continually fought.

Colorado Gov. John Love, a Republican, said Tuesday he was "confident that the amount recommended in my budget was adequate to give salary increases and carry on the program of a great university."

Reports of concern for the future stability of the university took note of an apparent stall in selection of a president to succeed Newton. No likely successor has emerged after several meetings of the regents.

Telephone Sales Expert Holds Two-Hour Clinic

A Los Angeles telephone sales expert held a two - hour clinic Tuesday night in the General Palmer Room of the Antlers Hotel attended by 500 persons.

Jack Schwartz, who is billed as "America's Greatest Telephone Salesman," was brought to Colorado Springs by the Home Builders Association and the Colorado Springs Board of Realtors who sponsored the clinic, assisted by the Colorado Title Guaranty Co. and the First National Bank.

Using the telephone as a sales weapon, Schwartz pointed out the simplicity of its use by outlining three methods: put a smile in your voice; funnel your thoughts into the proper attitude, and get across to the listener that you believe sincerely in what you're saying.

The speaker gave a live demonstration of his technique by making actual calls to local people, none of which were arranged before the meeting. This allowed the audience to listen in to both conversations.

This was Schwartz's second clinic here in the past three years. A question and answer period followed his talk.

French Miners Refuse to Budge In Big Strike

PARIS (AP)—The French coal strike went into its sixth day today with no indication of the miners weakening or of the government cracking down on labor's first major stand against President Charles de Gaulle's 4½-year-old regime.

The 200,000 strikers, seeking higher wages and a 40-hour week, refused to bow to De Gaulle's draft orders to return to the government-operated pits. By defying the draft, the miners made themselves liable to dismissal, fines or imprisonment, but there was no report of any government action against the men.

"We have never ceased to affirm that men, clearly victims of an injustice, must be listened to and the maximum done for them," the paper said.

Reports from the vast northern coal mines near the Belgian border and from the pits in the Lorraine region near the West German border said that only mine security workers were on duty.

The first violence in connection with the strike came Tuesday night, and it was negligible. Between 1,000 and 2,000 students paraded in Paris in support of the miners. Police scattered the demonstrators and later scuffled with about 200 students. Three policemen suffered minor cuts.

In the coal fields riot forces mobilized by the government stayed discreetly out of sight. The Catholic, Socialist and Communist unions also maintained solid discipline among their ranks. In the Forbach area of eastern France, idle miners shopped with their wives, bowled or congregated in bars.

Small groups of pickets went to mine entrances at the start of each shift to make sure the strike order was obeyed.

Contact between the unions and the government reportedly was being maintained. But Labor Minister Gilbert Grandval said talks could not be started until production was resumed.

The miners contend they have been left out of the prosperity which has come to much of French industry. They demand an 11 per cent pay hike.

CC Musical In Three-Night Run at FAC

Colorado College's fourth annual spring musical "Most Happy Fella" opens at 8:30 p.m. Thursday for a three-night run in the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center.

The Broadway hit, featuring a cast of 71 and a production staff of 34, is under the direction of Prof. William McMillen of the Colorado College drama department.

Cast in the lead roles are Barbara Coury as Rosabella, Paulena Franklin as Cleo, John Giannes as Tony and Ben Lyon as Joe.

'Most Happy Fella" is the story about a California grape rancher and his struggle to marry his "mail - order" sweetheart. The musical was the third success of writer Frank Loesser when it opened on Broadway in 1956.

Firemen Assist Man With Inhalator

Firemen from Company 5 and car 14 responded to a call late Tuesday morning at the home of A. B. Hoffman, 46, 2426 W. Willamette, who was having difficulty breathing.

The firemen used the inhalator on the man for four minutes before he was taken to St. Francis Hospital by E and E Ambulance.

Battalion Chief Louis Fooshee was in charge.

At 8:05 a.m. today, a car fire was reported at 128 S. Wahsatch, with Company 1 responding to the call. The radiator of the car had been covered with a blanket which slipped causing the radiator to begin steaming. Neighbors thought the steam was smoke and reported the incident. No damage was reported.

Assistant Chief Herman Richter was in charge.

Two Cars Damaged In Local Accident

Damage was estimated at a total of $350 to two cars involved in an accident at 5:06 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of Cimarron Street and Wahsatch Avenue.

City police issued a ticket for running a stop sign to James A. Martinez, 25, 1931½ Mt. Washington St., whose car collided with one driven by K. C. Bester, 53, 404 El Paso Ave.

Today's Weather

(Reports furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 5:30 a.m. today!)

The low pressure system located over the middle Mississippi Valley Tuesday intensified during the night and moved northeastward to eastern lower Michigan this morning.

A narrow band of heavy snow fell Tuesday and last night across central and northeastern Iowa and southern Wisconsin. Amounts ranged from 2 to 8 inches with up to 11 inches locally.

Snow was accumulating rapidly this morning over portions of northern lower Michigan with freezing rain and drizzle falling just south of the snow area.

Locally heavy shower activity is in progress over scattered areas of extreme northeastern Florida and eastern portions of Georgia and South Carolina.

Early morning temperatures were mild and humid over the south Atlantic coastal states with the 60s reported as far north as coastal Virginia.

In Florida, readings were generally in the low 70s. Across the Gulf Coast states, from western Alabama to Texas, temperatures skidded during the night to near the freezing mark by sunrise.

Along the Pacific coast, 30s were the rule in the north and 40s in the south.

Malicious Mischief Damage Totals $95

Two incidents of malicious mischief in the city, with damages totaling $95, were reported today to city police.

The rear window of a car owned by Sgt. Michael C. Balog, Ft. Carson, was broken shortly after 12:30 a.m. today. Police said the car was parked at the rear of the Metropole Bar, 113 E. Colorado Ave.

Two plaster statues, valued at $45, were broken sometime Tuesday afternoon, police said. The statues were on the front lawn of the home of Betty L. Phillips, 209 S. Limit St.

Namara was characteristically vague.

The Navy reported that the Bear reconnaissance - bomber that flew over the 75,000 - ton Forrestal southeast of the Azores on Feb. 22 was tracked some 2,100 miles from a base in northeastern Russia. From the very start the Soviet plane made a beeline for the carrier and flew directly to it by the shortest circular route.

Thruout, the intruding Bear was under surveillance either by radar, radio or plane. Two Ferret satellites were tuned in on the Russians. What was learned is classified.

For two brief periods radar lost its "lock" on the Soviet plane. This was due to the Reds' using a new type of metal chaff that temporarily blotted out radar contact. But surveillance was maintained thru other methods, and interceptors of the Forrestal were in the air long before the Bear hove into sight.

However, intelligence experts point out that is not as important as it may appear to be.

They cite the fact that the Bear has the capability of being armed with a known Soviet air-to-ground missile that can be launched some 650 miles from a carrier — definitely out of the range of U.S. carrier - based interceptors.

One Navy report on the incidents — also not mentioned by McNamara — stated that a Bear that overflew a carrier was equipped with racks that could have carried nuclear bombs of more than 20 megatons. Photos were taken of this Communist plane showing these bomb racks.

An intelligence report stressed the point that, in direct contrast to these "bullseye" overflights, it took the Navy four days to locate that hijacked Venezuelan freighter.

Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., had much to do with forcing disclosure of these sinister overflights. He questioned McNamara about the Kitty Hawk incident during the latter's closed-door appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee. Obviously startled and disconcerted, McNamara admitted the accuracy of Goldwater's information.

Later, after conferring with the President, the defense chief hurriedly summoned a press conference and announced the overflights.

ABORTED MISSION

Two MIG-21s turned back a low-flying armed U.S. reconnaissance plane more than 30 miles south of Cuba.

This naval plane was preparing to make a low level reconnaissance run over the island when it encountered the two late model MIGs. They bore in directly on the U.S. plane and its pilot heard one MIG flyer yell to his companion, "Let's get him."

The U.S. pilot, with orders to avoid an incident unless fired on, took evasive action and streaked away from the threatening MIGs.

Later, he reported he believed they were piloted by Russians.

This undisclosed information has been conveyed to the Senate Armed Services Committee investigating the Cuban problem.

The committee is seeking further details. So far it has learned that reports on the incident were ordered suppressed by high Pentagon authority. The committee also has been informed that this encounter is one reason the number of low reconniassance flight over Cub has been sharply reduced.

In the past several weeks there have been only a few such missions over the coast of Cuba and international shipping lanes.

Other Service School Cadets To Arrive Here

The cadets, from West Point, Annapolis and the U. S. Coast Guard Academy will arrive at Peterson Field and be taken by bus to the Air Force Academy.

While the cadets are visiting the Academy, a group of 50 Air Force cadets from the Class of 1964 will be guests of their counterparts at West Point, Annapolis, and New London.

Visits will also be exchanged March 14-17.

Following their 4:30 p.m. arrival at Peterson Field, cadets will be taken by bus to Arnold Hall where they will meet their escorts. They will be welcomed by Cadet Wing commander Sam Westbrook III

Friday morning the visitors will attend classes with their escorts. That afternoon they are scheduled for briefings on the Academy academic, athletic and airmanship programs, and will tour the Cadet Gym and Falcon Stadium.

Saturday morning the cadets and their escorts will tour NORAD.

Talks in News Strike Remain Deadlocked

Bertram A. Powers, president of striking Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union said on a taped television program Monday night: "There is no solution, in our opinion, to handing over to a third party the responsibility that belongs to us (the printers union) and to the publishers (sic) to find a mutual agreement."

Powers said that this would not rule out the mayor's proposal, from his union's point of view, because it "would not be arbitration."

In Cleveland, where the Plain Dealer and the Press & News have been off the streets more than three months, there were no progress reports in negotiations Tuesday with the printers and mailers unions.

They and a third AFL-CIO affiliate, the machinists union, are on strike. Two other striking unions have come to terms on new contracts, along with two that didn't strike. Five other non-striking unions also seek new pacts.

Six Bids for Summit House Too High, Council Declares

bids of course," Guy said. He said that the committee would made a report and possibly a recommendation to City Council at its meeting Tuesday.

When asked the reason for the high bids, Guy and Biery pointed out that the original estimates and the contractors estimates were based on "good guesses" since no one has had any actual experience in buildings of this sort.

"One of the main things is the efficiency of labor at that altitude," Guy explained. "We just tried to outguess them on that."

He explained that at the altitude the men would be working, they would be between 40 and 60 per cent efficient. Other difficulties to be encountered will be transportation of materials and the weather.

The project, as planned, would take two summers since no work can be done in the winter. However, some persons were of the opinion that the project would take three summers rather than two.

The city has been working on the project for about 10 years and this was the first time that it had reached the bid stage. The project was originally planned at an estimated cost of $500,000 but difficulties in getting financing for it forced officials to reduce the size of the building and they hoped, the price.

Officials declined to comment if they would re-bid the project or abandon it in favor of another facility. They said this would be hashed out at meetings prior to the City Council session Tuesday.

Other bids submitted were Bickley Construction Co., $590,000; Dugman Construction Co., $555,300; Bruce Hughes Inc., $565,606; Lembke Construction Co., $561,506.

Retail Lumber Dealers to Meet in Springs

The Allied Retail Lumber Dealers will hold their fifth annual convention at the Broadmoor this weekend. About 200 members, key employees and guests are expected to attend.

The board meets at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, prior to a 7:30 dinner. The Sunday program begins at 9 a.m. Delegates have been promised "a minimum of speeches but good ones."

Manufacturers' booths, to display new building products, will be set up in the International Center. A luncheon at noon Sunday concludes the convention.

The organization, which has members in Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Wyoming, and Nebraska was founded in 1958 to strengthen independent dealers in the changing market of retail lumber.

It is similar to the Associated Grocers in that it has a central warehouse and buying.

Two Grand Ole Opry Stars Die In Plane Crash

CAMDEN, Tenn. (AP) — The wreckage of a light plane with four Grand Ole Opry personalities aboard was found today about five miles west of the Tennessee River in west Tennessee.

Sheriff Loye Furr said there were no survivors.

Aboard were singers Patsy Cline, Hawkshaw Hawkins and Cowboy Copas and the pilot, Randy Hughes who was Miss Cline's manager and a son-in-law of Copas.

The Grand Ole Opry is a radio program broadcast by WSM, Nashville, which has attracted and developed top country and Western musicians for more than 35 years.

The single-engine plane was returning the recording artists to Nashville after benefit performances at Kansas City, Kan. It stopped at Dyersburg, near Memphis, early Tuesday night to refuel. Hughes telephoned his wife in Nashville to say they would be home soon. The plane never arrived.

Another opry star, Billy Walker, said at Nashville he intended to return with Hughes but came by commercial plane because the Hughes plane would carry only four.

Jones Is Ousted As Chairman of Navajo Indians

mittee and couldn't be reached for comment.

At his home in Flagstaff, Ariz., Nakai said, "I am a happy man. I will exert every effort humanly possible to bring about certain things that I have discussed with the people."

More than 25,000 Navajos, scattered from Los Angeles to Chicago, voted but most votes were cast on the reservation, where 73,000 Navajos live. The reservation covers parts of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah.

With 19 precincts still unreported, Nakai had 10,344 votes to 8,483 for Jones. The third candidate, Samuel W. Billison, 39, of Kinchilee, Ariz., polled 6,361. Billison also lost his seat on the 74-member tribal council, equivalent to a state legislature.

Defeated with Jones was his vice chairman, Scott Preston. Nakai's running mate, Nelson Damon, won the job, which pays $13,000 annually.

Nakai told the 92,000 Navajos the younger generation was ready to lead them. A World War II Navy veteran, he advocated veteran's preference for tribal job opportunities and campaigned hard against unemployment.

Arthur J. Hubbard Sr., chairman of election supervisors, said Jones apparently failed to keep in close contact with his people.

One tribal official said he felt another factor was the "peyote" issue. Peyote is a narcotic extracted from cactus and its use is prohibited on the reservation. The official, who would not permit use of his name, said he felt those using the narcotic may have voted for Nakai, who did not take a firm position on its use.

The Navajos, a sovereign people by treaty, and the country's largest tribe, also defeated 16 tribal councilmen.

Nakai, who announces for a Navajo language program over Flagstaff station KCLS, said he first plans to get out among the people and find out their immediate problems.

"Then we can go from there to do what we possibly can to bring about a solution to problems confronting the Navajo people," he said.

After World War II he moved to Flagstaff and went to work at the Navajo Ordnance Depot, an Army facility. He still holds the job.

Pilot Survives Two Days In Subzero Wilderness

some fishing bait made by one of the companies. "It said on the box it's fit for human consumption," he added.

To keep warm in the 15-20 below zero weather Bonham cut the sleeves off a jacket and made some mittens. He also wore an overcoat and an insulated vest.

He made no effort to find his way out of the area Monday because it was overcast. He said he realized that search planes would not spot him because the wreckage was covered by a new blanket of snow and was hidden by big trees.

The Civil Air Patrol searched for two days without results.

But Tuesday morning Bonham was out up a 45-degree slope in six feet of snow. He said it took him six hours to cover the mile and a half to U.S. 50.

Rosenquist drove Bonham to a Salida hospital where he was examined and released. Dr. Stephen Phillips said Bonham had several minor cuts and showed some of the effects of the hours he spent in the frigid outdoors.

Immediately after the examination, two members of the Ft. Carson Emergency Squadron of CAP, who had gone on the search and were in Salida at the moment, picked up Bonham and drove him to Denver. The two CAP members were two brothers, 2nd Lt. Mark Engle and 2nd Lt. Fred Engle.

Bonham insisted on going immediately to Denver, where he was to set up a display at a sport and travel show.

"I spent $200 on a booth and I want to be there," he said.

Bonham's wife, in Los Angeles, said her husband had been flying for about 15 years.

"He flipped over once before making a night-time landing on a snow-covered field in Idaho about six years ago," Mrs. Bonham said, adding, "He wasn't hurt that time, either."

Mrs. Bonham said she wasn't worried. "I knew he could take care of any situation."

The Bonhams have two children Nine, 15, and Ray, 20.

Mrs. Bonham said her husband regularly uses a plane to cover his territory in the Western states. He has his own plane, but was flying a friend's when he crashed, she said.

JFK Admits Four Fliers Killed at Bay of Pigs

He said the men were flying support voluntarily.

He said that because of the nature of their work it has not been possible to make details of their flight public as might have been the case if they were official members of the armed forces.

The President reiterated the four were in service of their country but said it isn't helpful to the United States to go into details.

Soon after the question period began, the President was asked about the four U.S. aviators who lost their lives in the ill-fated Bay of Pigs Cuban invasion. Were they employes of the government or the CIA?

Kennedy did not directly answer the question. He said it was a voluntary flight, and that the men were serving their country. Many times over the past years, Kennedy said, Americans have served their nation but he added that it isn't helpful to U.S. interests to go into details.

Kennedy was asked a three-part questions, about the number of Russian military personnel in Cuba, but he obviously didn't want to make any comment on this.

"No," he said. "My answer would be no to all of them."

To a further question, Kennedy said he had seen charges that the administration has held up information on the Soviet buildup in Cuba.

"In hindsight," he said, "perhaps we could have picked up this information a few days earlier—but not many days earlier."

The President added that, "I feel the intelligence services did a very good job."

After all, he said, the missile bases were detected and exposed.

Kennedy was asked also about plans for continuing to deal with the Cuban problem, especially what he may discuss during his forthcoming visit to Costa Rica.

The President said the problem is people coming and leaving Cuba. The problem is one for other Latin-American countries, he said —each country for itself must keep track of these comings and goings, who the people are and what happens to them. Also, he said, there are the questions of trade, diplomatic representation and the West.

He would hope, he went on, that the other American republics would work with the United States in trying to isolate communism in Cuba.

A newsman said various Kennedy policies abroad and at home are encountering difficulties, and asked for comment on suggestions the administration has lost its momentum.

Kennedy agreed there are such difficulties—that Congress has not yet acted on programs submitted, some difficulties in Europe have arisen because the military threat is less and other problems have come to the fore.

But, he said, in the summer of 1961 Reserves were being called up because of a possible collision with the Soviet Union over Berlin, and the present situation is certainly not so dangerous.

He said Cuba is still a problem, but not a military threat as it was.

He said that if asked if this was "our winter of discontent," he would say no.

Kennedy was asked about a note to the U.N. from Havana which purported to deal with a friendlier attitude between this nation and Cuba. He said he understands that though this may have been in the note in Cuba it was not included in the one finally delivered in New York. Many of the issues aren't negotiable anyway, he said.

And, he said, there is no indication that the Cuban government wants to discuss its differences with the United States.

Among other matters coming up:

ROCKEFELLER—Kennedy was asked about a charge by New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller that he had been appointing "segregationist" judges in the South.

The President said he felt that, on the whole, the men appointed by him and by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had "done a remarkable job" on the civil rights question.

BUDGET—Asked about Republican talk of cutting government spending, Kennedy said there already had been deep cuts made in the budget presented to Congress. He suggested that if the Republicans wanted to make warlike speeches "it doesn't seem to me that we should be cutting our defense spending."

He also said the United States had made a commitment that it wasn't going to be second in space, or national security.

Russian spending for defense has been increased, he said.

NUCLEAR—Kennedy said it is not the administration position that a treaty would be accepted that would allow underground testing by the Russians to go on indefinitely. He said moreover the Senate would not approve such a treaty.

There is a good way to go before any agreement can be reached with the Soviet Union not only regarding the number of inspections, but the area in which the inspectors can operate, he went on.

CANADA — Asked about trade relations with Canada, Kennedy said there are regular consultations of the problems. He added, "I would hope that the United States and Canada, having been drawn together by nature, would be able to cooperate."

the four-state area were closed. Many towns were isolated. Schools and industrial plants were closed in some communities. Train and bus service was delayed and in some places halted.

A tornado and severe windstorms swept across areas in Alabama and Georgia Tuesday. A twister which struck the Birmingham, Ala., area damaged about 85 buildings in nearby Bessemer and other suburban areas. Several persons were injured. Property damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars. Two persons were injured and several houses damaged in a violent wind storm in Cave Springs, Ga.

About 1,000 families were made temporarily homeless by the surging waters in West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania. An estimated 500 persons have been forced to leave their homes in Indiana.

In Athens, Ohio, about 800 students were evacuated from four dormitories at Ohio University Tuesday night as the Hocking River overflowed lowlying areas of the campus. Several dozen families also were forced to leave their homes. Athens, a town of 16,470 in southeastern Ohio, was completely cut off from other communities, with all highways and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks inundated.

In Warren County, in southern Ohio, the number of evacuees totaled more than 400 families.

In West Virginia, the Ohio River rose to flood stage from Wheeling southward into Kentucky. In Cincinnati the big river was expected to crest sometime Saturday at 57 feet, five feet above flood stage. It also appeared headed for crests above flood stage in Huntington, W. Va., Ashland, Ky., and Maysville, Ky., within the next three days.

Flood conditions in western Pennsylvania appeared generally improving. The crest of the Monongahela River passed Braddock and was expected to pass Pittsburgh without major overflows.

In Indiana, many rivers and streams headed toward expected crests above flood stage but the end of heavy rains eased the threat of major overflows.

Some flooding was reported in Maryland, with about 25 houses damaged in Crellin, in the western part of the state, after the Youghiogeny River spilled over its banks. Many highways in the area were inundated.

Outside the flood areas, rain fell in Georigia, the Carolinas and Virginia and moved eastward. Another belt of rain extended from the Ohio Valley eastward to the Atlantic Coast. Freezing rain mixed with snow pelted New England. Gale warnings were posted along the coast.

No severe cold weather was reported. Temperatures ranged from near zero in northern Maine to the 70s in southern Florida.

Judges Grant Ten Divorces

The following were given by Judge G. Russell Miller: Senida Lee from Major T. Lee, Feb. 21; Clarence Edward Bryan from Lilian Irene Bryan, Feb. 25; Georgia Christ Rich from James L. Rich, Feb. 27; Irma D. Journeay from James R. Journeay, Feb. 28; and Opal Pearl Cader from Charles William Cader; Doreen J. Goodman from Stephen B. Goodman; C. Sharon Yvonne Murphy from Joseph Clifford Murphy; Anita Reker from Norman C. Reker, all March 1.

Judge William M. Calvert granted a divorce to Lucy Mary Salazar from Philip Ned Salazar, Feb. 28; and Judge Hunter D. Hardeman to Alice C. Wallace from Marshall W. Wallave Wallace, March 1.

Water System Bond Election Approved Here

A $355,000 bond election to install a water system for Falcon Estate homes was approved Tuesday by a vote of 32 to 14.

A spokesman for the Woodmen Water and Sanitation District said the bonds will be handled by Boettcher and Company and bids for the water system will be let immediately.

Final installation is expected to be completed by July 1. Approximately 35 homes in the area now have their water supply from private wells.

ton and resigning Provost Oswald Tippo, and said it would support "a new president who has only the highest academic aims."

Eighty-seven per cent of about 225 faculty members voting at Tuesday night's meeting favored a statement circulated among the faculty on campus Monday and Tuesday, which said "this is a critical juncture in the life" of CU. The statement was signed by 390 faculty members.

The statement said "the future of the university hangs in the balance, for it must be decided whether or not the present intellectual growth can be continued."

Neither Newton, Tippo, both of whom resign effective June 30, attended the meeting, in which faculty members:

—Said they "deeply regret (the) resignations," and praised both administrators.

—Urged other officials to remain at their jobs.

—Asked the Board of Regents to refrain from entering "personal or political" squabbles and instead to confine themselves to broad policy.

—Assured students the faculty would remain dedicated to teaching and the pursuit of truth.

—Appealed for more financial support from the state.

—Said CU had become a "strong intellectual, teaching and research center.

The statement also called for more information about higher salaries, more money for scholarships, more doctoral degrees, and more graduate students.

It said to the regents:

"Although your office is elective, the issues that you must consider your province are not personal or political, but pertain only to the welfare of the university."

Newton will become president of the Commonwealth Foundation of New York; Tippo the head of the liberal arts colleges and graduate school of liberal arts at New York University, the nation's largest private school.

The scheduled departures triggered reports of a personnel crisis.

Newton and Tippo were involved in a long-standing political controversy, pitting "liberals" against "conservatives" in a fight over administration of the university.

Newton, an arch-foe of Republican Regent Charles D. Bromley, announced his resignation shortly after Bromley won apparent electoral support for his criticism of Newton's administration, and was re-elected in November.

The faculty members Tuesday night said they "deplore the circumstances under which (the resignations) occurred."

Another problem reportedly was a prospect for a tight budget from the Republican-controlled State Legislature, which would mean minimum salary increases, a factor against which Newton continually fought.

Colorado Gov. John Love, a Republican, said Tuesday he was "confident that the amount recommended in my budget was adequate to give salary increases and carry on the program of a great university."

Reports of concern for the future stability of the university took note of an apparent stall in selection of a president to succeed Newton. No likely successor has emerged after several meetings of the regents.

Telephone Sales Expert Holds Two-Hour Clinic

A Los Angeles telephone sales expert held a two - hour clinic Tuesday night in the General Palmer Room of the Antlers Hotel attended by 500 persons.

Jack Schwartz, who is billed as "America's Greatest Telephone Salesman," was brought to Colorado Springs by the Home Builders Association and the Colorado Springs Board of Realtors who sponsored the clinic, assisted by the Colorado Title Guaranty Co. and the First National Bank.

Using the telephone as a sales weapon, Schwartz pointed out the simplicity of its use by outlining three methods: put a smile in your voice; funnel your thoughts into the proper attitude, and get across to the listener that you believe sincerely in what you're saying.

The speaker gave a live demonstration of his technique by making actual calls to local people, none of which were arranged before the meeting. This allowed the audience to listen in to both conversations.

This was Schwartz's second clinic here in the past three years. A question and answer period followed his talk.

Auto Driver Reports His Misadventures

He had turned into his driveway when the accelerator stuck and the car rammed the garage.

He put the car in reverse, the accelerator stuck again, and the car shot backwards into a utility pole.

Still hopeful of making the car go where he wanted it to, Boehm put the car in forward gear and tried again.

Yes, the accelerator stuck again. This time the car hit the front steps of the house.

20th Century-Fox Studio Will Be Put to Work

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — 20th Century-Fox studio today was embarked on a motion picture production schedule which President Darryl F. Zanuck says will keep the studio from shutting down permanently.

"Officially, the studio is open," said Zanuck here. "For the time being at least, the bulldozers will not raze us."

Zanuck, who replaced Spyros Skouras as president last year, said Fox would produce 14 films this year at an estimated cost of $50 million. He said 10 of the films were expected to be made in Hollywood while four would be shot in foreign countries. Last year Fox made four of the total of 87 pictures filmed in Hollywood.

Zanuck also told a news conference that the filming of "Cleopatra" was completed officially at 6 p.m. Monday London time. He said the studio would have to make about $62 million to break even on the film.

"The picture will open June 12 in New York and there are no seats available for the first four months—at a $5.50 top," he said.

200 Polaris Missiles Proposed for NATO

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The international nuclear force which the United States has proposed would have about 200 Polaris missiles.

Details of the proposed multilateral nuclear force were disclosed Monday as presidential envoy Livingston Merchant set out to sell it in NATO capitals.

Other details of the force:

—The missiles would be mounted on 25 or more surface vessels, with no more than eight to a ship.

—The United States expects the European members of the force to pay more than half the costs of the fleet.

—Any participant—including the United States—would have the right to veto a firing order.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Why Not Walk to School

Now that the nation has embarked frantically on a hiking fiesta, it might serve the purpose to make a few pertinent observations. The way the folks around the country are plunging out into the wintry weather to walk the prescribed fifty miles is just a trifle on the ludicrous side. Like the President's tax proposals, the fifty mile hike recommended doesn't seem to make too much sense.

But we'll tell you what we think does make sense. It's a comment recently made by N. V. Gorman, superintendent of Harrison Elementary School in District No. 2. Gorman says that instead of hauling all the kiddies to school every day in buses, he thinks the young people could walk to school. . .nothing like fifty miles . . .and solve their physical fitness and the congested bus picture all at the same time.

Here we are in the midst of spending millions upon millions of dollars to provide gymnasium palaces for the young people. The new high school scheduled for construction east of town will boast TWO gyms, PLUS a swimming pool, PLUS a wrestling room. And you can wager right here and now that the school board will next be knocking on the door for the money to buy a fleet of new buses so that the young people who will be going to this school can ride in comfort.

Instead of buying the buses, and instead of building these indoor palaces for deep knee-bending and dumbbell exercising, why not just let the youngsters walk to school? A couple of miles each day will add up to fifty miles in five weeks and the problem has been solved.

We doubt if there is a physical fitness expert in the nation but would advocate a certain amount of walking every day, rather than a big hike once a year.

Elderly citizens who have developed a certain amount of excess baggage thru the years could send themselves to the hospital by taking the President at face value for that fifty-mile olympic. But some walking every day wouldn't hurt even the most elderly. And it certainly wouldn't hurt the young people, while a fifty-mile trek thru the countryside, even by young people, is fraught with all kinds of risk.

Trouble with so many Americans, we are all subject to fads and crazes. So many don't like to think a problem thru. We just like to do what everyone else is doing. And that can get us all into lots of trouble.

As a matter of fact, this tendency, induced by government schools in the first place, helps to bring on mass conformity, the very thing that relegates society to mediocrity and plays hob with the few who could be outstanding.

Actually, from a purely personal viewpoint, we think that a bit of everyday walking, either to or from home or business, or chasing a golf ball over the links, is about all that is indicated. We don't require a nation of athletes as much as we require a nation of people who have learned not to conform but to seek truth. It's the development of our mental powers which is lacking, not the development of our muscles.

Most of us haven't the time, anyhow, to go traipsing across the countryside in an endeavor to set some kind of record or to break in a pair of hiking shoes we'll never use a second time. We're too busy trying to earn the money to pay Mr. Kennedy's salary and expenses to take that much time away from our work.

So, we'd like to suggest that a fifty-mile plunge into an intellectual endeavor would be more in harmony with national requirements, and a modest daily walk will take care of the physical end of it without too much bother.

Anyhow, we're happy with Superintendent Gorman. Hope he doesn't discover that the NEA is after his scalp for his wise observation.

Recognition

Lots of times we don't recognize our golden opportunity until we see it working for our competitor.

Defeating 'the Enemy' Begins at Home

One of the most common devices employed by criminals seeking to bring off a major robbery is to create a diversion at some point other than the target of their depredation. When law-enforcement men converge at the place where the diversion has occurred, the coast is clear for the real criminal operation.

A similar tactic is standard operating procedure in the military hand-book on aggression. If you want to capture Objective X, you create a mock attack on Objective Y, hoping that the defensive forces will be fooled into a major commitment of troops and equipment at the wrong place.

In short, if you want to rob the house, set the barn on fire.

With this simple reminder, let us consider the danger besetting us thru the advent of alien philosophies in our country. If YOU were a communist intent upon "burying" us, what would be one of the first things you would do?

We submit that it would be an excellent tactic for you to do your best to entice that portion of the public which molds opinion to stop worrying about local conditions in this country and concentrate on foreign affairs.

In other words, you'd do your best to start the Cuban barn to burning; or the French barn, or the Canadian barn. Because, while everyone's attention was diverted to these remote or semi-remote areas, your own actions calculated to enslave the American people would seem so much less important.

We are reminded of this every time someone writes to us or telephones that they wish we'd discuss something IMPORTANT for a change, and tell them our view of Laos, or Red China or the Middle East, or Berlin, or scores of other places outside the continental limits of this country.

We are even reminded of it when we are told that we ought to concentrate our energies on what is going on in Washington, D. C., and forget the local picture. Local, home - grown socialism never appears to be important to the person who fails to examine the conflict in terms of principles.

Actually, we know many people, for we hear from them constantly, who have in recent years become self-appointed experts on affairs in Venezuela, Argentina, Cuba, South Africa, Taiwan and India. They can recite in detail the evils which have beset Katanga Province in the Congo. They can come close to furnishing us with the casualty list in the sporadic war we have been waging in Siam and Cambodia. (We still prefer those names.)

But these same folks don't seem to grasp the fact that a war is being conducted in these United States against their own freedom. They don't seem to be aware, for instance, that Colorado Springs is the headquarters for a major offensive being waged against freedom of the press in New York City and Cleveland, also that "negotiations have reached critical stages in Boston, Washington, and Baltimore," according to Editor and Publisher magazine for March 2. They don't seem to grasp that they are in daily contact with people who, thru disinterest or improper emphasis, are aiding and abetting the "burying" process.

Not only are they in contact with these people, but they continue to deal with them on friendly terms whereas, were the problem removed to some place beyond the Atlantic, they would be howling in rage and anguish and demanding that "something be done."

We would argue that our willingness to be distracted by affairs beyond our borders tends to create the distraction that is causing us to try to put out other people's fires while our own house is being robbed.

It always seems easy to solve other people's problems from a distance. The greater the distance, the easier it is to come up with a "solution."

Before we try to serve as universal fireman for the world, we ought to be very certain that our own problems are first under control.

Nation's Press

Stalemate or Hold-Up

From Editor & Publisher

Last week-end 17 days and nights of intensive negotiations between the Publishers Association of New York City and the president of ITU's "Big Six" held under the auspices and the prodding of New York's Mayor Wagner came to a futile end. There is no date set for a resumption of meetings or of the so - called "negotiations." After ten weeks of a strike that is probably the most costly in the history of the newspaper business the situation seems to be exactly where it was when the ITU walked out on the night of December 7.

The day after the termination of the meetings at New York City Hall, Bertram Powers issued a statement to his ITU members citing eight "principal items yet to be resolved" which included: (1) the expiration date of October 31, 1964; (2) shorter work week; (3) reproduction; (4) outside tape; (5) increased night and lobster shift differentials; (6) increased sick leave; (7) retroactivity of sick leave and vacation eligibility credit; (8) wages paid." Mr. Powers said: "While the above mentioned items do not represent a complete list of matters to be resolved, I believe the list is sufficient to show the area of difference existing between the parties."

Some people have called the situation a "stalemate." One need only read a single paragraph from the statement of the Publishers Association of New York City, issued on that same day, to see that what people call a "stalemate" is actually a hold-up. Study, if you will, and read between the lines of this part of the publishers' statement:

"After sixty-six days of intensive negotiation with the assistance of the Secretary of Labor, Federal, State and City mediators, and especially during the last two weeks with the Mayor of the City of New York, we have reached the conclusion that a settlement thru normal processes of collective bargaining with the Typographical Union will be extremely difficult, if not impossible. A long test of economic strength appears inevitable unless the publishers accede to the imposition of expense burdens which they are convinced the papers cannot absorb."

What this means is that the employers have gone about as far as they can go in concessions to the strikers within the economic limitations of the newspaper business in New York. The economic limitations are imposed to a major degree by "conditions" specified in the contract.

It means, in essence, that the striking members of the International Typographical Union, led by a president who avowed at the beginning that it would be a long strike even if it meant the death of one or two newspapers, fortified by a strike fund of $2,000,000 a month plus the assistance of the people of New York State in the form of unemployment pay for the strikers, are in the position of staying "out" with relatively little discomfort. For the publishers it is a question of mortgaging their future in order to get the presses rolling again, and they have unanimously agreed that they have increased the mortgage to its maximum limitation with the package they have offered to ITU.

There were 20,000 people employed by New York papers before the strike. Only 2,900 of them are members of the striking union. How long are the 17,100 other newspaper workers going to tolerate a situation where each additional strike day, each additional concession forced from the publishers, creates further jeopardy to the business from which they have earned their livelihood? The economics of the strike are so well known it is impossible to comprehend thousands of supposedly intelligent people standing idle and watching their futures being flushed down the drain.

RIGHT OF WAY

To the Editor:

There is enough difference in traffic laws in Colorado to make it a contributing factor in the growing traffic accident incidence in Colorado.

State law says that at uncontrolled intersections the first car in the intersection has the right of way. But when one enters the city limits of most towns and cities in the state, their traffic code says the car on the right has the right of way.

Which is the way it should be all over the state.

In my opinion, giving the right of way to the first car into an uncontrolled intersection invites accidents to happen. Too many people will speed up when they see a car coming and if both do it, the result is inevitable, another smash-up.

It is impossible for the average driver to know when he is in city or county in most larger towns unless he comes in on a major highway. I know of no town that has a city limit sign on every street going into it. And it sure makes it confusing to drive into a town thru a residential area that has been built in the county adjoining a town.

State law prevails until one passes the city limits. First one into the intersection has the right of way on an uncontrolled intersection. Then as one passes into the city, the law changes. The car on the right has the right of way.

Colorado Springs is a rapidly growing city. So is El Paso County. Annexation of county property changes traffic regulations on every intersection brought into the city. It would make for a lot less headaches if the State of Colorado would change its traffic laws and give all cars on the right the right of way at uncontrolled intersections. It would stop the rat races for the intersections. That is for sure. It would eliminate a lot of accidents.

DUST STORM

To the Editor:

We've all seen pictures of dust storms out here on the Old Frontier where one could peer but a few feet ahead thru the blackness. But on the New Frontier, I'm afraid visibility is down to zero in the swirling sands of confusion in one aspect, at least. I'm speaking of the pathetically short sighted proposal to penalize taxpayers in the so-called federal "tax reform" bill, for giving to charity, churches, schools, colleges, building funds, etc.

Said New York State's Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson in a recent speech, "I feel this provision is so significant. . .to the charitable, religious and eleemosynary institutions who cannot survive without. . .voluntary support, that there should be a greater public awareness. . .and a fuller expression of opinion to the members of Congress who have the President's" proposal before them.

Mr. Wilson said: "(The) devastating. . .effect. . . on every worthwhile activity which depends on voluntary contributions" becomes obvious when one considers that "every taxpayer who itemizes his deductions (and 25,000,000 do) may deduct only the excess over five per cent of his adjusted gross income. . ." This means paying a tax "range next year of from eighteen and one-half to eighty-four and one-half per cent" on contributions up to five per cent of one's income.

If ever citizen - uplifting institutions needed encouragement, it is NOW, in this crime-drenched era. But what do we see? The government, instead of encouraging them, giving them a slap in the face.

Protest this five per cent thing to your congressmen immediately, before your church, your college, your favorite charity, etc., is dealt a below-the-belt blow.

GOOD DOLLARS

To the Editor:

Some cannot understand why Americans are now more interested in cuts in government spending than they are in tax cuts and costly new political schemes, yet the reasons should be obvious.

Americans, forced to become so dependent upon government for most everything from child aid at birth to relief and subsidies to social security retirement benefits, are now acutely aware of the need for sound government finances, reduced spending, balanced budgets and a safe, staple dollar. They want to be sure the government can pay off in good dollars when it comes their turn to collect.

ON UNDERSTANDING

To the Editor:

Although most contemporarily enlightened individuals of the world seem to have similar goals, their methods vary considerably. Yet, there is another area in which all individuals vary still more. This is in the area of interpretation and expression. This, in turn, is much involved with semantics, the science of word meanings.

Most individuals, this writer included, seem to use words as he thinks they mean or should mean, in immediate present usage: irrespective of opposite or different meanings, they may have had, from time to time in the past or even the interpretations they may have in contemporary dictionaries. This, of course, is not necessarily bad but deserves each individual's continual awareness and understanding.

To The Point

The Man Who Saw the Devil

By RUSSELL KIRK

There died in Mallorca, some weeks ago, the poet Carlos Obregon, a Don Quixote of our time. He died in an asylum, from electric-shock treatments that were supposed to cure him of his madness. His infatuation had been this: that he frequently saw the Devil, and contended against that evil presence.

In medieval times, Obregon might have been canonized for his obsession, rather than subjected to scientific torment, it being then the custom to put men on the rack for heresy, not orthodoxy. Like Don Quixote, Obregon must be cured of his madness, his friends thought; but, as with the Knight of the Sorrowful Countenance, the cure killed.

As the cavalier of La Mancha contended against giants and enchanters, so Obregon was in arms against the Devil. While fighting the fiend, he was a happy warrior. He perceived the Devil at parties, on the stairs, in the streets. With him Obregon often carried a little wooden hand, on a stick, with which he blessed people menaced by Satan. "Have you seen the Devil recently?" he would inquire of children, most earnestly. Although sometimes it embarrassed his hosts at social gatherings, the poet's war with the Prince of Darkness did no living soul any mischief, and may have done good.

Spanish is the language of faith, and Spaniards are the most passionate of religious visionaries: witness St. Teresa of Avila, St. John of the Cross, St. Ignatius Loyola. And glimpses of the Devil used to be common enough in all lands, during the Ages of Faith, so that the monk Martin Luther flung his ink-bottle at the fell shape which came to him in his cell. But nowadays, even in orthodox Spain, men will not credit the possibility of incarnate Evil taking fleshly semblance. Obregon's sister used to slip opiates into his drink, so as to quiet him down in his public visions. Yet as the phantasm of the Devil faded from Obregon's sight, he would sink into profound and huddled melancholy: his old Enemy gone, the visionary poet found life not worth living.

To struggle cheerfully against a visible Devil, however eccentric it may make a man appear, is no moral error. The diabolical is at work in the modern world, as in all epochs: indeed, the devil is in the flesh of even the best of us. But to suppose—as does the typical modern sentimental humanitarian—that Evil is a fiction, and that all of us are naturally good, is to commit a gross moral blunder. Deny a fact, and that fact will be your master. Deny the reality of Evil, and Evil will rule the world, soon or late.

As Don Quixote de la Mancha was more of a man than the rational, selfish, heartless folk whom he encountered in his peregrinations, so Obregon fought the good fight, according to his lights, against the Powers of the Air that trick and trap mankind; and in so acting, he was more fully human than those who fancied they could snap him back to dull normality through electrical tortures. Wherever Obregon may be, the Devil does not have him now.

Allen-Scott Report

Johnson Rejects Award

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON.—A mystery - shrouded change of mind by Vice President Lyndon Johnson is causing bewildered consternation among officials of the Four Freedoms Foundation.

Without the slightest hint or explanation, Johnson has decided he doesn't want the award the liberal organization bestows annually for "distinguished service in the cause of freedom."

Particular reason for the foundation officials' pained perturbation is that last year the Texan agreed to accept their award.

At that time the formal elaborate presentation, with a widely publicized speech by Johnson, was postponed because of the protracted session of Congress, the hot election battle climaxed by the Cuban missile crisis, and inability to mesh a date into Johnson's busy schedule.

It was therefore decided to delay the ceremony until this winter or spring. Recently three dates were proposed to Johnson when the desired hotel banquet auditorium would be available.

His reply was to indicate he didn't want the award; that he desired the whole affair to be shelved and forgotten.

THE POSSIBLE REASON

Some foundation officials favor appealing to Johnson to reconsider. Others, hot under the collar, are vigorously for withdrawing the award and offering it to either President Kennedy or his brother, the Attorney General.

Whether they would accept is not known. They would have to be sounded out on that.

Ironically, exactly that was proposed last year before the award was tagged for Johnson. But friends of his urged it be given him first and then presented to one of the Kennedys in 1964—a presidential election year. Now that neat strategy has apparently backfired because of Johnson's mysterious change of mind.

The Four Freedoms Foundation, organized in 1951 to "perpetuate the ideals of the Four Freedoms of President Franklin D. Roosevelt," distributes literature to schools, sponsors essay contest and presents an award to a nationally known leader. Judge Ferdinand Pecora, one-time New Deal Wall Street investigator, heads the foundation.

Recipients include former President Truman, the late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the late General George Marshall, World War II chief of staff, Dr. Ralph Bunche, former Governor Averell Harriman, former Philippine Ambassador Carlos Romulo, former UN Ambassador and 1960 Republican Vice Presidential Candidate Henry Cabot Lodge, and AFL-CIO President George Meany, the latest recipient.

Johnson is deeply grieved by the bitter cuffing he got from liberals in and out of Congress in the recent protracted but futile fight to curb filibusters. The militants charged him with ruling against them at crucial showdowns.

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert Humphrey, Minn., and some other liberals warmly defended Johnson. But that hasn't assuaged his unhappiness.

State Department officials are still quivering from the jolt they got from Senator Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn.

"The Secretary would like very much to give you a briefing on U.S. relations with France," explained the assistant. "The Secretary feels that would give you a better understanding of our position as regards De Gaulle's policy of creating an independent nuclear force."

"All right," replied McCarthy amiably. "I'll set aside three days next week and you or anyone else the Secretary designates can come up and brief me."

"Oh," exclaimed the State Department official, "all that time won't be necessary. All I will need is about one hour."

"In that case don't bother," retorted McCarthy. "To really understand De Gaulle it will be necessary to cover at least the last several hundred years of French history. That should take about three days if it is done right. If all you are prepared to present is an hour briefing, then forget it. You can't tell the whole De Gaulle story in one hour or one day."

McCarthy has heard nothing more about briefing him on the administration's boggled relations with "Le Grand Charlie."

McCarthy is working on a Senate speech that will blast the administration-supported Sugar Act passed by Congress last year. He will charge it is costing U.S. consumers more than $200 million in higher sugar prices.

POLITICALS—

R. Burdell Bixby, close to former Governor Thomas Dewey, is a strong dark horse possibility as the next New York Republican State Chairman. From Hudson, N.Y., Bixby was formerly state GOP treasurer and head of the New York Thruway Authority. Other strong aspirants for the state chairmanship are also in the field, and the selection won't be made until after the legislature adjourns in the spring......Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert Humphrey, Minn., was decidedly not pleased by the omission of any reference to him in President Kennedy's message to Congress urging the establishment of a National Youth Corps. Humphrey has been vigorously battling for this for several years, long before the President said a word about it. Humphrey's Senate colleagues are making no bones of their ire at this glaring slight to him.

During Governor "Pat" Brown's stay in Washington last week, the Californian ducked every effort to draw him out about running for President or Vice President. He flatly refused to discuss either possibility. But his partisans are not so shy, and make no bones about favoring him for one of these places. Some are going so far as saying Brown may "wind up on the 1964 ticket." Asked what they mean by that, they smile knowingly and reply, "Wait and see. A lot can happen in politics."

Question Box

Question No. 158: "Cuban exiles have been arrested and charged with violation of the Neutrality Act. What Neutrality Act are they violating? Can the Neutrality Act of 1935 be used by the President to deny patriotic Cuban exiles the right to liberate their homeland?" Signed: Mrs. Dale E. Rallison, 836 E. Clemensen Ave., Santa Ana.

Answer: We do not know what neutrality act is being violated.

We suppose the President and his administration can use any of its man-made laws to arrest anyone they consider to be in violation.

It seems to us the United States government of the current and immediately preceding administration have taken sides in internal affairs of Cuba — first by encouraging Castro forces to overthrow the Batista forces in Cuba, then seeking to maintain the Castro administration in power.

If it is true that the United States did not discourage the Castro forces on this shore who were building up a revolution in Cuba, it would seem that equality would demand there be no interference with those seeking to overthrow Castro.

If we truly were neutral, we would neither encourage nor discourage Castro or his opposition.

We will attempt to answer any question pertaining to the means used to improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth. The means, of course, predetermine the results.

Evolutionary Application

By G. BOARDMAN, Ph. D.

The philosophy of freedom involves an evolutionary application of specific principles to known or presently unknown problems and conditions, and to increased awareness and comprehension. For instance, three or four years ago I stated my belief that government must be gradually reduced in size and cost and power to some agonizing minimum before human beings may begin to look for the road to freedom. Today I see that human beings must desire their individual freedom before the size and cost and power of government will be subjected to reduction.

In the first instance, I placed myself in the position of a person on a diet who wants the candy removed so he or she will not eat it. This suggests a lack of self - responsibility and a lot of wishful thinking.

Government has no intention of doing anything which might reduce its size and cost and power. To imagine a man seeking power for the express purpose of minimizing power involves some real, earnest wishful thinking. We find, then, that any limiting process must originate with the people who want to remove the bloated parasitical growth from their own backs. To discourage the parasite, we can begin by taking away the extra goodies.

We are unable to avoid paying taxes. We can refuse to aid the growth of the parasite by refusing the bone or dole the parasite tosses to us in exchange for its free ride. Since the parasite has nothing to begin with, each bone it tosses to us is created by our own efforts and creative ability and the more bones we accept, the more we must work for our enslaver. There isn't a chance that the parasite will ever get tired of being carried and jump down off our backs voluntarily. We might be foolish enough to decide we can remove the parasites by backing up hard against a stone wall but the parasite will just jump down until we break our own backs and then hop on again.

We will be wise to remember a couple or three things about parasites. They are insensately hungry and greedy. They prefer to be called "leaders" as they ride on our backs and direct our energies for their benefit.

You can hurt the feelings of a parasite by calling it a parasite but it will toss you a few more bones under that circumstance because it knows it cannot exist without you. Naturally, it will try to force the tail to wag the horse and make you believe you cannot exist without it, but it doesn't take much in the way of common sense to straighten out the facts.

Tomorrow, a man may buy one stamp instead of two and the parasite on his back is weakened by exactly that amount. The next day he may find his own job instead of waiting for his parasite to find a job for him. He may even accept employment at a lower salary in order to provide a little less for the parasites. He may refuse a farm or business loan, he may refuse to send his children to the socialized schools operated by the parasites, he may even walk instead of paying gasoline taxes. Every time he manages to prevent the parasite from grabbing even one penny, he weakens it by one penny. Sure, the parasite stays on your back but he becomes weaker and, eventually, skinnier.

To begin with, you may believe the parasites are able to protect you from one thing or another. Later, you discover how the idiot yanked on one of your ears and then on another, exerting his "leadership" until one more step would have put you over the cliff. You begin to realize you need a great deal of protection, that you must protect yourself from the parasites, that one parasite will not protect you from another parasite unless he figures you'll feed him better than did his last slave or host. You may, now, become an unwilling host and begin to move around in imitation of a free man, making the ride less comfortable for the parasite.

As the parasite becomes weaker he may panic. He will talk and talk and talk and make more and more wild promises; he'll even show you how to get to the moon, at your expense. In hysterical reaction to your unwillingness, he may throw his arms around your head, blinding you to make you willing to accept his guidance. By this time the evolution has taught you that the road to freedom is clean and straight and that you can walk on it blindfolded because there will be nothing to trip you up.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Why Not Walk to School

Now that the nation has embarked frantically on a hiking fiesta, it might serve the purpose to make a few pertinent observations. The way the folks around the country are plunging out into the wintry weather to walk the prescribed fifty miles is just a trifle on the ludicrous side. Like the President's tax proposals, the fifty mile hike recommended doesn't seem to make too much sense.

But we'll tell you what we think does make sense. It's a comment recently made by N. V. Gorman, superintendent of Harrison Elementary School in District No. 2. Gorman says that instead of hauling all the kiddies to school every day in buses, he thinks the young people could walk to school. . .nothing like fifty miles . . .and solve their physical fitness and the congested bus picture all at the same time.

Here we are in the midst of spending millions upon millions of dollars to provide gymnasium palaces for the young people. The new high school scheduled for construction east of town will boast TWO gyms, PLUS a swimming pool, PLUS a wrestling room. And you can wager right here and now that the school board will next be knocking on the door for the money to buy a fleet of new buses so that the young people who will be going to this school can ride in comfort.

Instead of buying the buses, and instead of building these indoor palaces for deep knee-bending and dumbbell exercising, why not just let the youngsters walk to school? A couple of miles each day will add up to fifty miles in five weeks and the problem has been solved.

We doubt if there is a physical fitness expert in the nation but would advocate a certain amount of walking every day, rather than a big hike once a year.

Elderly citizens who have developed a certain amount of excess baggage thru the years could send themselves to the hospital by taking the President at face value for that fifty-mile olympic. But some walking every day wouldn't hurt even the most elderly. And it certainly wouldn't hurt the young people, while a fifty-mile trek thru the countryside, even by young people, is fraught with all kinds of risk.

Trouble with so many Americans, we are all subject to fads and crazes. So many don't like to think a problem thru. We just like to do what everyone else is doing. And that can get us all into lots of trouble.

As a matter of fact, this tendency, induced by government schools in the first place, helps to bring on mass conformity, the very thing that relegates society to mediocrity and plays hob with the few who could be outstanding.

Actually, from a purely personal viewpoint, we think that a bit of everyday walking, either to or from home or business, or chasing a golf ball over the links, is about all that is indicated. We don't require a nation of athletes as much as we require a nation of people who have learned not to conform but to seek truth. It's the development of our mental powers which is lacking, not the development of our muscles.

Most of us haven't the time, anyhow, to go traipsing across the countryside in an endeavor to set some kind of record or to break in a pair of hiking shoes we'll never use a second time. We're too busy trying to earn the money to pay Mr. Kennedy's salary and expenses to take that much time away from our work.

So, we'd like to suggest that a fifty-mile plunge into an intellectual endeavor would be more in harmony with national requirements, and a modest daily walk will take care of the physical end of it without too much bother.

Anyhow, we're happy with Superintendent Gorman. Hope he doesn't discover that the NEA is after his scalp for his wise observation.

Recognition

Lots of times we don't recognize our golden opportunity until we see it working for our competitor.

Defeating 'the Enemy' Begins at Home

One of the most common devices employed by criminals seeking to bring off a major robbery is to create a diversion at some point other than the target of their depredation. When law-enforcement men converge at the place where the diversion has occurred, the coast is clear for the real criminal operation.

A similar tactic is standard operating procedure in the military hand-book on aggression. If you want to capture Objective X, you create a mock attack on Objective Y, hoping that the defensive forces will be fooled into a major commitment of troops and equipment at the wrong place.

In short, if you want to rob the house, set the barn on fire.

With this simple reminder, let us consider the danger besetting us thru the advent of alien philosophies in our country. If YOU were a communist intent upon "burying" us, what would be one of the first things you would do?

We submit that it would be an excellent tactic for you to do your best to entice that portion of the public which molds opinion to stop worrying about local conditions in this country and concentrate on foreign affairs.

In other words, you'd do your best to start the Cuban barn to burning; or the French barn, or the Canadian barn. Because, while everyone's attention was diverted to these remote or semi-remote areas, your own actions calculated to enslave the American people would seem so much less important.

We are reminded of this every time someone writes to us or telephones that they wish we'd discuss something IMPORTANT for a change, and tell them our view of Laos, or Red China or the Middle East, or Berlin, or scores of other places outside the continental limits of this country.

We are even reminded of it when we are told that we ought to concentrate our energies on what is going on in Washington, D. C., and forget the local picture. Local, home - grown socialism never appears to be important to the person who fails to examine the conflict in terms of principles.

Actually, we know many people, for we hear from them constantly, who have in recent years become self-appointed experts on affairs in Venezuela, Argentina, Cuba, South Africa, Taiwan and India. They can recite in detail the evils which have beset Katanga Province in the Congo. They can come close to furnishing us with the casualty list in the sporadic war we have been waging in Siam and Cambodia. (We still prefer those names.)

But these same folks don't seem to grasp the fact that a war is being conducted in these United States against their own freedom. They don't seem to be aware, for instance, that Colorado Springs is the headquarters for a major offensive being waged against freedom of the press in New York City and Cleveland, also that "negotiations have reached critical stages in Boston, Washington, and Baltimore," according to Editor and Publisher magazine for March 2. They don't seem to grasp that they are in daily contact with people who, thru disinterest or improper emphasis, are aiding and abetting the "burying" process.

Not only are they in contact with these people, but they continue to deal with them on friendly terms whereas, were the problem removed to some place beyond the Atlantic, they would be howling in rage and anguish and demanding that "something be done."

We would argue that our willingness to be distracted by affairs beyond our borders tends to create the distraction that is causing us to try to put out other people's fires while our own house is being robbed.

It always seems easy to solve other people's problems from a distance. The greater the distance, the easier it is to come up with a "solution."

Before we try to serve as universal fireman for the world, we ought to be very certain that our own problems are first under control.

Nation's Press

Stalemate or Hold-Up

From Editor & Publisher

Last week-end 17 days and nights of intensive negotiations between the Publishers Association of New York City and the president of ITU's "Big Six" held under the auspices and the prodding of New York's Mayor Wagner came to a futile end. There is no date set for a resumption of meetings or of the so - called "negotiations." After ten weeks of a strike that is probably the most costly in the history of the newspaper business the situation seems to be exactly where it was when the ITU walked out on the night of December 7.

The day after the termination of the meetings at New York City Hall, Bertram Powers issued a statement to his ITU members citing eight "principal items yet to be resolved" which included: (1) the expiration date of October 31, 1964; (2) shorter work week; (3) reproduction; (4) outside tape; (5) increased night and lobster shift differentials; (6) increased sick leave; (7) retroactivity of sick leave and vacation eligibility credit; (8) wages paid." Mr. Powers said: "While the above mentioned items do not represent a complete list of matters to be resolved, I believe the list is sufficient to show the area of difference existing between the parties."

Some people have called the situation a "stalemate." One need only read a single paragraph from the statement of the Publishers Association of New York City, issued on that same day, to see that what people call a "stalemate" is actually a hold-up. Study, if you will, and read between the lines of this part of the publishers' statement:

"After sixty-six days of intensive negotiation with the assistance of the Secretary of Labor, Federal, State and City mediators, and especially during the last two weeks with the Mayor of the City of New York, we have reached the conclusion that a settlement thru normal processes of collective bargaining with the Typographical Union will be extremely difficult, if not impossible. A long test of economic strength appears inevitable unless the publishers accede to the imposition of expense burdens which they are convinced the papers cannot absorb."

What this means is that the employers have gone about as far as they can go in concessions to the strikers within the economic limitations of the newspaper business in New York. The economic limitations are imposed to a major degree by "conditions" specified in the contract.

It means, in essence, that the striking members of the International Typographical Union, led by a president who avowed at the beginning that it would be a long strike even if it meant the death of one or two newspapers, fortified by a strike fund of $2,000,000 a month plus the assistance of the people of New York State in the form of unemployment pay for the strikers, are in the position of staying "out" with relatively little discomfort. For the publishers it is a question of mortgaging their future in order to get the presses rolling again, and they have unanimously agreed that they have increased the mortgage to its maximum limitation with the package they have offered to ITU.

There were 20,000 people employed by New York papers before the strike. Only 2,900 of them are members of the striking union. How long are the 17,100 other newspaper workers going to tolerate a situation where each additional strike day, each additional concession forced from the publishers, creates further jeopardy to the business from which they have earned their livelihood? The economics of the strike are so well known it is impossible to comprehend thousands of supposedly intelligent people standing idle and watching their futures being flushed down the drain.

RIGHT OF WAY

To the Editor:

There is enough difference in traffic laws in Colorado to make it a contributing factor in the growing traffic accident incidence in Colorado.

State law says that at uncontrolled intersections the first car in the intersection has the right of way. But when one enters the city limits of most towns and cities in the state, their traffic code says the car on the right has the right of way.

Which is the way it should be all over the state.

In my opinion, giving the right of way to the first car into an uncontrolled intersection invites accidents to happen. Too many people will speed up when they see a car coming and if both do it, the result is inevitable, another smash-up.

It is impossible for the average driver to know when he is in city or county in most larger towns unless he comes in on a major highway. I know of no town that has a city limit sign on every street going into it. And it sure makes it confusing to drive into a town thru a residential area that has been built in the county adjoining a town.

State law prevails until one passes the city limits. First one into the intersection has the right of way on an uncontrolled intersection. Then as one passes into the city, the law changes. The car on the right has the right of way.

Colorado Springs is a rapidly growing city. So is El Paso County. Annexation of county property changes traffic regulations on every intersection brought into the city. It would make for a lot less headaches if the State of Colorado would change its traffic laws and give all cars on the right the right of way at uncontrolled intersections. It would stop the rat races for the intersections. That is for sure. It would eliminate a lot of accidents.

DUST STORM

To the Editor:

We've all seen pictures of dust storms out here on the Old Frontier where one could peer but a few feet ahead thru the blackness. But on the New Frontier, I'm afraid visibility is down to zero in the swirling sands of confusion in one aspect, at least. I'm speaking of the pathetically short sighted proposal to penalize taxpayers in the so-called federal "tax reform" bill, for giving to charity, churches, schools, colleges, building funds, etc.

Said New York State's Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson in a recent speech, "I feel this provision is so significant. . .to the charitable, religious and eleemosynary institutions who cannot survive without. . .voluntary support, that there should be a greater public awareness. . .and a fuller expression of opinion to the members of Congress who have the President's" proposal before them.

Mr. Wilson said: "(The) devastating. . .effect. . . on every worthwhile activity which depends on voluntary contributions" becomes obvious when one considers that "every taxpayer who itemizes his deductions (and 25,000,000 do) may deduct only the excess over five per cent of his adjusted gross income. . ." This means paying a tax "range next year of from eighteen and one-half to eighty-four and one-half per cent" on contributions up to five per cent of one's income.

If ever citizen - uplifting institutions needed encouragement, it is NOW, in this crime-drenched era. But what do we see? The government, instead of encouraging them, giving them a slap in the face.

Protest this five per cent thing to your congressmen immediately, before your church, your college, your favorite charity, etc., is dealt a below-the-belt blow.

GOOD DOLLARS

To the Editor:

Some cannot understand why Americans are now more interested in cuts in government spending than they are in tax cuts and costly new political schemes, yet the reasons should be obvious.

Americans, forced to become so dependent upon government for most everything from child aid at birth to relief and subsidies to social security retirement benefits, are now acutely aware of the need for sound government finances, reduced spending, balanced budgets and a safe, staple dollar. They want to be sure the government can pay off in good dollars when it comes their turn to collect.

ON UNDERSTANDING

To the Editor:

Although most contemporarily enlightened individuals of the world seem to have similar goals, their methods vary considerably. Yet, there is another area in which all individuals vary still more. This is in the area of interpretation and expression. This, in turn, is much involved with semantics, the science of word meanings.

Most individuals, this writer included, seem to use words as he thinks they mean or should mean, in immediate present usage: irrespective of opposite or different meanings, they may have had, from time to time in the past or even the interpretations they may have in contemporary dictionaries. This, of course, is not necessarily bad but deserves each individual's continual awareness and understanding.

To The Point

By RUSSELL KIRK

There died in Mallorca, some weeks ago, the poet Carlos Obregon, a Don Quixote of our time. He died in an asylum, from electric-shock treatments that were supposed to cure him of his madness. His infatuation had been this: that he frequently saw the Devil, and contended against that evil presence.

In medieval times, Obregon might have been canonized for his obsession, rather than subjected to scientific torment, it being then the custom to put men on the rack for heresy, not orthodoxy. Like Don Quixote, Obregon must be cured of his madness, his friends thought; but, as with the Knight of the Sorrowful Countenance, the cure killed.

As the cavalier of La Mancha contended against giants and enchanters, so Obregon was in arms against the Devil. While fighting the fiend, he was a happy warrior. He perceived the Devil at parties, on the stairs, in the streets. With him Obregon often carried a little wooden hand, on a stick, with which he blessed people menaced by Satan. "Have you seen the Devil recently?" he would inquire of children, most earnestly. Although sometimes it embarrassed his hosts at social gatherings, the poet's war with the Prince of Darkness did no living soul any mischief, and may have done good.

Spanish is the language of faith, and Spaniards are the most passionate of religious visionaries: witness St. Teresa of Avila, St. John of the Cross, St. Ignatius Loyola. And glimpses of the Devil used to be common enough in all lands, during the Ages of Faith, so that the monk Martin Luther flung his ink-bottle at the fell shape which came to him in his cell. But nowadays, even in orthodox Spain, men will not credit the possibility of incarnate Evil taking fleshly semblance. Obregon's sister used to slip opiates into his drink, so as to quiet him down in his public visions. Yet as the phantasm of the Devil faded from Obregon's sight, he would sink into profound and huddled melancholy: his old Enemy gone, the visionary poet found life not worth living.

To struggle cheerfully against a visible Devil, however eccentric it may make a man appear, is no moral error. The diabolical is at work in the modern world, as in all epochs; indeed, the devil is in the flesh of even the best of us. But to suppose—as does the typical modern sentimental humanitarian—that Evil is a fiction, and that all of us are naturally good, is to commit a gross moral blunder. Deny a fact, and that fact will be your master. Deny the reality of Evil, and Evil will rule the world, soon or late.

As Don Quixote de la Mancha was more of a man than the rational, selfish, heartless folk whom he encountered in his peregrinations, so Obregon fought the good fight, according to his lights, against the Powers of the Air that trick and trap mankind; and in so acting, he was more fully human than those who fancied they could snap him back to dull normality through electrical tortures. Wherever Obregon may be, the Devil does not have him now.

Question Box

Question No. 158: "Cuban exiles have been arrested and charged with violation of the Neutrality Act. What Neutrality Act are they violating? Can the Neutrality Act of 1935 be used by the President to deny patriotic Cuban exiles the right to liberate their homeland?" Signed: Mrs. Dale E. Rallison, 836 E. Clemensen Ave., Santa Ana.

Answer: We do not know what neutrality act is being violated.

We suppose the President and his administration can use any of its man-made laws to arrest anyone they consider to be in violation.

It seems to us the United States government of the current and immediately preceding administration have taken sides in internal affairs of Cuba — first by encouraging Castro forces to overthrow the Batista forces in Cuba, then seeking to maintain the Castro administration in power.

If it is true that the United States did not discourage the Castro forces on this shore who were building up a revolution in Cuba, it would seem that equality would demand there be no interference with those seeking to overthrow Castro.

If we truly were neutral, we would neither encourage nor discourage Castro or his opposition.

We will attempt to answer any question pertaining to the means used to improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth. The means, of course, predetermine the results.

Allen-Scott Report

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON.—A mystery shrouded change of mind by Vice President Lyndon Johnson is causing bewildered consternation among officials of the Four Freedoms Foundation.

Without the slightest hint or explanation, Johnson has decided he doesn't want the award the liberal organization bestows annually for "distinguished service in the cause of freedom."

Particular reason for the foundation officials' pained perturbation is that last year the Texan agreed to accept their award.

At that time the formal elaborate presentation, with a widely publicized speech by Johnson, was postponed because of the protracted session of Congress, the hot election battle climaxed by the Cuban missile crisis, and inability to mesh a date into Johnson's busy schedule.

It was therefore decided to delay the ceremony until this winter or spring. Recently three dates were proposed to Johnson when the desired hotel banquet auditorium would be available.

His reply was to indicate he didn't want the award, that he desired the whole affair to be shelved and forgotten.

THE POSSIBLE REASON

Some foundation officials favor appealing to Johnson to reconsider. Others, hot under the collar, are vigorously for withdrawing the award and offering it to either President Kennedy or his brother, the Attorney General.

Whether they would accept is not known. They would have to be sounded out on that.

Ironically, exactly that was proposed last year before the award was tagged for Johnson. But friends of his urged it be given him first and then presented to one of the Kennedys in 1964—a presidential election year. Now that neat strategy has apparently backfired because of Johnson's mysterious change of mind.

The Four Freedoms Foundation, organized in 1951 to "perpetuate the ideals of the Four Freedoms of President Franklin D. Roosevelt," distributes literature to schools, sponsors essay contest and presents an award to a nationally known leader. Judge Ferdinand Pecora, one-time New Deal Wall Street investigator, heads the foundation.

Recipients include former President Truman, the late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the late General George Marshall, World War II chief of staff, Dr. Ralph Bunche, former Governor Averell Harriman, former Philippine Ambassador Carlos Romulo, former UN Ambassador and 1960 Republican Vice Presidential Candidate Henry Cabot Lodge, and AFL-CIO President George Meany, the latest recipient.

Johnson is deeply grieved by the bitter cuffing he got from liberals in and out of Congress in the recent protracted but futile fight to curb filibusters. The militants charged him with ruling against them at crucial showdowns.

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert Humphrey, Minn., and some other liberals warmly defended Johnson. But that hasn't assuaged his unhappiness.

State Department officials are still quivering from the jolt they got from Senator Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn.

"The Secretary would like very much to give you a briefing on U.S. relations with France," explained the assistant. "The Secretary feels that would give you a better understanding of our position as regards De Gaulle's policy of creating an independent nuclear force."

"All right," replied McCarthy amiably. "I'll set aside three days next week and you or anyone else the Secretary designates can come up and brief me."

"Oh," exclaimed the State Department official, "all that time won't be necessary. All I will need is about one hour."

"In that case don't bother," retorted McCarthy. "To really understand De Gaulle it will be necessary to cover at least the last several hundred years of French history. That should take about three days if it is done right. If all you are prepared to present is an hour briefing, then forget it. You can't tell the whole De Gaulle story in one hour or one day."

McCarthy has heard nothing more about briefing him on the administration's boggled relations with "Le Grand Charlie."

McCarthy is working on a Senate speech that will blast the administration-supported Sugar Act passed by Congress last year. He will charge it is costing U.S. consumers more than $200 million in higher sugar prices.

POLITICAL—

R. Burdell Bixby, close to former Governor Thomas Dewey, is a strong dark horse possibility as the next New York Republican State Chairman. From Hudson, N.Y., Bixby was formerly state GOP treasurer and head of the New York Thruway Authority. Other strong aspirants for the state chairmanship are also in the field, and the selection won't be made until after the legislature adjourns in the spring. . . Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert Humphrey, Minn., was decidedly not pleased by the omission of any reference to him in President Kennedy's message to Congress urging the establishment of a National Youth Corps. Humphrey has been vigorously battling for this for several years, long before the President said a word about it. Humphrey's Senate colleagues are making no bones of their ire at this glaring slight to him.

During Governor "Pat" Brown's stay in Washington last week, the Californian ducked every effort to draw him out about running for President or Vice President. He flatly refused to discuss either possibility. But his partisans are not so shy and make no bones about favoring him for one of these places. Some are going so far as saying Brown may wind up on the 1964 ticket. Asked what they [illegible], they smile knowingly and reply, "Wait and see."

Evolutionary Application

By G. BOARDMAN, Ph. D.

The philosophy of freedom involves an evolutionary application of specific principles to known or presently unknown problems and conditions, and increased awareness and comprehension. For instance, three or four years ago I stated my belief that government must be gradually reduced in size and cost and power to some agonizing minimum before the road to freedom. Today I see that human beings must desire their individual freedom before the size and cost and power of government will be subjected to reduction.

In the first instance, I placed myself in the position of a person on a diet who wants the candy removed so he or she will not eat it. This suggests a lack of self - responsibility and a lot of wishful thinking.

Government has no intention of doing anything which might reduce its size and cost and power. To imagine a man seeking power for the express purpose of minimizing power involves some real, earnest wishful thinking. We find, then, that any limiting process must originate with the people who want to remove the bloated parasitical growth from their own backs. To discourage the parasite, we can begin by taking away the extra goodies.

We are unable to avoid paying taxes. We can refuse to aid the growth of the parasite by refusing the bone or dole the parasite tosses to us in exchange for its free ride. Since the parasite has nothing to begin with, each bone that is tossed to us is created by our own efforts and creative ability and the more bones we accept, the more we must work for our enslaver. There isn't a chance that the parasite will ever get tired of being carried and jump down off our backs voluntarily. We might be foolish enough to decide we can remove the parasite by backing up hard against a stone wall but the parasite will just jump down until we break our bones and then hop on again.

We will be wise to remember a couple or three things about parasites. They are insensately hungry and greedy. They prefer to be called "leaders" as they ride on our backs and direct our energies for their benefit.

You can hurt the feelings of a parasite by calling it a parasite but it will toss you a few more bones under that circumstance because it knows it cannot exist without you. Naturally, it will try to force the tail to wag the horse and make you believe you cannot exist without it, but it doesn't take much in the way of common sense to straighten out the facts.

Tomorrow, a man may buy one stamp instead of two and the parasite on his back is weakened by exactly that amount. The next day he may find his own job instead of waiting for his parasite to find a job for him. He may even accept employment at a lower salary in order to provide a little less for the parasites. He may refuse a farm or business loan, he may refuse to send his children to the socialized schools operated by the parasites, he may even walk instead of paying gasoline taxes. Every time he manages to prevent the parasite from grabbing even one penny, he weakens it by one penny. Sure, the parasite stays on your back but he becomes weaker and, eventually, skinnier.

To begin with, you may believe the parasites are able to protect you from one thing or another. Later, you discover how the idiot yanked on one of your ears and then on another, exerting his "leadership" until one more step would have put you over the cliff. You begin to realize you need a great deal of protection, that you must protect yourself from the parasites. The parasites do not protect you from another parasite unless he figures you'll feed him better than did his last slave parasite. You may, now, become an unwilling host and begin to move around in imitation of a free man, making the ride less comfortable for the parasite.

As the parasite becomes weaker, he may panic. He will talk and make wild promises; he'll even show you how to get to the moon, at your expense. In hysterical reaction to your unwillingness, he may throw his arms around your head, blinding you to make you willing to accept his guidance. By this time the evolution has taught you that the road to freedom is clean and straight and that you can walk on it before he can trip you up.

Good luck and good health to you in Freedom.

From Life Lines

The recent uproar about Cuba must not be allowed to obscure the fact that throughout Latin America we are losing the Cold War.

We must conclude that the United States will continue to lose as long as it uses foreign aid as the chief instrument of American policy.

We have committed ourselves to a massively expensive program called the Alliance for Progress in an effort to rehabilitate and modernize the economies of the Latin American countries. But the program is not working. In fact, its effect has been the opposite of what the program was supposed to accomplish.

Within the last month, the Alliance for Progress has come under withering fire from several fronts.

The very group of Harvard intellectuals who first voiced the idea of an "alliance for progress" said the plan is not an alliance at all, but a plan which "has lapsed into a unilateral U.S. check-writing program."

The U.S. is said to have committed $1.6 billion to the Alliance in the past 18 months.

COMAP, the Commerce Committee for the Alliance which was set up by the U.S. Secretary of Commerce to appraise the Alliance, said of it recently:

The COMAP chairman said private investments, which were expected to contribute heavily toward the Alliance, are being scared off by an unfavorable business climate in Latin America.

The COMAP chairman then loosed his heaviest charge against the AFP by saying that:

Reports from Latin American countries indicate that the Alliance for Progress program is practically unknown to the man on the street. The intellectuals know about it, but as things are today in Latin America, the majority of the intellectuals condemn the program as just another device for the enslavement of Latin America by "Yankee imperialism." So we are worse off than when the Alliance started.

We are told that it is a good thing to put up money to combat illiteracy and to encourage higher education in the Latin American countries. But all too often the teachers and the professors are members of communist-dominated groups. They use their American - supported educational facilities to teach Latin American youth to hate the United States, to despise capitalism and to admire everything that bears the Soviet trademark.

In Venezuela, a recent survey showed that the percentage of communist teachers in grade schools ranged from 33 per cent in some schools to a high of 86 per cent in others. The survey also showed there were 800 card-carrying communist students in the engineering school of the University of Venezuela.

In Mexico, according to a report received by U.S. Senator Thomas J. Dodd who has made a thorough study of mistaken infiltration in Latin America, the communists exert a degree of control over the teachers' union that is nothing short of terrifying.

In Brazil not long ago, the communist-dominated National Students Union elected an unopposed list of officers on a platform that included opposition to the U.S. sponsored Alliance for Progress. The communists are steadily gaining influence on many fronts in Brazil among workers, the unemployed, impoverished peasants in the northeastern part of the country, students and intellectuals, the rank-and-file government workers, and even in the top echelon of the Brazilian government.

As an example of how things are going in Brazil, consider a speech made a few months ago by Leonel Brizola, governor of the State of Rio Grande do Sul and a brother-in-law of Brazilian President Goulart. Brizola declared that Brazil was being occupied and sacked by the "imperialistic capitalists of the United States."

He said that Brazilians should have the courage to take over U.S. firms in Brazil and to tell Americans to get out of the country unless they bring their families to Brazil, become Brazilians and learn to speak Portuguese. He made these statements during a nationally televised address to a group of law students, government dignitaries and members of Soviet bloc embassies.

Some of our homegrown theorists say we cannot deal with the problem of communism in Latin America unless we first deal with the problems of poverty, social backwardness and military dictatorship.

But the overwhelming evidence shows the truth to be precisely the opposite of this theory.

We cannot deal effectively with the problems of poverty and political instability unless we deal first with the problem of communism.

It is simply not true that communism breeds only on poverty and political tyranny. Venezuela is a good example of this argument. The people there enjoy a higher standard of living than of any of their Latin American neighbors. But in spite of this, or, perhaps because of it, the communists have made Venezuela their number one target in Latin America. During the last two years, Venezuela has been the scene of riots and uprisings.

Political stability has been made impossible in Latin America by the existence of a communist regime in Cuba. Fidel Castro, under Moscow's direction, has become the principal organizer and the symbol of the political and social chaos in Latin American.

More than one Latin American political leader has faced up to the fact that so long as this turmoil is permitted to exist, no solution is possible. The problem has been stated by Alvaro Alsogara, Argentine Minister to Economics.

"If there is no political stability, if every day we are threatened by coups d' etat, if at every moment we are fearful that blood is to be shed among Argentines, ...if we look more like an anarchical state than an organized country, then this system of modern free economy with a social distribution of wealth falls at its base and cannot work. We cannot attract capital under the permanent threat of revolution."

Capital is precisely what Latin America must have. If the economies of Latin American countries are to be developed adequately, the job will require all the domestic and foreign capital that can be mobilized and put to work. That can come about only through political encouragement and economic inducement.

Since Fidel Castro took power in Cuba, there has been a serious flight of capital from nearly all of the Latin American countries. It has been a process of disinvestment, not investment. The inroads that communism has made in Latin America have produced a drastic outpouring of frightened capital, seeking investment in safer areas. How could it be otherwise?

No foreign aid program can act as a subsitute for private capital. As a matter of fact, in lending support to a program of private investment in the development of backward nations, the something-for-nothing foreign aid approach seems to have the effect of encouraging expropriation of private investments.

Who can doubt that communists are behind the constant agitation in Latin America for expropriation of foreign investments? It is a policy deliberately designed to frighten out existing foreign capital. The purpose is to create an investment vacuum and aggravate the economic hardship and social chaos which communists view as a prelude to their takeover.

Our basic trouble is that we either do not know how to go about winning the cold war, or we are prevented by sinister forces from using our ability to win it. While the communists wage total political warfare, our own conduct is governed by conventional, outdated concepts of war and peace. That is, when there is no war in the military sense of the word, we consider ourselves to be at peace, and we conduct ourselves accordingly.

While the communist training schools turn out thousands of professional revolutionaries each year, the free world continues to act as if the menace of communism can be dealt with by means of traditional diplomacy and conventional foreign service.

It comes down to this: On one side of the cold war there are free world amateurs who look upon the struggle with the mistaken anti-freedom conspirators as a problem that can be worked out if we "avoid provocation" and "try to ease world tensions." On the other side there is an international conspiracy using tens of thousands of ruthless professionals to advance toward the goal of total destruction of the free world.

No matter how often the communists lie to us, we still believe them when they say a new lie. But an end must come to this amateurishness, an end to this dangerous innocence.

The threat is here and now.

We must accept the fact of psychological warfare, and equip ourselves with the knowledge and the trained personnel which are required to meet the mistaken onslaught in this hemisphere.

The time grows shorter. Our chance to save freedom may soon be gone forever.

We Like 'School People'

From The Lima News

Every once in awhile we hear the remark, "You know how the newspaper feels about school people."

When the person who has made the remark, is pinned down, he has no facts to back up the inference that the newspaper dislikes "school people." So, he back tracks and pulls in his horns.

But those who are not pinned down do a pretty good job of circulating a rumor, so we feel it is time that we make a public statement on just how we do feel about "school people."

If we were pushed to generalize, we'd say we like "school people." Especially teachers.

Nobody knows better than we what a beating they take. They are expected to be baby sitters, whipping boys, instructors and mothers' helpers. They are hired by school boards who usually have only the most hazy notion of what they expect of a teacher. They are often asked to take a jug-eared delinquent and transform him into a polished and even talented dinner date for the governor's daughter. They aren't allowed to hit him except in self-defense and if they do, the kid's old man will come around with a buggy whip in one hand and the school board president in the other and threaten to have him drummed out of the corps for rapping Little Numbskull.

The public prints tell the teacher he is a hero, the guardian of our heritage, the teacher of our youth, the custodian of our jewels—and when he asks for another hundred bucks a year they ask who in heck does that guy think he is, anyway?

And then the teacher goes to a meeting or a convention or even back to the fountainhead itself—good old State Teachers College—and he's pushed and pulled between the experts who say he ought to pound some readin' and writin' into the kids' heads and the experts who say the only things wrong with progressive education are the reactionary parents. He listens to all about the "disciplines" and the "communication skills" and the "sophisticated systems" and the danger of nipping a tender young personality in the bud, and all the while he's thinking should he invest in a two-by-four and smack the backside of that big smart alec in the back row of his history class and then go down and ask the Navy to take him back in as an apprentice seaman?

And the public — bless 'em— they want nothing but the best for their kids. They want to beat Russia to the moon and they want it done fast; and they say it's up to the teachers to put out a better product. But they insist on compulsory attendance so the teacher has half a dozen dunces for every 125 IQ in the class; and they don't want to pay much locally for their schools but they don't want federal aid either; and they don't favor private schools because Conant said they are divisive, whatever that means, but they sometimes get pretty sore about the public ones.

That's what "school people" are up against; and if anybody can feel anything but sorry for them, we can't figure it.

We've never felt anything but sympathy for school teachers. By and large they do their best with a difficult job. The ones who pose as their greatest friends are the ones who give them the worst time.

Too many parents think the state can educate by wave of the magic wand; that hired teachers can do the job intended for parents, clergymen and even psychiatrists. They want junior poured in one end of the magic machine and an educated product pulled out of the other—without pain, sweat or bother.

It can't be done and somebody has to be blamed. Who? Why, the teacher, of course.

We are critical of the government school political apparatus and we do not suscribe to the notion that a state can really educate; but we've never felt anything but sympathy for the teacher. A good teacher is a jewel beyond price, and any honest and devoted teacher is a worthwhile person.

That's how we feel about "school people."

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Was tobacco once used as money?

A—Due to the scarcity of metallic money, Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina used tobacco as currency thruout most of the colonial period.

Q—What does the Jewish festival of Hanukkah commemorate?

A—It is an eight-day festival commemorating the great battle for religious liberty in 165 B.C., resulting in the restoration of the Jerusalem Temple to the worship of the true God. The festival is also known as the Feast of Lights.

A—Blood types.

Q—What discovery laid the foundation of modern medicine?

By THOMAS SEDDON DUKE

What would or could the proposed tax reform mean? We can now examine some of the proposals closely. While there is no assurance that the President's proposals will be adhered to, the meaning of those proposals is crystal-clear.

The administration has passed word to the working Democrats that Mr. Kennedy wants a tax cut this year as it is the key to his reelection. You will be told that this will be the means of reducing unemployment. Party leaders are hailing this tax reduction as "a vote of confidence in the free enterprise system" and a means of "unleashing the private sector of the economy." This is pure hogwash and you will be hearing it from the same people who, out out of the other corner of their mouths, advocate more big government activity and greater spending.

The cries of anguish from those hurt will overbalance the cries of delight from those helped. These examples are indicative of the pattern:

From a personal angle, those with incomes under $10,000 now pay 50 per cent of the income taxes. They will get almost two-thirds of the proposed tax cuts and will pay only 47 per cent of all taxes in 1965.

The top 2½ per cent of taxpayers who now pay 23 per cent of all taxes, will pay 25 per cent of the smaller dollar under the new plan.

The corporate picture is the same. Corporations with under $25,000 profits (they are 5 out of 6) now pay only a few per cent of the government's total intake. They will get a 27 per cent reduction of taxes this year and pay even less.

Corporations paying over $100,000 in taxes (they are 1 out of 40) will be deeply affected by the speedup in quarterly payments, won't benefit much from the reversal of rate brackets, etc. They pay 80 per cent of the corporate taxes today and, let's face it, they will never pay much less!

Is this the sort of a program that will act as encouragement to business, to increase its activity and its productivity? What growth to the economy could come from such a lopsided program?

If the consumers spent every dollar of their savings through the proposed program, it woudn't cause a ripple in the growth of our gross national product. It is obvious that the revenue realized from the enactment of the tax provisions would come in most cases from the more productive citizens of the nation and would actually be subtractions from potential funds available for capital formation.

The only relief for corporations in the first year of the President's three-year program, would come from reversing the present 30 per cent nominal tax and the 22 per cent surtax. This would mean a reduction of 26.7 per cent for corporate taxpayers with taxable income up to $25,000 but for a corporation with income in excess of this amount, there would be a reduction of only $2,000. A corporation with income of $500,000 would therefore receive a tax reduction of 8 per cent — peanuts in the national picture!

I have said before and I will say again, we have suffered intolerable persecution and harassment in these past thirty years. Despite everything, we survived it. I will also say again that the future of what we have is largely in our own hands. We are going to have to be satisfied with less than what we have been accustomed to. Don't lay off a man if you can possibly keep him and if, by straining a point, you can put on a man, do so. Don't let your inventories become alarmingly low—in the aggregate, this can snowball and cause real economic distress. Be aggressive in your sales policy but, through ethical performance, make friends instead of enemies.

Business has been the whipping boy of every political demagogue who ever tried to get a following. We have something to sell—freedom of action and freedom of the individual. Take some time off and tell our story. It does little or no good to talk to those who think and act as we do. There are millions depending for a livelihood on the efficiency of our productive efforts. They don't even know it! They think that jobs just happen and that little or no investment is necessary. They think also that business accumulates enormous profits from every sales dollar. Who tells them that it is 5.4 cents for large and efficiently-operated corporations and only 4.5 cents per sales dollar for all corporations? If we put some of the drive, the brains, and the know-how in getting this story across, that we put into our individual businesses, we may yet stem the tide.

And now we have another threat hanging over us—compulsory arbitration. The Washington-dictated inflationary settlement of the East Coast dock strike which was forced down the throats of the shippers, is probably just the start of federal intervention in other strikes or contract negotiations. The head of the government delegation told the shippers to "take it or leave it!"

We must fight all the way for survival.

Capitalism or Communism

By JOSEPH A. GALAMBOS
Free Enterprise Institute

Capitalism — that is, the free enterprise system — is the antidote to the poison of communism-socialism, both as an ideology and as a positive force. Just as the Communist Party has organized evil into a positive force to destroy man as an individual, those who understand and practice the principles of capitalism can wield this good and powerful concept into a positive force to save man as an individual.

Most people in this country perform lip service adherence to capitalism, but, unfortunately, only a very small percentage of the people know what capitalism is truly and fundamentally. If this were not so, then the communist - socialist-collectivist ideology would never have had a chance — it could never have captured the imagination and support of the multitudes. Capitalism is responsible for most of the material and social progress in history. Altho it is a new philosophy, but a few hundred years old, it has, in this short span of time, outdistanced the combined progress of all previous civilizations in thousands of year. Wherever and whenever capitalism has been tried — even to a limited extent — man's lot has improved in every respect. Even in those parts of the world where capitalism has not been tried — directly — the so-called underdeveloped (that means undercapitalized) countries of the world — the people have nevertheless benefited indirectly from the results attained in the more prosperous capitalistic nations. Even the Communist countries regularly profit from what they have learned, borrowed, and stolen from capitalist countries; their market operates only to the extent that they base it upon our concepts of production and distribution.

Despite all this, capitalism has been so universally denounced, defamed, and disparaged that the majority of Americans now regard it with suspicion and distrust and look upon the many socialistic encroachments upon our way of life as not only necessary but good. When enough Americans again come to look upon capitalism — the free enterprise system — as the dynamic, virile, and limitless fountainhead of freedom, prosperity, and happiness, then we will have a real chance for survival! Today's hopeless alternative of total war or surrender will then be converted into the better alternative: capitalism or communism. In this choice we can win. Uncompromised capitalism — when adequately understood, practiced, and utilized as the weapon against communism — not only can win, but will win. If only we wake up in time.

An individual who wishes to contribute to this objective must be well-versed in the basic concepts fundamental to individualism-capitalism; he must, further, be able to refute with great effectiveness the immense number of fallacies of the collectivist-communist theories; finally, individuals must perfect means of actively and powerfully promoting capitalism.

Minding One's Own Business

By WILLIAM G. SUMNER
1883

Brigham Young University

The danger of minding other people's business is twofold. First, there is the danger that a man may leave his own business unattended to; and, second, there is the danger of an impertinent interference with another's affairs. The "friends of humanity" almost always run into both dangers. I am one of humanity, and I do not want any volunteer friends. I regard friendship as mutual, and I want to have my say about it. I suppose that other components of humanity feel in the same way about it. If so, they must regard any one who assumes the role of a friend of humanity as impertinent. The reference of the friend of humanity back to his own business is obviously the next step.

Yet we are constantly annoyed, and the legislatures are kept constantly busy, by the people who have made up their minds that it is wise and conducive to happiness to live in a certain way, and who want to compel everybody else to live in their way. Some people have decided to spend Sunday in a certain way, and they want laws passed to make other people spend Sunday in the same way. Some people have resolved to be teetotalers, and they want a law passed to make everybody else a teetotaler. Some people have resolved to eschew luxury, and they want taxes laid to make others eschew luxury. The taxing power is especially something after which the reformer's finger always itches. Sometimes there is an element of self-interest in the proposed reformation, as when a publisher wanted a duty imposed on books, to keep Americans from reading books which would unsettle their Americanism; and when artists wanted a tax laid on pictures, to save Americans from buying bad paintings.

I make no reference here to the giving and taking of counsel and aid between man and man: of that I shall say something in the last chapter. The very sacredness of the relation in which two men stand to one another when one of them rescues the other from vice separates that relation from any connection with the work of the social busybody, the professional philanthropist, and the empirical legislator.

What the Korean War Did....

By WESLEY R. HARKER
Pastor,
Trinity Presbyterian Church
Omaha, Nebraska

Almost three months of war in Korea had elapsed when U.C.L.A.'s 1950 fall semester opened. Students were beginning to feel the impact of that conflict.

A climate of fear and anxiety moved onto the campus. My friends and I knew that it was our age group of Americans whose blood was flowing in Korea, and we wondered, "Am I next?" After a few months some of my friends, bewildered by this threat hanging over their heads, gave up and dropped out of school.

Campus gossip all but disappeared. Instead, the latest war news became the topic of the student union coffee shop between classes. Regardless of the tenor of war dispatches, our confabs always ended with the same question, "Why should I fight in Korea?"

Did my classmates, conscripted into the Army and, shipped to Korea, ever get a satisfactory answer to their question? I wonder.

Altho the Korean War ended ten years ago this July 27th, I have been unable to find a satisfactory answer to that question. My efforts to analyze and understand the Korean War have produced more questions than answers. For example, many Americans today think that they have a clear picture of how the Korean War began. We were told that the North Koreans, without provocation and without warning, crossed the 38th parallel on June 25th, 1950, attacking the South Koreans in force. But when this claim is measured against the words of Brigadier General William L. Roberts, head of the American military advisory mission in South Korea, discrepancies appear. Almost four weeks before hostilities commenced he declared, "The Communists will probably engage in some limited action, but at this point we rather invite it. It will give us target practice."(1)

If what General Roberts said was correctly reported, then the popular belief of attack without warning has no foundation in fact. His first words indicate that an attack was not unexpected.

Now let us consider General Roberts' frank statement, "but at this point we rather invite it." What did General Roberts mean? Did he mean that provocative actions had been or were being indulged in by his forces to provoke a military response from the North Koreans? If not, what were he and the people under his command doing to "invite it?"

The American people, who paid the cost of that "target practice" with 157,000 casualties, have a right to know — but no answer has ever been forthcoming to this vital question. And so the origin of the Korean War is still shrouded with unanswered questions.

In another respect the Korean War answered a question — the question of the availability of American boys to fight and die any place in the world that the political and military chiefs in Washington decide to send them, whether it be Bangkok, Azerbaijan, Mongolia, or Skoplje. Moreover, the Korean War demonstrated that this ubiquitous expenditure of young American lives can take place without even a formal declaration of war by Congress.

As a result of this answer, President Kennedy could make this bizarre boast in his December 17, 1962 television interview:

"We have one million Americans today serving outside of the United States. There is no other country in history that has carried this kind of a burden."

This article will present evidence indicating that, with the exception of Red China, American youth became the world's cheapest cannon fodder during the years 1950-53.

In discussing this degradation of American youth, it is not my purpose to be concerned with the subject of conscription in general. However, the Korean War was a clearcut example of conscription for foreign war, and it is my intention to show that conscription of U.S. citizens for foreign war is completely contrary to the intent of the men who wrote the Constitution.

The Constitution in Article 1, Section 8, in the enumeration of powers, says that Congress may call forth the militia "to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repeal invasions."

Prior to World War I the vast majority of our jurists and officials held this to mean that Congress had authority to organize and employ only volunteer forces in foreign war and reserve compulsory service for repelling invasion, suppressing insurrection and executing the laws of the Union internally.

In 1787, at the time of the formation of our Constitution, there was not a nation in the world which fought its foreign wars with a conscript army. All armies of that day, employed for that purpose, were volunteer armies. It was some years later that Napoleon, by the use of conscription for foreign war, brought disaster to France from which it has never fully recovered.

The framers of our Constitution were jealous of governmental authority and zealous in the defense of individual liberty. They could not have vested in our government a power which even the European despots of that day dared not attempt.

A couple of years after our Constitution had been in operation a proposition was laid before the French Convention to authorize the raising of a conscript army. But it was rejected as destructive of individual liberty. In 1798 France felt the pressure of the alliance of many powers against her revolution. Only then did her legislature adopt the proposition for a conscript army. Even then its purpose was supposed to be defensive. Napoleon's perversion of its defensive purpose led to his downfall. The abolition of the system followed shortly thereafter.

The history of military conscription in the U.S. prior to World War I can be summarized very briefly. To be sure, the Union Army of the Civil War contained conscripts. But it never fought on foreign soil. It was a force designed to suppress insurrection. The American Army which fought in Cuba during the Spanish-American War was composed of volunteers.

Military conscription in the U.S. entered upon an entirely new phase with the Selective Draft Act of May 18, 1917, enacted six weeks after our entry into World War I. By this action Congress "authorized and ordained" a conscript army for use in foreign war.

The late Professor John W. Burgess, the eminent constitutional scholar of Columbia University, made the following comment on the Selective Draft Act:

". . . I cannot believe that the framers of our Constitution vested the power in the government to raise and employ conscript armies for, and in, foreign war. It is the most despotic power which government can exercise. It can be so exercised, at any moment, and on occasion created by government itself, as to sweep away every vestige of individual liberty and put the last drop of blood of every man, woman and child in the country at the arbitrary disposal of the government."(2)

Was Burgess an alarmist seeing things under the bed? Or was he the modern equivalent of the Hebrew prophets of old, Jeremiah for example?

To get the answer to this question, let us go back to the plight of American youth during the Korean War.

During the years 1950-53, what nation provided the world's cheapest cannon fodder? Not Russia, whose armies did not fight in Korea. Not North or South Korea, whose citizens were fighting in a civil war. No, it was none of these.

With the exception of Red China, it was the U.S. who provided the world's cheapest cannon fodder during those years.

The July 24, 1952 Washington Report issued by Congressman Howard Buffett carried the following sobering facts:

". . . Of ground forces in Korea, the U.S. has sent 84 per cent. This figure excludes South Koreans. Korea is not in the U.N.

"American battle casualties (dead, wounded and missing) outnumber those of other United Nations in Korea by more than 11 to 1. But this figure does not give the true picture. U.S. nonbattle casualties are not reported to us. They are kept secret.

"Over 90 per cent of the U.N. dead in Korea are American boys. But no Canadian youth is even drafted into military service. Reading these facts, an American father asked me this question, 'Why are the lives of our boys less precious than those of other U.N. lands?'

54,000 American boys DIED in the Korean War.(3) That number of dead exceeds the 40,000 troops from all other U.N. nations that served in Korea, most of whom returned home unscathed.(4)

No wonder the brainwashing of Americans by the Communists was so terrifyingly successful!

At any time conscripted Americans may again be hauled off to the transports for declared or undeclared war in any one of a hundred lands.

The U.S. generally regards itself as a nation that cares much for its young people. Does this performance sound like a nation that cares much for its young people?

Shocking and terrifying as the fact is to any thinking person, there is little opposition in the U.S. to conscription for foreign war. This is sickening evidence demonstrating how far we have already traveled down the road to despotism. We even have the occasional spectacle of the parent who is PROUD that his or her son has been conscripted into the army and shipped half way around the globe to fight in some snake-infested jungle.

Resistance to conscription for foreign war does not imply a posture of pacifism. Actually, it is a reaffirmation of patriotism as contrasted to imperialism. It is one thing to require that Americans be conscripted to defend Florida. It is an altogether different thing to require that they be conscripted to invade Cuba. Every red-blooded American is ready to defend our sacred soil against all comers. But God gave us no mandate to rule the world, and our foreign adventures thus far surely prove to any fair-minded observer our lack of competence to do so.

There is much evidence to bulwark the conclusion that communism has attained its present position astride the Eurasian continent because the U.S. conscripted its citizens for foreign war. Dean Russell set out this case in the following paragraphs:

"As nearly as I can judge, Germany and England and their allies were faced with the military necessity for a truce with no victor in the fall of 1916, or even before. If the United States could not wait for them to work out their own truce, then. . . we could at least have offered our 'good offices'. . .

"Instead, our leaders chose sides and decided to use violence . . . by conscripting our young men at home and forcing them to fight in Europe. That decision probably added two years to the conflict. The continuation of the war caused a reluctant but desperate Germany to send Lenin into Russia to start a revolution and to establish communism. Our entry into the war led directly to Versailles and a vindictive 'peace'. .

"When the consequences of World War I finally arrived in the form of World War II, a few persons in positions of power had already committed the United States to one side well before Pearl Harbor. . . do many persons believe that a triumphant Germany without any aid from us would have posed as serious a problem as. . . Russia. . .?

"At the same time that we were choosing Stalin over Hitler, we were also choosing China over Japan — long before Pearl Harbor.

"And the fact remains that the decisions which were made by our leaders before and during World War II were based squarely on the idea of conscripting unwilling persons to enforce those decisions."(5)

The candidates for the 1964 election are already under discussion, but there is no discussion of any basic issues. If things continue on their present course, we can safely predict that the issue of conscription for foreign war will be carefully evaded by both parties and all candidates. We are so completely committed to the warfare state that politicians will avoid any honest discussion of the global expenditure of the conscripted lives of American boys.

U.S. citizens who believe in justice must make the conscription of American boys for foreign war the great issue of our times. The adherents of liberty must stand with the honorable Americans who declared, "There is no political or religious duty more sacred than saving the lives of our youth."

Alliance for Progress

From Life Lines

The recent uproar about Cuba must not be allowed to obscure the fact that throughout Latin America we are losing the Cold War.

We must conclude that the United States will continue to lose as long as it uses foreign aid as the chief instrument of American policy.

We have committed ourselves to a massively expensive program called the Alliance for Progress in an effort to rehabilitate and modernize the economies of the Latin American countries. But the program is not working. In fact, its effect has been the opposite of what the program was supposed to accomplish.

Within the last month, the Alliance for Progress has come under withering fire from several fronts.

The very group of Harvard intellectuals who first voiced the idea of an "alliance for progress" said the plan is not an alliance at all, but a plan which "has lapsed into a unilateral U.S. check-writing program."

The U.S. is said to have committed $1.6 billion to the Alliance in the past 18 months.

COMAP, the Commerce Committee for the Alliance which was set up by the U.S. Secretary of Commerce to appraise the Alliance, said of it recently:

The COMAP chairman said private investments, which were expected to contribute heavily toward the Alliance, are being scared off by an unfavorable business climate in Latin America.

The COMAP chairman then loosed his heaviest charge against the AFP by saying that:

Reports from Latin American countries indicate that the Alliance for Progress program is practically unknown to the man on the street. The intellectuals know about it, but as things are today in Latin America, the majority of the intellectuals condemn the program as just another device for the enslavement of Latin America by "Yankee imperialism." So we are worse off than when the Alliance started.

We are told that it is a good thing to put up money to combat illiteracy and to encourage higher education in the Latin American countries. But all too often the teachers and the professors are members of communist-dominated groups. They use their American - supported educational facilities to teach Latin American youth to hate the United States, to despise capitalism and to admire everything that bears the Soviet trademark.

In Venezuela, a recent survey showed that the percentage of communist teachers in grade schools ranged from 33 per cent in some schools to a high of 86 per cent in others. The survey also showed there were 800 card-carrying communist students in the engineering school of the University of Venezuela.

In Mexico, according to a report received by U.S. Senator Thomas J. Dodd who has made a thorough study of mistaken infiltration in Latin America, the communists exert a degree of control over the teachers' union that is nothing short of terrifying.

In Brazil not long ago, the communist-dominated National Students Union elected an unopposed list of officers on a platform that included opposition to the U.S. sponsored Alliance for Progress. The communists are steadily gaining influence on many fronts in Brazil among workers, the unemployed, impoverished peasants in the northeastern part of the country, students and intellectuals, the rank-and-file government workers, and even in the top echelon of the Brazilian government.

As an example of how things are going in Brazil, consider a speech made a few months ago by Leonel Brizola, governor of the State of Rio Grande do Sul and a brother-in-law of Brazilian President Goulart. Brizola declared that Brazil was being occupied and sacked by the "imperialistic capitalists of the United States."

He said that Brazilians should have the courage to take over U.S. firms in Brazil and to tell Americans to get out of the country unless they bring their families to Brazil, become Brazilians and learn to speak Portuguese. He made these statements during a nationally televised address to a group of law students, government dignitaries and members of Soviet bloc embassies.

Some of our homegrown theorists say we cannot deal with the problem of communism in Latin America unless we first deal with the problems of poverty, social backwardness and military dictatorship.

But the overwhelming evidence shows the truth to be precisely the opposite of this theory.

We cannot deal effectively with the problems of poverty and political instability unless we deal first with the problem of communism.

It is simply not true that communism breeds only on poverty and political tyranny. Venezuela is a good example of this argument. The people there enjoy a higher standard of living than of any of their Latin American neighbors. But in spite of this, or, perhaps because of it, the communists have made Venezuela their number one target in Latin America. During the last two years, Venezuela has been the scene of riots and uprisings.

Political stability has been made impossible in Latin America by the existence of a communist regime in Cuba. Fidel Castro, under Moscow's direction, has become the principal organizer and the symbol of the political and social chaos in Latin American.

More than one Latin American political leader has faced up to the fact that so long as this turmoil is permitted to exist, no solution is possible. The problem has been stated by Alvaro Alsogara, Argentine Minister to Economics.

"If there is no political stability, if every day we are threatened by coups d' etat, if at every moment we are fearful that blood is to be shed among Argentines, ...if we look more like an anarchical state than an organized country, then this system of modern free economy with a social distribution of wealth falls at its base and cannot work. We cannot attract capital under the permanent threat of revolution."

Capital is precisely what Latin America must have. If the economies of Latin American countries are to be developed adequately, the job will require all the domestic and foreign capital that can be mobilized and put to work. That can come about only through political encouragement and economic inducement.

Since Fidel Castro took power in Cuba, there has been a serious flight of capital from nearly all of the Latin American countries. It has been a process of disinvestment, not investment. The inroads that communism has made in Latin America have produced a drastic outpouring of frightened capital, seeking investment in safer areas. How could it be otherwise?

No foreign aid program can act as a subsitute for private capital. As a matter of fact, in lending support to a program of private investment in the development of backward nations, the something-for-nothing foreign aid approach seems to have the effect of encouraging expropriation of private investments.

Who can doubt that communists are behind the constant agitation in Latin America for expropriation of foreign investments? It is a policy deliberately designed to frighten out existing foreign capital. The purpose is to create an investment vacuum and aggravate the economic hardship and social chaos which communists view as a prelude to their takeover.

Our basic trouble is that we either do not know how to go about winning the cold war, or we are prevented by sinister forces from using our ability to win it. While the communists wage total political warfare, our own conduct is governed by conventional, outdated concepts of war and peace. That is, when there is no war in the military sense of the word, we consider ourselves to be at peace, and we conduct ourselves accordingly.

While the communist training schools turn out thousands of professional revolutionaries each year, the free world continues to act as if the menace of communism can be dealt with by means of traditional diplomacy and conventional foreign service.

It comes down to this: On one side of the cold war there are free world amateurs who look upon the struggle with the mistaken anti-freedom conspirators as a problem that can be worked out if we "avoid provocation" and "try to ease world tensions." On the other side there is an international conspiracy using tens of thousands of ruthless professionals to advance toward the goal of total destruction of the free world.

No matter how often the communists lie to us, we still believe them when they say a new lie. But an end must come to this amateurishness, an end to this dangerous innocence.

The threat is here and now.

We must accept the fact of psychological warfare, and equip ourselves with the knowledge and the trained personnel which are required to meet the mistaken onslaught in this hemisphere.

The time grows shorter. Our chance to save freedom may soon be gone forever.

We Like 'School People'

From The Lima News

Every once in awhile we hear the remark, "You know how the newspaper feels about school people."

When the person who has made the remark, is pinned down, he has no facts to back up the inference that the newspaper dislikes "school people." So, he back tracks and pulls in his horns.

But those who are not pinned down do a pretty good job of circulating a rumor, so we feel it is time that we make a public statement on just how we do feel about "school people."

If we were pushed to generalize, we'd say we like "school people." Especially teachers.

Nobody knows better than we what a beating they take. They are expected to be baby sitters, whipping boys, instructors and mothers' helpers. They are hired by school boards who usually have only the most hazy notion of what they expect of a teacher. They are often asked to take a jug-eared delinquent and transform him into a polished and even talented dinner date for the governor's daughter. They aren't allowed to hit him except in self-defense and if they do, the kid's old man will come around with a buggy whip in one hand and the school board president in the other and threaten to have him drummed out of the corps for rapping Little Numbskull.

The public prints tell the teacher he is a hero, the guardian of our heritage, the teacher of our youth, the custodian of our jewels —and when he asks for another hundred bucks a year they ask who in heck does that guy think he is, anyway?

And then the teacher goes to a meeting or a convention or even back to the fountainhead itself—good old State Teachers College —and he's pushed and pulled between the experts who say he ought to pound some readin' and writin' into the kids' heads and the experts who say the only things wrong with progressive education are the reactionary parents. He listens to all about the "disciplines" and the "communication skills" and the "sophisticated systems" and the danger of nipping a tender young personality in the bud, and all the while he's thinking should he invest in a two-by-four and smack the backside of that big smart alec in the back row of his history class and then go down and ask the Navy to take him back in as an apprentice seaman?

And the public — bless 'em— they want nothing but the best for their kids. They want to beat Russia to the moon and they want it done fast; and they say it's up to the teachers to put out a better product. But they insist on compulsory attendance so the teacher has half a dozen dunces for every 125 IQ in the class; and they don't want to pay much locally for their schools but they don't want federal aid either; and they don't favor private schools because Conant said they are divisive, whatever that means, but they sometimes get pretty sore about the public ones.

That's what "school people" are up against: and if anybody can feel anything but sorry for them, we can't figure it.

We've never felt anything but sympathy for school teachers. By and large they do their best with a difficult job. The ones who pose as their greatest friends are the ones who give them the worst time.

Too many parents think the state can educate by wave of the magic wand; that hired teachers can do the job intended for parents, clergymen and even psychiatrists. They want junior poured in one end of the magic machine and an educated product pulled out of the other—without pain, sweat or bother.

It can't be done and somebody has to be blamed. Who? Why, the teacher, of course.

We are critical of the government school political apparatus and we do not suscribe to the notion that a state can really educate, but we've never felt anything but sympathy for the teacher. A good teacher is a jewel beyond price and any honest and devoted teacher is a worthwhile person.

That's how we feel about school people.

By THOMAS SEDDON DUKE

What would or could the proposed tax reform mean? We can now examine some of the proposals closely. While there is no assurance that the President's proposals will be adhered to, the meaning of those proposals is crystal-clear.

The administration has passed word to the working Democrats that Mr. Kennedy wants a tax cut this year as it is the key to his reelection. You will be told that this will be the means of reducing unemployment. Party leaders are hailing this tax reduction as "a vote of confidence in the free enterprise system" and a means of "unleashing the private sector of the economy." This is pure hogwash and you will be hearing it from the same people who, out out of the other corner of their mouths, advocate more big government activity and greater spending.

The cries of anguish from those hurt will overbalance the cries of delight from those helped. These examples are indicative of the pattern:

From a personal angle, those with incomes under $10,000 now pay 50 per cent of the income taxes. They will get almost two-thirds of the proposed tax cuts and will pay only 47 per cent of all taxes in 1965.

The top 2½ per cent of taxpayers who now pay 23 per cent of all taxes, will pay 25 per cent of the smaller dollar under the new plan.

The corporate picture is the same. Corporations with under $25,000 profits (they are 5 out of 6) now pay only a few per cent of the government's total intake. They will get a 27 per cent reduction of taxes this year and pay even less.

Corporations paying over $100,000 in taxes (they are 1 out of 40) will be deeply affected by the speedup in quarterly payments, won't benefit much from the reversal of rate brackets, etc. They pay 80 per cent of the corporate taxes today and, let's face it, they will never pay much less!

Is this the sort of a program that will act as encouragement to business, to increase its activity and its productivity? What growth to the economy could come from such a lopsided program?

If the consumers spent every dollar of their savings through the proposed program, it woudn't cause a ripple in the growth of our gross national product. It is obvious that the revenue realized from the enactment of the tax provisions would come in most cases from the more productive citizens of the nation and would actually be subtractions from potential funds available for capital formation.

The only relief for corporations in the first year of the President's three-year program, would come from reversing the present 30 per cent nominal tax and the 22 per cent surtax. This would mean a reduction of 26.7 per cent for corporate taxpayers with taxable income up to $25,000 but for a corporation with income in excess of this amount, there would be a reduction of only $2,000. A corporation with income of $500,000 would therefore receive a tax reduction of 8 per cent — peanuts in the national picture!

I have said before and I will say again, we have suffered intolerable persecution and harassment in these past thirty years. Despite everything, we survived it. I will also say again that the future of what we have is largely in our own hands. We are going to have to be satisfied with less than what we have been accustomed to. Don't lay off a man if you can possibly keep him and if, by straining a point, you can put on a man, do so. Don't let your inventories become alarmingly low —in the aggregate, this can snowball and cause real economic distress. Be aggressive in your sales policy but, through ethical performance, make friends instead of enemies.

Business has been the whipping boy of every political demagogue who ever tried to get a following. We have something to sell—freedom of action and freedom of the individual. Take some time off and tell our story. It does little or no good to talk to those who think and act as we do. There are millions depending for a livelihood on the efficiency of our productive efforts. They don't even know it! They think that jobs just happen and that little or no investment is necessary. They think also that business accumulates enormous profits from every sales dollar. Who tells them that it is 5.4 cents for large and efficiently-operated corporations and only 4.5 cents per sales dollar for all corporations? If we put some of the drive, the brains, and the know-how in getting this story across, that we put into our individual businesses, we may yet stem the tide.

And now we have another threat hanging over us—compulsory arbitration. The Washington-dictated inflationary settlement of the East Coast dock strike which was forced down the throats of the shippers, is probably just the start of federal intervention in other strikes or contract negotiations. The head of the government delegation told the shippers to "take it or leave it!"

We must fight all the way for survival.

Capitalism or Communism

By JOSEPH A. GALAMBOS
Free Enterprise Institute

Capitalism — that is, the free enterprise system — is the antidote to the poison of communism-socialism, both as an ideology and as a positive force. Just as the Communist Party has organized evil into a positive force to destroy man as an individual, those who understand and practice the principles of capitalism can wield this good and powerful concept into a positive force to save man as an individual.

Most people in this country perform lip service adherence to capitalism, but, unfortunately, only a very small percentage of the people know what capitalism is truly and fundamentally. If this were not so, then the communist - socialist-collectivist ideology would never have had a chance — it could never have captured the imagination and support of the multitudes. Capitalism is responsible for most of the material and social progress in history. Altho it is a new philosophy, but a few hundred years old, it has, in this short span of time, outdistanced the combined progress of all previous civilizations in thousands of year. Wherever and whenever capitalism has been tried — even to a limited extent — man's lot has improved in every respect. Even in those parts of the world where capitalism has not been tried — directly — the so-called underdeveloped (that means undercapitalized) countries of the world — the people have nevertheless benefited indirectly from the results attained in the more prosperous capitalistic nations. Even the Communist countries regularly profit from what they have learned, borrowed, and stolen from capitalist countries; their market operates only to the extent that they base it upon our concepts of production and distribution.

Despite all this, capitalism has been so universally denounced, defamed, and disparaged that the majority of Americans now regard it with suspicion and distrust and look upon the many socialistic encroachments upon our way of life as not only necessary but good. When enough Americans again come to look upon capitalism — the free enterprise system — as the dynamic, virile, and limitless fountainhead of freedom, prosperity, and happiness, then we will have a real chance for survival! Today's hopeless alternative of total war or surrender will then be converted into the better alternative: capitalism or communism. In this choice we can win. Uncompromised capitalism — when adequately understood, practiced, and utilized as the weapon against communism — not only can win, but will win. If only we wake up in time!

An individual who wishes to contribute to this objective must be well-versed in the basic concepts fundamental to individualism-capitalism; he must, further, be able to refute with great effectiveness the immense number of fallacies of the collectivist-communist theories; finally, individuals must perfect means of actively and powerfully promoting capitalism.

Minding One's Own Business

By WILLIAM G. SUMNER
1883

Republished by
Brigham Young University
Young Conservative Club

The danger of minding other people's business is twofold. First, there is the danger that a man may leave his own business unattended to; and, second, there is the danger of an impertinent interference with another's affairs. The "friends of humanity" almost always run into both dangers. I am one of humanity, and I do not want any volunteer friends. I regard friendship as mutual, and I want to have my say about it. I suppose that other components of humanity feel in the same way about it. If so, they must regard any one who assumes the role of a friend of humanity as impertinent. The reference of the friend of humanity back to his own business is obviously the next step.

Yet we are constantly annoyed, and the legislatures are kept constantly busy, by the people who have made up their minds that it is wise and conducive to happiness to live in a certain way, and who want to compel everybody else to live in their way. Some people have decided to spend Sunday in a certain way, and they want laws passed to make other people spend Sunday in the same way. Some people have resolved to be teetotalers, and they want a law passed to make everybody else a teetotaler. Some people have resolved to eschew luxury, and they want taxes laid to make others eschew luxury. The taxing power is especially something after which the reformer's finger always itches. Sometimes there is an element of self-interest in the proposed reformation, as when a publisher wanted a duty imposed on books, to keep Americans from reading books which would unsettle their Americanism; and when artists wanted a tax laid on pictures, to save Americans from buying bad paintings.

I make no reference here to the giving and taking of counsel and aid between man and man: of that I shall say something in the last chapter. The very sacredness of the relation in which two men stand to one another when one of them rescues the other from vice separates that relation from any connection with the work of the social busybody, the professional philanthropist, and the emperical legislator.

What the Korean War Did....

By WESLEY R. HARKER
Pastor,
Trinity Presbyterian Church
Omaha, Nebraska

Almost three months of war in Korea had elapsed when U.C.L.A.'s 1950 fall semester opened. Students were beginning to feel the impact of that conflict.

A climate of fear and anxiety moved onto the campus. My friends and I knew that it was our age group of Americans whose blood was flowing in Korea, and we wondered, "Am I next?" After a few months some of my friends, bewildered by this threat hanging over their heads, gave up and dropped out of school.

Campus gossip all but disappeared. Instead, the latest war news became the topic of the student union coffee shop between classes. Regardless of the tenor of war dispatches, our confabs always ended with the same question, "Why should I fight in Korea?"

Did my classmates, conscripted into the Army and shipped to Korea, ever get a satisfactory answer to their question? I wonder.

Altho the Korean War ended ten years ago this July 27th, I have been unable to find a satisfactory answer to that question. My efforts to analyze and understand the Korean War have produced more questions than answers. For example, many Americans today think that they have a clear picture of how the Korean War began. We were told that the North Koreans, without provocation and without warning, crossed the 38th parallel on June 25th, 1950, attacking the South Koreans in force. But when this claim is measured against the words of Brigadier General William L. Roberts, head of the American military advisory mission in South Korea, discrepancies appear. Almost four weeks before hostilities commenced he declared, "The Communists will probably engage in some limited action, but at this point we rather invite it. It will give us target practice."(1)

If what General Roberts said was correctly reported, then the popular belief of attack without warning has no foundation in fact. His first words indicate that an attack was not unexpected.

Now let us consider General Roberts' frank statement, "but at this point we rather invite it." What did General Roberts mean? Did he mean that provocative actions had been or were being indulged in by his forces to provoke a military response from the North Koreans? If not, what were he and the people under his command doing to "invite it?"

The American people, who paid the cost of that "target practice" with 157,000 casualties, have a right to know — but no answer has ever been forthcoming to this vital question. And so the origin of the Korean War is still shrouded with unanswered questions.

In another respect the Korean War answered a question — the question of the availability of American boys to fight and die any place in the world that the political and military chiefs in Washington decide to send them, whether it be Bangkok, Azerbaijan, Mongolia, or Skoplje. Moreover, the Korean War demonstrated that this ubiquitous expenditure of young American lives can take place without even a formal declaration of war by Congress.

As a result of this answer, President Kennedy could make this bizarre boast in his December 17, 1962 television interview:

"We have one million Americans today serving outside of the United States. There is no other country in history that has carried this kind of a burden."

This article will present evidence indicating that, with the exception of Red China, American youth became the world's cheapest cannon fodder during the years 1950-53.

In discussing this degradation of American youth, it is not my purpose to be concerned with the subject of conscription in general. However, the Korean War was a clearcut example of conscription for foreign war, and it is my intention to show that conscription of U.S. citizens for foreign war is completely contrary to the intent of the men who wrote the Constitution.

The Constitution in Article 1, Section 8, in the enumeration of powers, says that Congress may call forth the militia "to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repeal invasions."

Prior to World War I the vast majority of our jurists and officials held this to mean that Congress had authority to organize and employ only volunteer forces in foreign war and reserve compulsory service for repelling invasion, suppressing insurrection and executing the laws of the Union internally.

In 1787, at the time of the formation of our Constitution, there was not a nation in the world which fought its foreign wars with a conscript army. All armies of that day, employed for that purpose, were volunteer armies. It was some years later that Napoleon, by the use of conscription for foreign war, brought disaster to France from which it has never fully recovered.

The framers of our Constitution were jealous of governmental authority and zealous in the defense of individual liberty. They could not have vested in our government a power which even the European despots of that day dared not attempt.

A couple of years after our Constitution had been in operation a proposition was laid before the French Convention to authorize the raising of a conscript army. But it was rejected as destructive of individual liberty. In 1798 France felt the pressure of the alliance of many powers against her revolution. Only then did her legislature adopt the proposition for a conscript army. Even then its purpose was supposed to be defensive. Napoleon's perversion of its defensive purpose led to his downfall. The abolition of the system followed shortly thereafter.

The history of military conscription in the U.S. prior to World War I can be summarized very briefly. To be sure, the Union Army of the Civil War contained conscripts. But it never fought on foreign soil. It was a force designed to suppress insurrection. The American Army which fought in Cuba during the Spanish-American War was composed of volunteers.

Military conscription in the U.S. entered upon an entirely new phase with the Selective Draft Act of May 18, 1917, enacted six weeks after our entry into World War I. By this action Congress "authorized and ordained" a conscript army for use in foreign war.

The late Professor John W. Burgess, the eminent constitutional scholar of Columbia University, made the following comment on the Selective Draft Act:

". . . I cannot believe that the framers of our Constitution vested the power in the government to raise and employ conscript armies for, and in, foreign war. It is the most despotic power which government can exercise. It can be so exercised, at any moment, and on occasion created by government itself, as to sweep away every vestige of individual liberty and put the last drop of blood of every man, woman and child in the country at the arbitrary disposal of the government."(2)

Was Burgess an alarmist seeing things under the bed? Or was he the modern equivalent of the Hebrew prophets of old, Jeremiah for example?

To get the answer to this question, let us go back to the plight of American youth during the Korean War.

During the years 1950-53, what nation provided the world's cheapest cannon fodder? Not Russia, whose armies did not fight in Korea. Not North or South Korea, whose citizens were fighting in a civil war. No, it was none of these.

With the exception of Red China, it was the U.S. who provided the world's cheapest cannon fodder during those years.

The July 24, 1952 Washington Report issued by Congressman Howard Buffett carried the following sobering facts:

". . . Of ground forces in Korea, the U.S. has sent 84 per cent. This figure excludes South Koreans. Korea is not in the U.N.

"American battle casualties (dead, wounded and missing) outnumber those of other United Nations in Korea by more than 11 to 1. But this figure does not give the true picture. U.S. non-battle casualties are not reported to us. They are kept secret.

"Over 90 per cent of the U.N. dead in Korea are American boys. But no Canadian youth is even drafted into military service. Reading these facts, an American father asked me this question, 'Why are the lives of our boys less precious than those of other U.N. lands?'

54,000 American boys DIED in the Korean War.(3) That number of dead exceeds the 40,000 troops from all other U.N. nations that served in Korea, most of whom returned home unscathed.(4)

No wonder the brainwashing of Americans by the Communists was so terrifyingly successful!

At any time conscripted Americans may again be hauled off to the transports for declared or undeclared war in any one of a hundred lands.

The U.S. generally regards itself as a nation that cares much for its young people. Does this performance sound like a nation that cares much for its young people?

Shocking and terrifying as the fact is to any thinking person, there is little opposition in the U.S. to conscription for foreign war. This is sickening evidence demonstrating how far we have already traveled down the road to despotism. We even have the occasional spectacle of the parent who is PROUD that his or her son has been conscripted into the army and shipped half way around the globe to fight in some snake-infested jungle.

Resistance to conscription for foreign war does not imply a posture of pacifism. Actually, it is a reaffirmation of patriotism as contrasted to imperialism. It is one thing to require that Americans be conscripted to defend Florida. It is an altogether different thing to require that they be conscripted to invade Cuba. Every red-blooded American is ready to defend our sacred soil against all comers. But God gave us no mandate to rule the world, and our foreign adventures thus far surely prove to any fair-minded observer our lack of competence to do so.

There is much evidence to bulwark the conclusion that communism has attained its present position astride the Eurasian continent because the U.S. conscripted its citizens for foreign war. Dean Russell set out this case in the following paragraphs:

"As nearly as I can judge, Germany and England and their allies were faced with the military necessity for a truce with no victor in the fall of 1916, or even before. If the United States could not wait for them to work out their own truce, then. . .we could at least have offered our 'good offices'. . .

"Instead, our leaders chose sides and decided to use violence . . .by conscripting our young men at home and forcing them to fight in Europe. That decision probably added two years to the conflict. The continuation of the war caused a reluctant but desperate Germany to send Lenin into Russia to start a revolution and to establish communism. Our entry into the war led directly to Versailles and a vindictive 'peace'. . .

"When the consequences of World War I finally arrived in the form of World War II, a few persons in positions of power had already committed the United States to one side well before Pearl Harbor. . .do many persons believe that a triumphant Germany without any aid from us would have posed as serious a problem as. . .Russia. . .?

"At the same time that we were choosing Stalin over Hitler, we were also choosing China over Japan — long before Pearl Harbor.

"And the fact remains that the decisions which were made by our leaders before and during World War II were based squarely on the idea of conscripting unwilling persons to enforce those decisions."(5)

The candidates for the 1964 election are already under discussion, but there is no discussion of any basic issues. If things continue on their present course, we can safely predict that the issue of conscription for foreign war will be carefully evaded by both parties and all candidates. We are so completely committed to the warfare state that politicians will avoid any honest discussion of the global expenditure of the conscripted lives of American boys.

U.S. citizens who believe in justice must make the conscription of American boys for foreign war the great issue of our times. The adherents of liberty must stand with the honorable Americans who declared, "There is no political or religious duty more sacred than saving the lives of our youth."

Yesterday's Market

Market Remains Barely Upside In Quiet Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market remained barely on the upside late Tuesday in very quiet trading.

The averages were bolstered by a scattering of gains by pivotal issues. Du Pont was up about 2. AT&T rose a point.

Fractional gains were held by General Motors, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Consolidated Edison.

Chrysler backed away from an early rise of about a point and was fractionally lower. Ford held a small gain. American Motors advanced ⅜ to 21.

Twentieth Century-Fox was up a point following news it plans to resume feature film production at its Los Angeles studios next month after a closedown since last summer.

Gains of a point or so were also registered by Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio and Sears Roebuck.

Down fractionally were Radio Corp., Liggett & Myers, Illinois Central and Goodyear.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed in quiet trading.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—A bullish report on inspections for export last week imparted strength to soybean futures today and prices were strong most of the time on the Board of Trade with gains of two cents or so at the extreme.

Old crop wheat developed a little firmness but other grains continued in a weaker trend.

The government reported that 5.5 million bushels of soybeans were inspected at the seaboard last week for shipment overseas. The figure was far above the most optimistic trade estimates.

Carlot receipts were estimated at: wheat 33 cars, corn 108, oats 4, rye none, barley 3, soybeans 8.

Stock Market Undergoes Mild Decline; Trade Dull

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .6 at 253.3 with industrials off 1.3, rails unchanged and utilities unchanged.

Losses of most key stocks were fractional. A scattering went to a point or so. Many were unchanged.

Some of the economic news was encouraging. February auto sales were the best since 1955. Revised figures showed January retail sales at a new monthly high. Reports were that many companies plan to increase their capital spending in 1963.

On the other hand, a published report said the United States plans to boost short-term interest rates to end the deficit in international payments, and the stock market dislikes tougher credit.

The trend was a bit lower among steels, motors, rubbers, coppers, and electronics. Oils, tobaccos, chemicals, utilities, and rails were mixed.

Chrysler had a slight gain in early trading but sank ⅜ to 87 on a block of 3,800 shares and later traded at a fractional loss. Ford also took a minor loss while American Motors, General Motors, and Studebaker showed scant change.

Baltimore & Ohio, up a point, was about the best performer among the rails. The others pursued a ragged course.

IBM showed a fractional gain as did American Telephone.

Among moderate losers were Consolidated Edison, Merck, Air Reduction, General Electric, International Paper, Boeing, U.S. Rubber, Goodrich, and Montgomery Ward.

Prices were irregular in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange. Most changes were narrow. Gainers included Canadian Industrial Gas, National Petroleum, Dialight, Massey-Ferguson, and Consolidated Sun Ray. Among losers were Syntex, Perfect Photo, Kratter, Arkansas Louisiana Gas, and American Seal-Kap.

Common Market Not to Penalize American Capital

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—American firms investing abroad are accused of everything from exporting jobs to a share in the blame for the shrinkage of the Treasury's gold hoard.

And some have wondered if they weren't caught in the middle in the fight between France and Britain over the future make-up of the European Common Market. Some are taking a second look at their plans for investing there.

But some kind words for American investors are coming today from two sources.

The president of the European Economic Community, Walter Hallstein, says that some American products will be getting a better break in their bid for the rich European market and that American capital there won't be penalized.

He adds that eventually Britain will be admitted to the Common Market, even if today French President Charles de Gaulle opposes it. And American investments abroad may slow their fast pace of recent years for economic rather than political reasons, whether these be European objections or American policy.

The second source, an American bank with much international business, takes a look at the role of American investments abroad. Its verdict: The private sector of the U.S. economy has a good report card. It hasn't added to the U.S. deficit in the balance of payments, but has offset it to some extent. The economists at the First National City Bank of New York hold that the deficit comes from government dealings of various kinds with other nations.

In addition, European investments in the United States top American private investments abroad by $15 billion to $11 billion.

The implied inference: U.S. industry is getting more financial help from abroad in creating jobs that American investments so far have added to the European economy.

The other side of the picture is conceded by the U.S. Department of Commerce which says government grants and capital outflows do affect our foreign trade. It adds there's the complication of "private capital outflows which may stimulate exports while the capital is transferred, but, in some instances, may contribute to the construction abroad of productive facilities which compete with our domestically produced goods."

Tackling the investment problem in its monthly economic letter, the New York bank says that in 1962 private long-term investments abroad came to $2.4 billion, private short-term assests abroad increased by $600 million, and probably another $900 million flowed abroad unrecorded.

But offsetting this the bank puts income on investments abroad as $3.6 billion and the long-term capital inflow from abroad at $500 million. This gives the private sector a $200 million assist to the balance of payments.

IN MEMORIAM

The memory of our loving husband and father Kenneth W. Pierce who passed away one year ago today, March 6, 1962. No one knows the silent heartache, only those who have lost can tell the grief, that born in silence can tell the one we loved so well. Bless God or give a silent tear, a constant wish he was here, there are others yes, we know but he was ours and we loved him so. Loved, remembered long for ever bring many silent tears.

Mrs. Margaret Pierce and family, Monument, Colorado.

Yesterday's Market

Market Remains Barely Upside In Quiet Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market remained barely on the upside late Tuesday in very quiet trading.

The averages were bolstered by a scattering of gains by pivotal issues. Du Pont was up about 2. AT&T rose a point.

Fractional gains were held by General Motors, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Consolidated Edison.

Chrysler backed away from an early rise of about a point and was fractionally lower. Ford held a small gain. American Motors advanced ⅜ to 21.

Twentieth Century-Fox was up a point following news it plans to resume feature film production at its Los Angeles studios next month after a closedown since last summer.

Gains of a point or so were also registered by Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio and Sears Roebuck.

Down fractionally were Radio Corp., Liggett & Myers, Illinois Central and Goodyear.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed in quiet trading.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—A bullish report on inspections for export last week imparted strength to soybean futures today and prices were strong most of the time on the Board of Trade with gains of two cents or so at the extreme.

Old crop wheat developed a little firmness but other grains continued in a weaker trend.

The government reported that 5.5 million bushels of soybeans were inspected at the seaboard last week for shipment overseas. The figure was far above the most optimistic trade estimates.

Carlot receipts were estimated at: wheat 33 cars, corn 108, oats 4, rye none, barley 3, soybeans 8.

Stock Market Undergoes Mild Decline; Trade Dull

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .6 at 253.3 with industrials off 1.3, rails unchanged and utilities unchanged.

Losses of most key stocks were fractional. A scattering went to a point or so. Many were unchanged.

Some of the economic news was encouraging. February auto sales were the best since 1955. Revised figures showed January retail sales at a new monthly high. Reports were that many companies plan to increase their capital spending in 1963.

On the other hand, a published report said the United States plans to boost short-term interest rates to end the deficit in international payments, and the stock market dislikes tougher credit.

The trend was a bit lower among steels, motors, rubbers, coppers, and electronics. Oils, tobaccos, chemicals, utilities, and rails were mixed.

Chrysler had a slight gain in early trading but sank ¾ to 87 on a block of 3,800 shares and later traded at a fractional loss. Ford also took a minor loss while American Motors, General Motors, and Studebaker showed scant change.

Baltimore & Ohio, up a point, was about the best performer among the rails. The others pursued a ragged course.

IBM showed a fractional gain as did American Telephone.

Among moderate losers were Consolidated Edison, Merck, Air Reduction, General Electric, International Paper, Boeing, U.S. Rubber, Goodrich, and Montgomery Ward.

Prices were irregular in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange. Most changes were narrow. Gainers included Canadian Industrial Gas, National Petroleum, Dialight, Massey-Ferguson, and Consolidated Sun Ray. Among losers were Syntex, Perfect Photo, Kratter, Arkansas Louisiana Gas, and American Seal-Kap.

Common Market Not to Penalize American Capital

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—American firms investing abroad are accused of everything from exporting jobs to a share in the blame for the shrinkage of the Treasury's gold hoard.

And some have wondered if they weren't caught in the middle in the fight between France and Britain over the future make-up of the European Common Market. Some are taking a second look at their plans for investing there.

But some kind words for American investors are coming today from two sources.

The president of the European Economic Community, Walter Hallstein, says that some American products will be getting a better break in their bid for the rich European market and that American capital there won't be penalized.

He adds that eventually Britain will be admitted to the Common Market, even if today French President Charles de Gaulle opposes it. And American investments abroad may slow their fast pace of recent years for economic rather than political reasons, whether these be European objections or American policy.

The second source, an American bank with much international business, takes a look at the role of American investments abroad. Its verdict: The private sector of the U.S. economy has a good report card. It hasn't added to the U.S. deficit in the balance of payments, but has offset it to some extent. The economists at the First National City Bank of New York hold that the deficit comes from government dealings of various kinds with other nations.

In addition, European investments in the United States top American private investments abroad by $15 billion to $11 billion.

The implied inference: U.S. industry is getting more financial help from abroad in creating jobs that American investments so far have added to the European economy.

The other side of the picture is conceded by the U.S. Department of Commerce which says government grants and capital outflows do affect our foreign trade. It adds there's the complication of "private capital outflows which may stimulate exports while the capital is transferred, but, in some instances, may contribute to the construction abroad of productive facilities which compete with our domestically produced goods."

Tackling the investment problem in its monthly economic letter, the New York bank says that in 1962 private long-term investments abroad came to $2.4 billion, private short-term assests abroad increased by $600 million, and probably another $900 million flowed abroad unrecorded.

But offsetting this the bank puts income on investments abroad as $3.6 billion and the long-term capital inflow from abroad at $500 million. This gives the private sector a $200 million assist to the balance of payments.

IN MEMORIAM

The memory of our loving husband and father Kenneth W. Pierce who passed away one year ago today, March 6, 1962. No one knows the silent heartache, only those who have lost can tell the grief, that born in silence can tell the one we loved so well. Bless God or give a silent tear, a constant wish he was here, there are others yes, we know but he was ours and we loved him so. Loved, remembered long for ever bring many silent tears.

Mrs. Margaret Pierce and family, Monument, Colorado.

How to Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

(© 1963: By the Chicago Tribune)

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE CHOLESTEROL ENIGMA

A decade has elapsed since we first began to hear the publicity about cholesterol and low fat diets for prevention of heart attacks. Despite the passage of years, we still have no proof that reducing the amount of cholesterol in the blood will ward off coronary thrombosis or prolong the life of a victim of a heart attack.

The logical explanation is that many factors other than diet play a role in the development of hardening of the coronary arteries — the basic cause of the ordinary heart attack. These elements include the emotional and behavioral patterns of the individual, lack of physical activity, excessive smoking, heredity, and the person's sex.

Obesity and high blood pressure also enter the picture. In addition a magnesium deficiency and several nonfat nutritional substances are implicated, such as excess salt, protein, and carbohydrates. But the cause of heart disease in one person may differ from that in another. Avoid extreme views in any single area and practice moderation in all things, including the diet.

Cholesterol is not necessarily synonymous with coronary heart disease, and an elevated level is not a sure sign the heart will suffer. But we cannot write off cholesterol entirely because an elevated level is a high risk factor. On the other hand, as mentioned previously, the possibility of a heart attack is increased by high blood pressure, obesity, changes in the electro-cardiogram, heredity, or the sex of the individual.

We ought to avoid gluttonous eating and get down to a normal weight. Eating some butter, cream, milk, cake, margarine, meat, and eggs will not kill anyone. But take it easy if the blood cholesterol level is elevated. Discuss the diet with your physician and try not to go overboard by demanding cholesterol lowering products that you have read or heard about.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Blue Skin

G. R. Writes: What would cause the skin to turn blue besides cold?

Reply

Disorders of the heart and lungs are common causes of cyanosis. The blue baby is an example. In polycythemia, the skin darkens because there are too many red blood cells and too much hemoglobin. Cyanosis results from taking certain drugs in large quantities. Obstruction in the throat or larynx also shuts off the oxygen supply and darkens the skin.

Hiccuping Family

H. A. writes: Are prolonged spells of hiccups (lasting days) inherited? My husband has this condition and his father had it too.

Reply

The possibility exists in your family but we might assume the cause rather than the hiccup is hereditary. A thoro medical examination must be done to determine whether hiccuping has an emotional or an organic basis.

Tingles After Cocktails

W. R. writes: What causes a tingling sensation in the tips of the fingers after drinking alcohol?

Reply

This may stem from the pleasure brought on by effects of the alcohol. I doubt if it means neuritis or represents a side reaction to the chemical.

Filberts Must Be Reported To U.S. Office

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Handled any filberts lately? If so, be certain you "keep records of all filberts received, held and disposed of as prescribed by the filbert control board."

I personally have not handled any filberts, but I have shelled a few peanuts. It behooves me therefore "to maintain detailed records and keep copies of reports pertaining to the shelling of each lot of peanuts (including record of peanuts retained by the sheller)."

"Filbert handlers" and "peanut shellers" are among the 848 groups that are currently required to keep records for the 10 executive departments and 18 independent agencies of the federal government.

These are, of course, in addition to the records that the 10 executive departmentc and 18 independent agencies keep for themselves.

A handy, thought-provoking list of the records that private citizens and organizátions are required to keep has just been published by the General Services Administration, which itself requires the keeping of 11 different types of records.

Among those who must keep records for the General Services Administration are parties who sell the government manganese, mica, beryl, asbestos, columbium-tantalum and mercury.

A beryl dealer apparently has to keep even more records than a filbert handler.

The Maritime Administration requires the keeping of 29 types of records. These include "receipts for the quantities of slop chest items delivered aboard ship."

I am not certain just what sort of items go into a slop chest, but if anyone filled a slop chest with filberts he presumably would have to keep records for the Agriculture Department as well as the Maritime Administration.

If you have a permit to frighten migratory birds, you should keep record for the Fish and Wildlife Service. The same is true for "persons authorized to kill depredating purple gallinules in Louisiana."

Importers of India water buffalo hides should keep records for the Customs Bureau, as should importers of rapeseed oil. It is the Federal Aviation Agency, however, that requires airplane makers to keep records of "flight flutter tests."

The Securities & Exchange Commission has a requirement pertaining to "records prepared or maintained by others than persons required to maintain and preserve them."

I don't know what that means exactly, so my advice to you is: Don't throw anything away.

State's Mental Division Chief Quits His Post

DENVER (AP) — Gov. John Love indicates he would like to have Dr. Wesley D. White, supervisor of the state's division of mental retardation, remain on the job.

Dr. White resigned, effective June 30, with a statement that his family and the families of his professional staff "Have suffered from unwarranted and degrading publicity centering around the receiving of perquisites which were given at the time of employment by the State of Colorado."

Included were food and quarters for staff members.

The governor said at a news conference he was sorry to have Dr. White resign.

"I'd be pleased to have him continue in the retardation program, where I'm sure he has made a fine contribution," Love said.

He said the granting of quarters, rations and other benefits to some officials "Is an area that needs to be well understood and cleared up."

David A. Hamil, director of institutions, said he was "surprised" at Dr. White's resignation.

"Any criticism of Dr. White is also criticism of me," Hamil said.

The governor re-emphasized his own belief in Dr. White and said he doesn't know that he has been denied anything promised him at the time of employment by the state.

Filberts Must Be Reported To U.S. Office

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Handled any filberts lately? If so, be certain you "keep records of all filberts received, held and disposed of as prescribed by the filbert control board."

I personally have not handled any filberts, but I have shelled a few peanuts. It behooves me therefore "to maintain detailed records and keep copies of reports pertaining to the shelling of each lot of peanuts (including record of peanuts retained by the sheller)."

"Filbert handlers" and "peanut shellers" are among the 848 groups that are currently required to keep records for the 10 executive departments and 18 independent agencies of the federal government.

These are, of course, in addition to the records that the 10 executive departmenta and 18 independent agencies keep for themselves.

A handy, thought-provoking list of the records that private citizens and organizations are required to keep has just been published by the General Services Administration, which itself requires the keeping of 11 different types of records.

Among those who must keep records for the General Services Administration are parties who sell the government manganese, mica, beryl, asbestos, columbium-tantalum and mercury.

A beryl dealer apparently has to keep even more records than a filbert handler.

The Maritime Administration requires the keeping of 29 types of records. These include "receipts for the quantities of slop chest items delivered aboard ship."

I am not certain just what sort of items go into a slop chest, but if anyone filled a slop chest with filberts he presumably would have to keep records for the Agriculture Department as well as the Maritime Administration.

If you have a permit to frighten migratory birds, you should keep record for the Fish and Wildlife Service. The same is true for "persons authorized to kill depredating purple gallinules in Louisiana."

Importers of India water buffalo hides should keep records for the Customs Bureau, as should importers of rapeseed oil. It is the Federal Aviation Agency, however, that requires airplane makers to keep records of "flight flutter tests."

The Securities & Exchange Commission has a requirement pertaining to "records prepared or maintained by others than persons required to maintain and preserve them."

I don't know what that means exactly, so my advice to you is: Don't throw anything away.

State's Mental Division Chief Quits His Post

DENVER (AP) — Gov. John Love indicates he would like to have Dr. Wesley D. White, supervisor of the state's division of mental retardation, remain on the job.

Dr. White resigned, effective June 30, with a statement that his family and the families of his professional staff "Have suffered from unwarranted and degrading publicity centering around the receiving of perquisites which were given at the time of employment by the State of Colorado."

Included were food and quarters for staff members.

The governor said at a news conference he was sorry to have Dr. White resign.

"I'd be pleased to have him continue in the retardation program, where I'm sure he has made a fine contribution," Love said.

He said the granting of quarters, rations and other benefits to some officials "Is an area that needs to be well understood and cleared up."

David A. Hamil, director of institutions, said he was "surprised" at Dr. White's resignation.

"Any criticism of Dr. White is also criticism of me," Hamil said.

The governor re-emphasized his own belief in Dr. White and said he doesn't know that he has been denied anything promised him at the time of employment by the state.

UNIQUE GIFT — Air Force Academy Superintendent Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren accepts a wide variety of gifts on behalf of the Academy during the year but none will be more unique than the rare Chinese table screen presented to him by Maj. Hai-Jou Yuan, Chinese Air Force officer assigned to the department of foreign languages. The screen was the gift of Maj. Gen. Hsing-Yang Lee, commandant of the Chinese Air Force Academy on Formosa.

City Opens Bids But Low Offer Not Determined

Bids from three firms for the installation of a traffic-control system in the City were opened Tuesday but because of the complicated nature of the bids officials were not immediately able to determine the low bidder.

City Traffic Engineering Department spokesmen said that a careful evaluation of the bids would be made before a recommendation is sent to City Council Tuesday.

They said the downtown traffic committee would assist in the bid evaluations.

The city had called for bids on two types of traffic control systems: a multi - dial, pre - timed set up and an electronic traffic-adjusted type. Only one of the two types will be used, officials said.

Submitting the bids were Crouse - Hinds, Syracuse, N. Y.; Econolite Corp., Los Angelus, Calif., which is a western representative of Automatic Signal Co., Norwalk, Conn., and Eagle Signal Co., a division of Gamewell Co. with offices in Davanport, Iowa, and Moline, Ill.

Crouse - Hinds submitted no bid on the traffic - adjusted type, but entered two bids for the multi - dial system. One bid for the basic system was $20,984.59. The second bid was for a Trafflex system which is a variation of the multi - dial set - up and was for 20,915.20.

Econolite's bid for the multi-dial system was $20,210 while Eagle Signal Company submitted a bid of $26,378.80.

Eagle's bid on the traffic - adjusted system was for a total of $45,071. This included a bid of $11,656.20 for the master controller and $835.37 for each of the 40 two - phase and three - phase local controllers neded.

Officials could not give Econolite's total bid because of a variance in prices between the two-phase and three-phase local controllers.

This firm submitted a bid of $11,699.78 for the master controller. Its bid on the three-phase local controllers was $1,766.90 for each unit used and the bid on the two-phase controllers was $1,482.21 for each of the units used.

Officials explained that while a total of 40 local controllers will be needed for the traffic-adjusted system, the number of two-phase and three-phase units needed has not been determined.

Installation of one of these systems will bring to a close the four-year downtown traffic improvement program.

Donald L. Smith, city traffic engineer, said that the successful bidder must supply the equipment and install the master controller.

A contract for installation of the local controllers has been awarded to Berwick Electric Co. which already has installed the downtown interconnect cable necessary for the system.

Smith said the engineering department would make a recommendation on the bids and whether to install the master controller in City Hall or in the new police building at Tuesday's council meeting.

Clothing Worth $80 Taken From Parked Car

Ted Guzman of Security reported to the sheriff's office Tuesday that a quantity of clothing worth a total of $80 had been stolen from his car when it was parked on the Branding Iron lot, Security.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Ames said the vehicle was unlocked at the time and that the clothing had been hung up in the car.

Manitou Considers Change Of Form to Home-Rule City

The question of whether Manitour Springs should move from a second - class statutory city to a home rule form of government may appear on the ballot in the municipal election in November.

The home-rule, now the form of government for 28 cities in Colorado, simplifies and steamlines city administration, the statutory procedures to adopt it are quite complex.

Sayre said initial steps include informing residents of advantages and disadvantages of home-rule thru public meetings.

Articles explaining what home-rule would mean to Manitou Springs have appeared in the Gazette Telegraph and Pikes Peak Journal within the past few months.

For the question of home-rule to appear on the ballot in November, it would be necessary for five per cent of the residents who voted in the last gubernatorial election to sign a petition.

If the electors accept the home-rule plan the second major step is for residents to participate in a second election whereby 21 taxpayers would be elected to a home - rule charter convention.

Nominations for a member of the charter convention would be by petition of 25 electors filed with the city clerk within 25 days of the election date.

After the charter convention is elected, the 21 - member group must draft a charter or constitution within 60 days which would be adopted or rejected by the electors.

If rejected by the voters, the entire procedure is repeated from the point of nominating and electing the 21 - man charter convention again.

Sayre said a few cities, such as Lamar, have had the intial charter rejected but the second charter submitted to vote had been approved.

He said much depends on the wise selection of the charter convention members and their ability to include in the charter what the majority of the voters indicate they want.

Sayre told council members that once the involved mechanics of establishing home - rule are completed, it is unquestionably a desirable form of city government.

"A city can accomplish things more quickly and easily and it gives the people the opportunity to govern most of their own affairs without interference from state legislation."

He said he was not promoting establishment of sales tax, as such, but several home-rule cities have been able to lower property tax by levying sales tax.

City council members indicated continued interest in the home-rule plan and will schedule public meetings within the next few months to inform residents of the system.

Second Open House Set for Police Building

A second open house at the new Colorado Springs Police Building and emergency control center will be held from 2 to 10 p.m. March 13.

Police Chief Cecil C. McKissick said this last open house would be extended until 10 p. m. so that residents working during the day who want to tour the building will have an opportunity to do so.

He said conducted tours would leave the entrance lobby every 15 minutes with each touring group limited to 15 persons. Civil defense personnel will conduct tours in the emergency control center.

He said more than 1,000 persons toured the building and its facilities and that every one in the department assisted in the activities. Some 300 additional manhours were put in by department personnel.

The police chief expressed the department's appreciation to persons who toured the building Saturday and to those persons and firms sending flowers.

Old West Theme For Scout Court of Honor

The pageantry and color of the Old West will be re-created Saturday at 2 p.m. on the Air Force Academy Court of Honor.

Authentic Indian dances will be presented by the Ki-Ann Indian Dancers, a group of Boy Scouts from Olathe, Colo. The public is invited.

The dancers are all teen-age Scouts from Colorado's Western Slope country. Directors are Dale Felix and Leonard Huffman. Members of the troupe make their own colorful uniforms and spend hours planning their performances.

The Ki-Anns will also dance in the rotunda of the State Capitol for Gov. John Love and will be introduced on the floor of the Colorado Senate Friday morning.

Missile Defense Physics to Be Discussed

"The Physics of Ballistic Missile Defense," will be discussed March 16 at a meeting of Air Force Academy seniors in Fairchild Hall.

Dr. John W. Bond, senior staff physicist at Kaman Nuclear in Colorado Springs, will deliver the unclassified lecture to the seniors and Academy faculty and staff members.

Prior to joining Kaman in 1962, Dr. Bond was senior staff scientist for the Institute for Defense Analysis of the Advanced Research Projects Division at the Pentagon. He was responsible for technical management and planning of physics related to ballistic missile defense.

Dr. Bond also served as Chief of Physics for Convair, theoretical physicist for General Electric, and as a physicist for Lockheed Missile System Division, the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, and the Manhattan District Project.

Man Reports Car Stolen From Home Monday

Loring Lennox, of 1337 Hermosa Way, told the sheriff's office Tuesday that his 1961 Ford Falcon had been stolen from the front of his home Monday night.

Deputy Sheriffs Vincent Denboske and Bob Snuggs said Lennox forgot to remove the keys from the vehicle. It is described as a four-door sedan, with white wall tires, license plate number JX 440 and motor number 1K13U146-298. The car is worth $1,300.

Drug Case Bond Set At $10,000

A charge of being in possession of a narcotic drug was filed in District Court Tuesday against Sgt. Floyd Washington, 40, Ft. Carson, and Judge William M. Calvert set bond at $10,000.

Information states the defendant had a quantity of marijuana in his possession Sunday, the day he was arrested and placed in county jail for investigation.

A sheriff's report says a two pound can of the drug was found in one of his cars and a glass jar about half filled in his second car.

Lt. Col. Stockdale Completed Duty With Reserve

Lt. Col. Herbert K. Stockdale, a native to Colorado Springs and terminal manager of Navajo Freight Lines, recently completed 15 days annual reservist active duty in his Air Force job as deputy chief of transportation, with the Transportation Division, headquarters, ADC.

He is a member of the Air Force Reserve Policy Committee representing headquarters ADC, and is classed as a Part 1 ready reservist, Mobilization Orders Air Reserve Section.

Col. Stockdale's long association with the service began in Aug. 1939 As a member of the Transportation Corps, his first stint of active duty continued until June 1946.

He is past president of the Reserve Officers Association, local chapter, and held the post of vice-president of that organization in 1947. In 1959 he was commander of the Colorado wing of the Air Force Association, following service in 1958 as state secretary for the Colorado wing of the AFA.

Col. Stockdale attended Colorado College, Princeton University and University of Michigan. He is a member of AF & AM Masonic Lodge 76.

His wife is the former Mary L. Huscher, retired Air Force nurse, of Granfield, Okla. The Stockdale's three children live with them at 10 Altair Lane in Colorado Springs.

North Junior High Conducts Science Fair

For the first time in three years, North Junior High School conducted a Science Fair Tuesday and school officials said they were very pleased with the interest shown by the students and parents.

Judges, who selected a winner in each of the three grades, were Richard Winternitz, biology teacher, Palmer High School; Dr. James Gorrel, production engineering and management, Hewlett Packard Company; and Capt. William F. Goodner, associate professor of chemistry and physiology at the Air Force Academy.

The one girl who was named winner, Judy Fischer, eighth grade student, developed a project and display of dried culture.

The ninth grade winner, Robert Moyers, had a display showing the effect of light on the spore discharge of fungi. Seventh grader, Chris Skelton won first place in his class with a display of plant growth.

Selection of winners was made on the following basis: creative ability, 30 per cent; scientific thought, 30 per cent; clarity and dramatic presentation, 20 per cent; skill, 10 per cent and thoroughness, 10 per cent.

Extension of School Day Seen for Local High Schools

Current enrollment figures indicate that when school opens in September 1963 District 11 high schools will show a considerable gain in enrollment requiring a further extension of the school day.

One of the signs pointing toward such an increase in the number of twelfth grade students, most of whom will graduate, and the number of ninth grade pupils, most of whom will enroll at Palmer or Wasson next fall.

The Department of Pupil Accounting and Testing Services reported that on February 22 there were 925 seniors at the two high schools and 1563 pupils in the ninth grades of the city's five junior highs. This is a potential gain of 638 in high school enrollment.

Whether or not the increase will be that big is impossible to determine at present because some seniors may not graduate and some ninth graders may not enter high school. Another reason is that no one can accurately estimate the number of students who will leave and the number who will move into the district.

Three facts, however, point to a very sizeable increase in the high schools, according to Barclay H. Watson, administrative assistant. They are the very large difference between ninth and twelfth grade enrollments, the fact that high school enrollment this year has declined very little from its September peak, and in the past incoming students have considerably exceeded the number leaving the district.

To handle the additional students, both high schools are planning to extend their daily schedules. In all probability classes at both Wasson and Palmer will be in session from about 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with students arriving and departing at different times, Watson said.

Commander Named at Post For Squadron

The new commander of the 4th Squadron 12th Cavalry, of the 5th Infantry Division is Lt. Col. Neil M. Chapin, who earned the Distinguished Service Cross during combat in World War II.

Col. Chapin, an artilleryman turned cavalryman, earned his commission at Ft. Sill, Okla., Officer Candidate School in 1943. When he accepted a Regular Army commission after the war, he elected to change his branch from artillery to armor.

He was a forward observer and reconnaissance officer in World War II with the 7th Armored Division and won the Distinguished Service Cross, the Bronze Star, the Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster and the Belgian Fourragere.

He served in Korea as a company commander with the 70th Tank Battalion.

Col. Chapin has completed the armor officer advanced course at Ft. Knox, Ky., and was armor instructor and liaison officer at the Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J. He is a graduate of Command and General Staff College and the Armed Forces Staff College.

The new commander comes to Ft. Carson from a tour of personnel duty in the Pentagon. His wife, the former Betty Burgess of Petersburg, Va., and their son, David, 18, will remain in Virginia until David graduates from high school this spring.

License Not Attached Brings Driver Fine

Robert Eugene Decker, 30, of Ft. Carson, was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Tuesday as he did not have his 1963 plates attached to his car. Decker was cited on South Nevada Avenue Feb. 2 by State Patrolman J. Mathis.

Police Officer W. Banks gave a ticket to Louis Wayne Bill for having no operator's license when driving on Pikes Peak Avenue Feb. 26. Bill, 20, of 414½ Hill Rd. received a $5 fine and costs.

James Gibson Manakea, 42, of Denver, was charged with the same violation and fined $3 plus $4 costs. State Patrolman C. W. Hubbard cited him on U. S. Highway 85-87 Sunday.

A Ft. Carson man, Andrew Henry Grunzel, 43, paid a $5 fine and costs for having no registration. He was ticketed on St. Elmo Street by State Patrolman Pete Thiel.

Colorado College To Take Part In Conference

More than 100 college and university summer school administrators from 35 states will attend the 14th annual conference of the North Central Conference of Summer Schools at Palmer House in Chicago March 17-18.

Announcement of the annual meeting was made by Dr. Adolph Unruh, president of the Conference and Dean of the Summer Session at Washington University in St. Louis.

Highlights of the program will include presentations of papers on the following topics: Problems, Trends, and Implications of Year-Round College Programs by John R. Little, Dean of the Summer Session at the University of Colorado and Vice - President of the Conference; History of the North Central Conference of Summer Schools by J. Howard Kramer, President of Northern State Teachers College of South Dakota and Historian of the Conference; and reports by chairmen of the various standing committees.

The North Central Conference of Summer Schools has a membership of more than 100 leading colleges and universities located within the central region of the United States. States with representation extend from Arizona to Michigan and from Wyoming to West Virginia.

Colorado College, a member of the North Central Conference, has conducted an outstanding summer program for many years and has become known for its worthwhile professional contributions to the regional organization.

Driving With Expired License Brings $10 Fine

Bobbie Mae Condren, 44, of 26 W. Rio Grande St. was fined $10 and $4 costs in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Tuesday for driving with an expired license. The violation happened Friday on North Nevada Avenue and the ticketing officers were Deputy Sheriffs Bob Snuggs and Vincent Denboske.

An Ent man, Richard Lamar Agee, 21, paid a $6 fine and costs for driving the wrong way on a one-way street Sunday. He was cited on North Nevada Avenue by State Patrolman Al Smith.

State Patrolman Gordon Baumgardner gave a ticket to Paul J. Schultz as he was driving on 8th Street Feb. 27 without a valid operator's license. Schultz, 23, of 1626 S. 8th St. received a $6 fine and costs.

Careless driving on U.S. Highway 85-87, Friday cost Gerald Oree Simmons, 24, of Ft. Carson, $5 and costs. Carl Drake was the state patrolman.

CS Iron and Metal Co. Reports Robbery

One set of dual carburetors, a set of dual manifolds and two chrome air cleaners were stolen from the Colorado Springs Iron and Metal Co., 400 S. 16th St., the sheriff's office said Tuesday.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Dietsche reported they were taken from the company's junk car lot and that the missing items are worth a total of $46.

Annual County Crusade For Cancer Fund Slated

The American Cancer Society will launch its annual educational and fund - raising crusade in El Paso County on April 1. Emphasis will again be placed on the society's slogan: "To Cure More, Give More—Fight Cancer with a Checkup and a Check."

With more than 1,200,000 Americans now alive, cured of cancer, and the prospect of saving many more lives, Fred E. Provenzano, general crusade chairman, predicted a successful 1963 crusade. "Our goal of $30,000.00 is only a slight increase over last year's achievement. The public is becoming increasingly aware of the urgency of the cancer problem. There has never been a time when hope for a breakthrough has been so high."

In a special meeting of the three top leaders of the local unit of the American Cancer Society, Dr. E. H. Vincent, president, pointed out that "while we are now saving only one in three of every cancer case, we could easily save half of all cancer patients by the maximum use of our present knowledge about the disease.

"This year, at least 44,000 men and women will be saved who would have been lost to cancer had they developed the disease 10 years ago. And this," added Dr. Vincent, "is our hope for the future—more money for research will save even more lives.

"Because of the unnecessary loss of life (about one-third of these who die of cancer would not have needed to die), the leaders agreed that "the first goal of the 1963 crusade will be to get more people to doctors in time for early treatment. An annual health checkup is a person's best protection against death from cancer."

The second goal of the crusade, Mrs. John K. Gerhart, honorary crusade chairman, said, "Will be to raise more money for research. We are on the threshold of another stunning victory — saving at least half of those who develop cancer instead of the one-third now being saved. As volunteers, in El Paso County, we are redoubling our efforts in this crusade. I, for one, want to have a very special part in the final victory over cancer."

Provenzano said that much of the preliminary planning for the crusade has been done, volunteers all over the county are at work in their various activities and duties. "With all of us working together like this," he said, "we can't help but bring the day closer when cancer will lose its threat."

Harrison High School Students Attend Lecture

Harrison High School science students attended a film and discussion on the general characteristics of chemical, biological, radiological materials by Sgt. 1.C John F. Upton of Ft. Carson today.

Alan Sinton, secretary of the District 2 School Board, requested the program from the Carson Chemical, Biological, Radiological School where Upton is non-commissioned officer-in-charge.

It was his first talk of this type to a school audience. The veteran soldier, who will retire April 30, has given many classes for military, reservists and youth groups visiting Carson.

Upton has been with the CBR School at Carson since 1957 coming here from the position of Army Reserve adviser at Casper, Wyo.

He came on active duty with the 26th Infantry Division, Massachusetts National Guard, in 1942 and earned the Combat Infantryman Badge in the Pacific Theater as an infantry officer with the 31st Infantry Division.

He was with the Korean Military Assistance Advisory Group during the Korean conflict. Other assignments have included recruiting duty where he was main station commander in Viriginia and West Virginia.

His decorations include the Bronze Star and the Medal for Humane Action recognizing service in the Berlin Airlift of 1948 and 1949.

The Uptons live at 415 Aspen Dr., Security. When he retires in the grade of major, they plan to travel the United States before settling on a retirement home.

He will retire with 30 years reserve and active duty.

John D. Simmons Home on Leave

Radioman Seaman John D. Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Simmons of 14 N. Garo Ave., is home on leave after completing six months of radio school at the Naval Training Center in San Diego.

Simmons, a 1962 graduate of Wasson High, entered active service in July. He returns to San Diego Friday for reassignment to Agana Naval Air Station, Guam, where he will remain 18 months.

Leading Canadian Bankers to Visit Air Academy

The 76 members of the Montreal Board of Trade are scheduled to meet Superintendent Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren, receive a briefing on Academy mission and operation from Capt. Robert W. Korenig, special assistant to the superintendent, and tour buildings and facilities.

One of the most influential groups of its kind in Canada, the Montreal Board of Trade includes such men as Charles de L. Harwood, president of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce; G. Arnold Hart, president of the Bank of Montreal; N. V. Davis, president of Aluminum Ltd.; George Keeping, chairman of the executive council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce; and other leaders in Canadian industry, banking, and service groups.

The Canadians will also tour NORAD.

AFA Class Will Be Briefed by Top Officers

Top ranking officers at headquarters for the Strategic Air Command and the North American Air Defense Command will brief members of the Air Force Academy Class of 1964 on their operations March 9 and 16.

In two groups, the Academy class (juniors) will visit SAC headquarters at Offutt AFB, Neb. and NORAD headquarters in Colorado Springs to hear briefings, tour facilities, and receive special training.

At NORAD, cadets will also tour the Combat Operations Center.

The SAC and NORAD visits are designed to supplement classroom work in a military training course, "The Employment of Aerospace Power," thru first-hand briefings and tours relative to the current posture and future programs of the two commands.

Two-Year Old Struck by Car; Condition Fair

A two - year old local boy is listed in fair condition today at Penrose Hospital where he was taken Tuesday after being struck by a car near his home.

Jeffrey Bieri, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Bieri, 501 Foothill Road, received multiple lacerations of the face and head and lost two teeth in the accident.

State Patrol reports said the driver of the car was Louise W. Graber, 45, 516 Foothill Road.

Reports indicate that the boy apparently darted into the path of the car while trying to cross the street.

UNIQUE GIFT — Air Force Academy Superintendent Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren accepts a wide variety of gifts on behalf of the Academy during the year but none will be more unique than the rare Chinese table screen presented to him by Maj. Hai-Jou Yuan, Chinese Air Force officer assigned to the department of foreign languages. The screen was the gift of Maj. Gen. Hsing-Yang Lee, commandant of the Chinese Air Force Academy on Formosa.

City Opens Bids But Low Offer Not Determined

Bids from three firms for the installation of a traffic-control system in the City were opened Tuesday but because of the complicated nature of the bids officials were not immediately able to determine the low bidder.

City Traffic Engineering Department spokesmen said that a careful evaluation of the bids would be made before a recommendation is sent to City Council Tuesday.

They said the downtown traffic committee would assist in the bid evaluations.

The city had called for bids on two types of traffic control systems: a multi - dial, pre - timed set up and an electronic traffic-adjusted type. Only one of the two types will be used, officials said.

Submitting the bids were Crouse - Hinds, Syracuse, N. Y., Econolite Corp., Los Angelus, Calif., which is a western representative of Automatic Signal Co., Norwalk, Conn., and Eagle Signal Co., a division of Gamewell Co. with offices in Davanport, Iowa, and Moline, Ill.

Crouse - Hinds submitted no bid on the traffic - adjusted type, but entered two bids for the multi - dial system. One bid for the basic system was $20.984.59. The second bid was for a Trafflex system which is a variation of the multi - dial set - up and was for 20,915.20.

Econolite's bid for the multidial system was $20,210 while Eagle Signal Company submitted a bid of $26,378.80.

Eagle's bid on the traffic - adjusted system was for a total of $45,071. This included a bid of $11,656.20 for the master controller and $835.37 for each of the 40 two - phase and three - phase local controllers neded.

Officials could not give Econolite's total bid because of a variance in prices between the two-phase and three-phase local controllers.

This firm submitted a bid of $11,699.78 for the master controller. Its bid on the three-phase local controllers was $1,766.90 for each unit used and the bid on the two-phase controllers was $1,482.21 for each of the units used.

Officials explained that while a total of 40 local controllers will be needed for the traffic-adjusted system, the number of two-phase and three-phase units needed has not been determined.

Installation of one of these systems will bring to a close the four-year downtown traffic improvement program.

Donald L. Smith, city traffic engineer, said that the successful bidder must supply the equipment and install the master controller.

A contract for installation of the local controllers has been awarded to Berwick Electric Co. which already has installed the downtown interconnect cable necessary for the system.

Smith said the engineering department would make a recommendation on the bids and whether to install the master controller in City Hall or in the new police building at Tuesday's council meeting.

Clothing Worth $80 Taken From Parked Car

Ted Guzman of Security reported to the sheriff's office Tuesday that a quantity of clothing worth a total of $80 had been stolen from his car when it was parked on the Branding Iron lot, Security.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Ames said the vehicle was unlocked at the time and that the clothing had been hung up in the car.

Manitou Considers Change Of Form to Home-Rule City

The question of whether Manitour Springs should move from a second - class statutory city to a home rule form of government may appear on the ballot in the municipal election in November.

The home-rule, now the form of government for 28 cities in Colorado, simplifies and steamlines city administration, the statutory procedures to adopt it are quite complex.

Sayre said initial steps include informing residents of advantages and disadvantages of home-rule thru public meetings.

Articles explaining what home-rule would mean to Manitou Springs have appeared in the Gazette Telegraph and Pikes Peak Journal within the past few months.

For the question of home-rule to appear on the ballot in November, it would be necessary for five per cent of the residents who voted in the last gubernatorial election to sign a petition.

If the electors accept the home-rule plan the second major step is for residents to participate in a second election whereby 21 taxpayers would be elected to a home - rule charter convention.

Nominations for a member of the charter convention would be by petition of 25 electors filed with the city clerk within 25 days of the election date.

After the charter convention is elected, the 21 - member group must draft a charter or constitution within 60 days which would be adopted or rejected by the electors.

If rejected by the voters, the entire procedure is repeated from the point of nominating and electing the 21 - man charter convention again.

Sayre said a few cities, such as Lamar, have had the intial charter rejected but the second charter submitted to vote had been approved.

He said much depends on the wise selection of the charter convention members and their ability to include in the charter what the majority of the voters indicate they want.

Sayre told council members that once the involved mechanics of establishing home - rule are completed, it is unquestionably a desirable form of city government.

"A city can accomplish things more quickly and easily and it gives the people the opportunity to govern most of their own affairs without interference from state legislation."

He said he was not promoting establishment of sales tax, as such, but several home-rule cities have been able to lower property tax by levying sales tax.

City council members indicated continued interest in the home-rule plan and will schedule public meetings within the next few months to inform residents of the system.

Second Open House Set for Police Building

A second open house at the new Colorado Springs Police Building and emergency control center will be held from 2 to 10 p.m. March 13.

Police Chief Cecil C. McKissick said this last open house would be extended until 10 p. m. so that residents working during the day who want to tour the building will have an opportunity to do so.

He said conducted tours would leave the entrance lobby every 15 minutes with each touring group limited to 15 persons. Civil defense personnel will conduct tours in the emergency control center.

He said more than 1,000 persons toured the building and its facilities and that every one in the department assisted in the activities. Some 300 additional manhours were put in by department personnel.

The police chief expressed the department's appreciation to persons who toured the building Saturday and to those persons and firms sending flowers.

Old West Theme For Scout Court of Honor

The pageantry and color of the Old West will be re-created Saturday at 2 p.m. on the Air Force Academy Court of Honor.

Authentic Indian dances will be presented by the Ki-Ann Indian Dancers, a group of Boy Scouts from Olathe, Colo. The public is invited.

The dancers are all teen-age Scouts from Colorado's Western Slope country. Directors are Dale Felix and Leonard Huffman. Members of the troupe make their own colorful uniforms and spend hours planning their performances.

The Ki-Anns will also dance in the rotunda of the State Capitol for Gov. John Love and will be introduced on the floor of the Colorado Senate Friday morning.

Missile Defense Physics to Be Discussed

"The Physics of Ballistic Missile Defense," will be discussed March 16 at a meeting of Air Force Academy seniors in Fairchild Hall.

Dr. John W. Bond, senior staff physicist at Kaman Nuclear in Colorado Springs, will deliver the unclassified lecture to the seniors and Academy faculty and staff members.

Prior to joining Kaman in 1962, Dr. Bond was senior staff scientist for the Institute for Defense Analysis of the Advanced Research Projects Division at the Pentagon. He was responsible for technical management and planning of physics related to ballistic missile defense.

Dr. Bond also served as Chief of Physics for Convair, theoretical physicist for General Electric, and as a physicist for Lockheed Missile System Division, the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, and the Manhattan District Project.

Man Reports Car Stolen From Home Monday

Loring Lennox, of 1337 Hermosa Way, told the sheriff's office Tuesday that his 1961 Ford Falcon had been stolen from the front of his home Monday night.

Deputy Sheriffs Vincent Denboske and Bob Snuggs said Lennox forgot to remove the keys from the vehicle. It is described as a four-door sedan, with white wall tires, license plate number JX 440 and motor number 1K12U146-298. The car is worth $1,300.

Drug Case Bond Set At $10,000

A charge of being in possession of a narcotic drug was filed in District Court Tuesday against Sgt. Floyd Washington, 40, Ft. Carson, and Judge William M. Calvert set bond at $10,000.

Information states the defendant had a quantity of marijuana in his possession Sunday, the day he was arrested and placed in county jail for investigation.

A sheriff's report says a two pound can of the drug was found in one of his cars and a glass jar about half filled in his second car.

Lt. Col. Stockdale Completed Duty With Reserve

Lt. Col. Herbert K. Stockdale, a native to Colorado Springs and terminal manager of Navajo Freight Lines, recently completed 15 days annual reservist active duty in his Air Force job as deputy chief of transportation, with the Transportation Division, headquarters, ADC.

He is a member of the Air Force Reserve Policy Committee representing headquarters ADC, and is classed as a Part 1 ready reservist, Mobilization Orders Air Reserve Section.

Col. Stockdale's long association with the service began in Aug. 1939 As a member of the Transportation Corps, his first stint of active duty continued until June 1946.

He is past president of the Reserve Officers Association, local chapter, and held the post of vice-president of that organization in 1947. In 1959 he was commander of the Colorado wing of the Air Force Association, following service in 1958 as state secretary for the Colorado wing of the AFA.

Col. Stockdale attended Colorado College, Princeton University and University of Michigan. He is a member of AF & AM Masonic Lodge 76.

His wife is the former Mary L. Huscher, retired Air Force nurse, of Granfield, Okla. The Stockdale's three children live with them at 10 Altair Lane in Colorado Springs.

North Junior High Conducts Science Fair

For the first time in three years, North Junior High School conducted a Science Fair Tuesday and school officials said they were very pleased with the interest shown by the students and parents.

Judges, who selected a winner in each of the three grades, were Richard Winternitz, biology teacher, Palmer High School; Dr. James Gorrel, production engineering and management, Hewlett Packard Company; and Capt. William F. Goodner, associate professor of chemistry and physiology at the Air Force Academy.

The one girl who was named winner, Judy Fischer, eighth grade student, developed a project and display of dried culture.

The ninth grade winner, Robert Moyers, had a display showing the effect of light on the spore discharge of fungi. Seventh grader, Chris Skelton won first place in his class with a display of plant growth.

Selection of winners was made on the following basis: creative ability, 30 per cent; scientific thought, 30 per cent; clarity and dramatic presentation, 20 per cent; skill, 10 per cent and thoroughness, 10 per cent.

Extension of School Day Seen for Local High Schools

Current enrollment figures indicate that when school opens in September 1963 District 11 high schools will show a considerable gain in enrollment requiring a further extension of the school day.

One of the signs pointing toward such an increase in the number of twelfth grade students, most of whom will graduate, and the number of ninth grade pupils, most of whom will enroll at Palmer or Wasson next fall.

The Department of Pupil Accounting and Testing Services reported that on February 22 there were 925 seniors at the two high schools and 1563 pupils in the ninth grades of the city's five junior highs. This is a potential gain of 638 in high school enrollment.

Whether or not the increase will be that big is impossible to determine at present because some seniors may not graduate and some ninth graders may not enter high school. Another reason is that no one can accurately estimate the number of students who will leave and the number who will move into the district.

Three facts, however, point to a very sizeable increase in the high schools, according to Barclay H. Watson, administrative assistant. They are the very large difference between ninth and twelfth grade enrollments, the fact that high school enrollment this year has declined very little from its September peak, and in the past incoming students have considerably exceeded the number leaving the district.

To handle the additional students, both high schools are planning to extend their daily schedules. In all probability classes at both Wasson and Palmer will be in session from about 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with students arriving and departing at different times, Watson said.

Commander Named at Post For Squadron

The new commander of the 4th Squadron 12th Cavalry, of the 5th Infantry Division is Lt. Col. Neil M. Chapin, who earned the Distinguished Service Cross during combat in World War II.

Col. Chapin, an artilleryman turned cavalryman, earned his commission at Ft. Sill, Okla., Officer Candidate School in 1943. When he accepted a Regular Army commission after the war, he elected to change his branch from artillery to armor.

He was a forward observer and reconnaissance officer in World War II with the 7th Armored Division and won the Distinguished Service Cross, the Bronze Star, the Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster and the Belgian Fourragere.

He served in Korea as a company commander with the 70th Tank Battalion.

Col. Chapin has completed the armor officer advanced course at Ft. Knox, Ky., and was armor instructor and liaison officer at the Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J. He is a graduate of Command and General Staff College and the Armed Forces Staff College.

The new commander comes to Ft. Carson from a tour of personnel duty in the Pentagon. His wife, the former Betty Burgess of Petersburg, Va., and their son, David, 18, will remain in Virginia until David graduates from high school this spring.

License Not Attached Brings Driver Fine

Robert Eugene Decker, 30, of Ft. Carson, was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Tuesday as he did not have his 1963 plates attached to his car. Decker was cited on South Nevada Avenue Feb. 2 by State Patrolman J. Mathis.

Police Officer W. Banks gave a ticket to Louis Wayne Bill for having no operator's license when driving on Pikes Peak Avenue Feb. 26. Bill, 20, of 414½ Hill Rd. received a $5 fine and costs.

James Gibson Manakea, 42, of Denver, was charged with the same violation and fined $3 plus $4 costs. State Patrolman C. W. Hubbard cited him on U. S. Highway 85-87 Sunday.

A Ft. Carson man, Andrew Henry Grunzel, 43, paid a $5 fine and costs for having no registration. He was ticketed on St. Elmo Street by State Patrolman Pete Thiel.

Colorado College To Take Part In Conference

More than 100 college and university summer school administrators from 35 states will attend the 14th annual conference of the North Central Conference of Summer Schools at Palmer House in Chicago March 17-18.

Announcement of the annual meeting was made by Dr. Adolph Unruh, president of the Conference and Dean of the Summer Session at Washington University in St. Louis.

Highlights of the program will include presentations of papers on the following topics: Problems, Trends, and Implications of Year-Round College Programs by John R. Little, Dean of the Summer Session at the University of Colorado and Vice - President of the Conference; History of the North Central Conference of Summer Schools by J. Howard Kramer, President of Northern State Teachers College of South Dakota and Historian of the Conference; and reports by chairmen of the various standing committees.

The North Central Conference of Summer Schools has a membership of more than 100 leading colleges and universities located within the central region of the United States. States with representation extend from Arizona to Michigan and from Wyoming to West Virginia.

Colorado College, a member of the North Central Conference, has conducted an outstanding summer program for many years and has become known for its worthwhile professional contributions to the regional organization.

Driving With Expired License Brings $10 Fine

Bobbie Mae Condren, 44, of 26 W. Rio Grande St. was fined $10 and $4 costs in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Tuesday for driving with an expired license. The violation happened Friday on North Nevada Avenue and the ticketing officers were Deputy Sheriffs Bob Snuggs and Vincent Denboske.

An Ent man, Richard Lamar Agee, 21, paid a $6 fine and costs for driving the wrong way on a one-way street Sunday. He was cited on North Nevada Avenue by State Patrolman Al Smith.

State Patrolman Gordon Baumgardner gave a ticket to Paul J. Schultz as he was driving on 8th Street Feb. 27 without a valid operator's license. Schultz, 23, of 1626 S. 8th St. received a $6 fine and costs.

Careless driving on U.S. Highway 85-87, Friday cost Gerald Oree Simmons, 24, of Ft. Carson, $5 and costs. Carl Drake was the state patrolman.

Cleta R. Reynolds, 25, of 410 E. La Salle St. was charged with making a left turn in front of approaching traffic on Union Boulevard Sunday and fined $10 and costs. State Patrolman C. W. Hubbard was the ticketing officer.

CS Iron and Metal Co. Reports Robbery

One set of dual carburetors, a set of dual manifolds and two chrome air cleaners were stolen from the Colorado Springs Iron and Metal Co., 400 S. 16th St., the sheriff's office said Tuesday.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Dietsche reported they were taken from the company's junk car lot and that the missing items are worth a total of $40.

Annual County Crusade For Cancer Fund Slated

The American Cancer Society will launch its annual educational and fund - raising crusade in El Paso County on April 1. Emphasis will again be placed on the society's slogan: "To Cure More, Give More—Fight Cancer with a Checkup and a Check."

With more than 1,200,000 Americans now alive, cured of cancer, and the prospect of saving many more lives, Fred E. Provenzano, general crusade chairman, predicted a successful 1963 crusade. "Our goal of $30,000.00 is only a slight increase over last year's achievement. The public is becoming increasingly aware of the urgency of the cancer problem. There has never been a time when hope for a breakthrough has been so high."

In a special meeting of the three top leaders of the local unit of the American Cancer Society, Dr. E. H. Vincent, president, pointed out that "while we are now saving only one in three of every cancer case, we could easily save half of all cancer patients by the maximum use of our present knowledge about the disease.

"This year, at least 44,000 men and women will be saved who would have been lost to cancer had they developed the disease 10 years ago. And this," added Dr. Vincent, "is our hope for the future—more money for research will save even more lives.

"Because of the unnecessary loss of life (about one-third of these who die of cancer would not have needed to die), the leaders agreed that "the first goal of the 1963 crusade will be to get more people to doctors in time for early treatment. An annual health checkup is a person's best protection against death from cancer."

The second goal of the crusade, Mrs. John K. Gerhart, honorary crusade chairman, said, "Will be to raise more money for research. We are on the threshold of another stunning victory — saving at least half of those who develop cancer instead of the one-third now being saved. As volunteers, in El Paso County, we are redoubling our efforts in this crusade. I, for one, want to have a very special part in the final victory over cancer."

Provenzano said that much of the preliminary planning for the crusade has been done, volunteers all over the county are at work in their various activities and duties. "With all of us working together like this," he said, "we can't help but bring the day closer when cancer will lose its threat."

Quick, Budget Dish Designed For a Gourmet

Quick-to-fix dishes that are pleasing to the taste and food budget alike are always in great demand.

One such easy, economy special is designed to look like a gourmet's requrest, yet it highlights canned luncheon meat. The idea is offered by Reba Staggs, home economist experienced in meat recipe development. You'll take this meat and vegetable casserole right from the oven to the table.

The spicy meat slices are placed on top of lima beaus and mushrooms in a zesty sauce. Grated cheese, added near the end of the cooking time, melts to yield the finishing touch.

LUNCHEON MEAT AND LIMA SUPPER

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat, cut in ¼-inch slices
1 package (10 ounces) frozen lima beans, cooked
1 can (4 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1-3 cup chopped onion
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed soup
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon thyme
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1-3 cup grated cheddar cheese

Combine lima beans, mushrooms, onion, tomato soup, dry mustard, thyme and pepper. Pour into a 1½ - quart casserole. Arrange luncheon meat slices on top of lima bean mixture. Bake in a moderate over (375 degree F.) 20 minutes. Sprinkle with grated cheese and continue baking 10 minutes. 4 servings.

Mrs. Hoyt to Address Jane Jefferson Club

Jane Jefferson Club of El Paso County will meet for the annual founders' day banquet at the Acacia Hotel at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Austin Hoyt will be the guest speaker. All Democrats are cordially invited to attend the dinner. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Murphy, 632 - 0016.

Peachy Poultry

Festive duckling or goose served on Purim (March 10, 1963) is further enhanced when garnished with golden canned cling peach halves. Sprinkle the cut side of the peaches with a little grated orange rind and arrange them in the pan around the poultry during the last 10 minutes of roasting.

Auxiliary Presents Flag To Police for Building

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Lt. Marion L. Willis Post 101, Veterans of Foreign Wars, participated in the dedication ceremonies of the new Colorado Springs Police Building, with the presentation of a large out-door flag to be flown from the newly erected pole.

The flag was a gift jointly from Post 101 and the Auxiliary, with the president, Mrs. Mildred Eckles, conferring the formal presentation to the Post Commander, James S. Mullendore, who, in turn, gave the flag to City Manager, John M. Biery.

The out-door ceremony was the raising of the flag on the pole. This was performed by Past Post Commander, William H. Eckles, assisted by Commander Mullendore. An addition to the impressive ceremony was the bugle call, "To The Colors", played by Ray Kranz while the flag was being raised.

The following members of the organizations attended the ceremonies and later were among those taken for a tour of the building: Mr. and Mrs. William H. Eckles, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Price. Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Pete Young, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ryden, Mrs. Mildred Brown, Mrs. Jane Sherman, Mrs. Pauline C. Hiddleson, James S. Mullendore, Frank P. Mirise and Guy T. Smith.

Lt. Col. Price Addresses Alpha Delta Kappas

Members of the Alpha Delta Kappa Sorority and their guests gathered at the Swiss Chalet, Friday evening, to hear a lecture on Germany by Lt. Col. Charles H. Price, ADC.

Col. Price, president of the local German - American Club, collected material for his illustrated lecture while touring Berlin and eleven other cities. Striking pictures of the eight - mile wall in Berlin with its check points and barbed wire no - man's land testified to the stark life imposed upon the German people by the Communist regime. Unusual aerial shots disclosed new buildings shown to touring groups in East Germany as merely narrow false fronts behind which areas of rubble left from World War II still exist.

Hostesses for the evening were Vesta Montgomery and Edith Adamson, with decorations prepared by Hazel Howe and Lucille Ralston.

Inez Hunt Will Address Delta Kappa Gammas

Rho Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society will meet at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Heidi Room of the Swiss Chalet.

Inez Hunt will be the guest speaker. A recent collection of Western poems, "High Country" by Mrs. Hunt has just been published. "Windows Thru the Wall" is another interesting book of Mrs. Hunt. Some others in collaboration with Wanetta Draper that have become well known are: "The Wizard Who Came to Colorado", "A Story of Nikola Tesla", "Ghost Trails to Ghost Towns", and "To Colorado's Restless Ghosts." These are all stories of Colorado.

Mrs. Hunt will review "Restless Ghosts" to the Delta Kappa Gamma Chapter.

Hearty, Tasty Stew Can Be Easy to Cook

A steaming stew on a cold winter's evening is about the most welcome satisfier for any wind-whipped appetite. This almost-a-meal combination lets you experiment with different flavors, too.

However, you may have put off making stew because preparation tasks seem time-consuming. Say good-by to those woes with an easy-to-cook stew using modern convenience foods.

Frozen and canned vegetables end your peeling and scraping duties. Instant minced onion saves your tears. Even the beef is often already cut into cubes by your retailer.

On the market, too, are frozen packages of stew vegetables. (If you use them in this recipe, omit the mixed vegetables and potatoes.) Also available are small envelopes of seasonings especially for a stew.

EASY-TO-COOK STEW

1½ pounds boneless beef for stew
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
1 cup water
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Herbs as desired
1 package (10 ounces) frozen mixed vegetables
1 can (16 ounces) small whole potatoes, drained
Flour for gravy, if desired

Dredge meat in flour and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add tomatoes, water, onion and seasonings. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2 hours. Add mixed vegetables and continue cooking 15 minutes. Add potatoes and cook 15 minutes longer, or until meat is tender and vegetables are done. Thicken liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. 6 servings.

The Bride Cooks

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Leftovers from a small broiled duck may be served cold as "finger food" or reheated.

Broiled Duckling Rice Casserole
Green Peas Salad Bowl
Fruit and Cheese Beverage

Broiled Duckling

1 frozen Long Island duckling (about 4 pounds)
1 tablespoon honey
½ teaspoon soy sauce

Thaw duck and if it is whole, cut into 6 to 8 pieces. (Use giblets and neck for stock.) Wash, drain and dry duck on toweling. Prick skin. Arrange, skin side down, on rack in broiler pan, place pan about 7 to 8 inches from source of heat. Adjust heat if necessary and broil so top side is browned in about 30 minutes. Turn duck skin side up; brush with mixture of honey and soy sauce. Contine to broil until cooked through, well browned, and skin is crisp—20 minutes or more longer.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

The Cat's Out of the Bag!

DEAR ABBY: We have a big gray angora cat who has used up all her nine lives. We dumped her out in the country about seven times and each time we took her about ten miles from home, but she always found her way home again. Would anybody like to have our cat? —VICKIE IN COLDWATER

DEAR VICKIE: Don't you know that it is cruel to "dump" a cat out in the country? It could die of starvation or exposure. Tell your Daddy to call the Animal Shelter if you can't find a friend or neighbor who wants a big gray angora cat which has used up all its lives.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a widow for a year. I am 55, have never been married and do not particularly care for children, and she has three. They are average teen-agers who get on my nerves when I'm around them for over an hour. This woman puts her children first and I'm afraid if I marry her she would soon have me playing second fiddle to her children. I love her but I don't like her set-up. Also, the expense of a ready-made family frightens me. Any advice? —FRIGHTENED

DEAR FRIGHTENED: Yes, plenty. Find yourself a childless woman or one who is "unbearable." Or one with grown children who would be no expense to you. You might "love" this woman, but your letter reveals a man who would say "I do" and then wonder why he did.

DEAR ABBY: Twelve years ago I divorced my husband (his name was "Jones") and I had a son whom I shall call "Joe Jones". He is now 19. Then years ago I married a man whom I shall call "Mr. Smith". My son remained "Joe Jones" because his real father wouldn't permit my second husband to adopt him. Fine. When my son's friends come to the house they call me "Mrs. Jones." I don't bother to correct them because, after all, my son's name is "Joe Jones", so it is a natural mistake. But when my husband is home and they call him "Mr. Jones" he does a slow burn. Should I correct them on the spot while my husband is fuming with anger? Or should I let it go and let him fume? —MRS. SMITH

DEAR MRS. SMITH: Tell your son privately to advise his friends that "Mr Smith" is your husband, and that you are "Mrs. Smith". And that although "Mr. Jones" is his father's name, "Mr. Jones" doesn't live there any more.

Stop worrying. Write to Abby. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Liver Is Rich in Iron

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—A nurse I know tells me beef liver is important, that I should serve it more often to my family. Is she right?

A—Yes, she is. A 2-ounce serving of cooked beef liver, the most familiar of the variety meats and one of the richest sources of nutrients, provides 125 per cent of the recommended daily allowance of riboflavin, almost half of the iron, and five times the vitamin A for a normally active man.

Q—Should I throw away the dark leaves of lettuce?

A — The dark green outside leaves have as much as 30 times more vitamin A than the inner bleached leaves, yet the darker leaves may make up only 10 per cent of the weight of a head. So discard only discolored and damaged outer leaves. Although trimming of vegetables may be necessary to remove damaged leaves or inedible material, it should be held to a minimum.

As a general principle, outer leaves, if good, should be used because they generally are dark green and contain more nutrients than inner leaves. Fibrous parts of leaves such as sems and ribs generally are not only less palatable but have less nutrients than the leaf blade. It is reasonable, therefore, to discard these parts if desired. The leaf blades of collard greens, for instance, have 30 times as much vitamin A as an equal weight of the midrib.

If a cookie cutter is first dipped in slightly warm salad oil, it will cut cleanly.

Hearty, Tasty Stew Can Be Easy to Cook

A steaming stew on a cold winter's evening is about the most welcome satisfier for any wind-whipped appetite. This almost-a-meal combination lets you experiment with different flavors, too.

However, you may have put off making stew because preparation tasks seem time-consuming. Say good-by to those woes with an easy - to - cook stew using modern convenience foods.

Frozen and canned vegetables end your peeling and scraping duties. Instant minced onion saves your tears. Even the beef is often already cut into cubes by your retailer.

On the market, too, are frozen packages of stew vegetables. (If you use them in this recipe, omit the mixed vegetables and potatoes.) Also available are small envelopes of seasonings especially for a stew.

EASY-TO-COOK STEW

1½ pounds boneless beef for stew
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
1 cup water
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Herbs as desired
1 package (10 ounces) frozen mixed vegetables
1 can (16 ounces) small whole potatoes, drained
Flour for gravy, if desired

Dredge meat in flour and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add tomatoes, water, onion and seasonings. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2 hours. Add mixed vegetables and continue cooking 15 minutes. Add potatoes and cook 15 minutes longer, or until meat is tender and vegetables are done. Thicken liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. 6 servings.

The Bride Cooks

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Leftovers from a small broiled duck may be served cold as "finger food" or reheated.

Broiled Duckling Rice Casserole
Green Peas Salad Bowl
Fruit and Cheese Beverage

Broiled Duckling

1 frozen Long Island duckling (about 4 pounds)
1 tablespoon honey
½ teaspoon soy sauce

Thaw duck and if it is whole, cut into 6 to 8 pieces. (Use giblets and neck for stock.) Wash, drain and dry duck on toweling. Prick skin. Arrange, skin side down, on rack in broiler pan; place pan about 7 to 8 inches from source of heat. Adjust heat if necessary and broil so top side is browned in about 30 minutes. Turn duck skin side up; brush with mixture of honey and soy sauce. Contine to broil until cooked through, well browned, and skin is crisp—20 minutes or more longer.

The Cat's Out of the Bag!

DEAR ABBY: We have a big gray angora cat who has used up all her nine lives. We dumped her out in the country about seven times and each time we took her about ten miles from home, but she always found her way home again. Would anybody like to have our cat? —VICKIE IN COLDWATER

DEAR VICKIE: Don't you know that it is cruel to "dump" a cat out in the country? It could die of starvation or exposure. Tell your Daddy to call the Animal Shelter if you can't find a friend or neighbor who wants a big gray angora cat which has used up all its lives.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Since you came up with the suggestion of making meatloaf in fruit juice cans, I would like to tell you how I expanded on the idea:

I never bake a boxed cake in layer pans anymore.

I now use tomato cans, vegetable cans, even coffee cans. The small-size cakes, individual tiny cakes, etc., can be cooled and put into the deep freeze anytime of the day or night!

You are exactly right when you said never make just one cake at a time. I found that I can always make enough for two cakes at a time, pour in the batter and load down my deep freeze with these darlings.

When the time comes that I am too tired (but still want cake) all I have to do is . . . remove that old tin can full of delicacies from my deep freeze, let it thaw and ice it.

The icing requires little effort. It is the original making of the batter that dirties my kitchen.

Another thing . . . if you do not have time to make icing — ice cream, synthetic whipped cream or fruits may be placed on top of the cake and it's called a fancy desert these days! —Jane Williams

Dear Heloise:

Here is something I learned from my husband.

In every household, door hinges have a habit of working loose.

We just remove the screw, insert part of a toothpick into the hole, and then replace the screw.

For large screws we use the bottom end of a kitchen match. It works like a charm and replaces the shrinking, or wear, the wood has undergone. All one needs is a good screwdriver! — Ella M. Hehr

Dear Heloise:

I remove match scratches on dark wood by heating a little olive oil and dipping cotton in it. By rubbing the scratch with this it will completely disappear. — Ann Pulaski

Dear Heloise:

Can you tell me how to remove ink stains from doctors' white nylong jackets—the kind they wear in their offices? — Mrs. Harry Stcne

You failed to state if the ink was ball point or regular ink.

Have you tried plain rubbing alcohol? If not, try it.

First douse two wash rags with some rubbing alcohol. Hold one rag underneath the stained spot and rub the top part of the material with the other . . . turning the bottom rag as the stain appears on it.

Another method which works on some types of stains is to leave it in buttermilk overnight. Soak the garment in this and wash as usual. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Having four children, we also have dozens of birthday gifts to purchase for all of the invitations they receive.

I now buy a half-dozen gifts at a time (usually at sales), and when a party comes up my children can choose an appropriate toy from our immediate supply. This saves me not only at least 50 cents "but" about 30 minutes of my time. —Mrs. Kay Fulton

Dear Heloise:

Here is one: When you buy sugar put it in an old coffee pot. You can pour this any time you need it without any spilling! — Rita Melville

Dear Heloise:

For people who do not have enough fitted sheets to cover all their mattresses they might try my method. I put a blanket sheet (even an old one will do) "under" the bottom sheet before tucking the sheet under the mattress.

I find that this holds the sheet "much" better than just placing it directly over a mattress and pad. —Mrs. J. Horalek

Spanish Accent

Huevos con migas are fried eggs with a Spanish accent. Heat ¼ cup of olive oil with ⅛ teaspoon of garlic powder in a 9-inch skillet. Saute 6 slices of stale bread, cubed, until golden brown. Break 6 eggs over bread cubes. Lower heat, cover and cook slowly until eggs have set. Season to taste with salt, pepper and paprika. Serves 6.

South, declarer in today's hand, gave a convincing demonstration of the shell game at its best. In the process he effected the disappearance of one of the adverse trump tricks, and brought in his ambitious game contract in spades.

West opened the deuce of hearts and East's jack forced out the ace. Prospects for declarer were indeed bleak, for he was faced with the loss of two trump tricks and one each in hearts and diamonds. A discard was available on dummy's long club but, with the heart ace dislodged and the adverse trumps still outstanding, South appeared to be utterly at the mercy of his opponents.

One vague chance suggested itself and that was to cross over to the dummy and lead the spade jack in the hope of crashing the adverse honors, if East started with the king and one spade and could be induced to cover an honor. However, East's actions in the bidding convinced South that this opponent was more apt to have the ace of spades, and declarer decided to rest his hopes on a legitimate prospect that hinged on finding an even division in clubs and split spade honors.

After taking the heart opening, South played the ace, king and another club and sighed a breath of relief when all hands followed. Next came a fourth round of clubs, and the defense was helpless when declarer sluffed his small heart. If East trumped, it would be with a natural spade trick, and the defense would be limited to another spade and a diamond.

If West were permitted to ruff the fourth club, the result would be the same, for a trump lead would now bump both honors and the ace of diamonds could do no more than complete the defensive book.

Cherry Dessert Makes News

Certain to be newsy items during the month are recipes starring red cherries. Cherries are plentiful, and this gay fruit fits in so well with menus on red letter days.

Getting away from the standard cherry pie, here's just the dessert for this month's dinners or afternoon coffees. It's called Cherry Roly Poly and stars the fruit baked inside a sweet biscuit dough with cherry sauce poured on top.

For making sure your biscuits, as well as pie crusts, are tender and flaky every time, lard for the shortening is highly recommended by noted home economist Reba Staggs.

CHERRY ROLY-POLY

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
4 to 6 tablespoons lard
¼ to ½ cup milk
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) or
1 pint pitted sour cherries
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Water

Grease a 9-inch square baking dish. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in lard until mixture has fine even crumb. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead gently for ½ minute. Roll into an 8 x 10-inch rectangle about ¼ inch thick. Drain cherries, reserving liquid. Place cherries on biscuit dough. Roll as for jelly roll and cut into 1-inch slices. Place, cut surface down, in baking dish. Mix sugar with cornstarch. Add enough water to cherry juice to make 1 cup liquid and mix with sugar and cornstarch. Cook, stirring constantly, until tickened and clear. Bake rolls in a hot oven (425 degree F.) 15 minutes. Pour juice over rolls and bake 10 minutes longer. Yield: 8 tc 10 rolls.

If you are travelling with small children, take along a few surprise toys to give them now and then.

Barbecue Pork Chops

By GAYNOR MADDO X
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Looking for something different for Sunday dinner? Then try these unusually seasoned pork chops.

Barbecued Pork Chops
(Makes 4 servings)

4 thick pork chops, loin or rib
1½ teaspoons kitchen bouquet
1 can (8-ounce) tomato sauce
1 can (6 ounces) concentrated frozen orange juice
¼ teaspoon powdered thyme
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Brush pork chops with kitchen bouquet and brown over moderate heat in lightly greased skillet. Blend together and add remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, cover and then simmer gently until chops are fork tender—about 40 minutes. Serve with hot cooked noodles or with toasted picnic buns.

For Sunday supper, try this Savory Mushroom Sauce over noodles or toasted hamburger rolls.

Savory Mushroom Sauce
(Makes 4 servings)

3 tablespoons cooking oil
¼ cup diced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ cup diced green pepper
1 can (8-ounce) tomato sauce
¼ cup catsup
1 can (6 ounces) chopped broiled mushrooms
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup (4 ounces) diced processed American cheese
1 package (8 ounces) wide noodles or
4 toasted hamburger rolls

Heat oil in saucepan. Add onion, garlic and green pepper. Cook over moderate heat, stirring occasionally, for about 5 minutes. Add tomato sauce, catsup, mushrooms nicluding broth, and cornstarch. Blend together smoothly and bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Place over gently simmering water then stir in cheese, cover, and allow to stand for 5 minutes; then stir until cheese is blended with sauce. Serve over hot noodles cooked according to package directions for over split, toasted hamburger rolls.

Heat circulation is important in roasting meat, so use a shallow pan with a rack unless your oven comes with a special pan for this purpose.

Hot, Heady

If your family is beginning to balk at routine wintertime vegetables, here's a sauce to spark their interest again. This one's especially good with broccoli. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour. Gradually add ½ cup chicken bouillon, cooking and stirring until thickened. Remove from heat and stir in ¼ cup dairy sour cream and ½ cup (about 3 ounces) crumbled American blue cheese. Serve over hot green vegetables.

Low in Fat

Now modern research has uncovered another fact about variety meats . . . liver, kidneys, tongue, heart, sweetbreads. The edible portions are low in fat compared to other meats, and the fat is much more polyunsaturated.

Remarkable food helps people over 40 enjoy vibrant living

AFTER 40 your body begins to feel the years and, chances are, you lack the pep and energy you had when you were younger.

- You can't roll back the calendar, but you can help build up your energy and endurance by fortifying your diet with the vital nutrients found in Kretschmer Wheat Germ.
- Nature has stored an abundance of nutritional wealth in wheat germ, which supplies 30 elements essential to health and energy. Wheat germ gives you more natural vitamins, minerals and protein than any other single food.
- Calorie for calorie, Kretschmer Wheat Germ actually offers you more all-around nutrition than meat, eggs, milk, bread, fruits, or vegetables.
- In addition to providing an abundance of natural nutrition, Kretschmer Wheat Germ boosts your energy and endurance by acting like a spark plug to help your body use other high-energy foods more fully.
- Kretschmer Wheat Germ is the "growth" part, or germinating heart, of the wheat made into tiny toasted flakes. It can be added to cereal or fruit, used in baking and breadings, served in many interesting ways.
- Why not help build up your pep and energy by adding Kretschmer Wheat Germ to your meals? It's economical, costing only about 3¢ a day. You'll find Kretschmer Wheat Germ, plain or with Sugar 'n Honey, in vacuum-sealed jars in the cereal section of your food store.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Since you came up with the suggestion of making meatloaf in fruit juice cans, I would like to tell you how I expanded on the idea:

I never bake a boxed cake in layer pans anymore.

I now use tomato cans, vegetable cans, even coffee cans. The small-size cakes, individual tiny cakes, etc., can be cooled and put into the deep freeze anytime of the day or night!

You are exactly right when you said never make just one cake at a time. I found that I can always make enough for two cakes at a time, pour in the batter and load down my deep freeze with these darlings.

When the time comes that I am too tired (but still want cake) all I have to do is . . . remove that old tin can full of delicacies from my deep freeze, let it thaw and ice it.

The icing requires little effort. It is the original making of the batter that dirties my kitchen.

Another thing . . . if you do not have time to make icing — ice cream, synthetic whipped cream or fruits may be placed on top of the cake and it's called a fancy desert these days! —Jane Williams

Dear Heloise:

Here is something I learned from my husband.

In every household, door hinges have a habit of working loose.

We just remove the screw, insert part of a toothpick into the hole, and then replace the screw.

For large screws we use the bottom end of a kitchen match. It works like a charm and replaces the shrinking, or wear, the wood has undergone. All one needs is a good screwdriver! — Ella M. Hehr

Dear Heloise:

I remove match scratches on dark wood by heating a little olive oil and dipping cotton in it. By rubbing the scratch with this it will completely disappear. — Ann Pulaski

Dear Heloise:

Can you tell me how to remove ink stains from doctors' white nylong jackets—the kind they wear in their offices? — Mrs. Harry Stone

You failed to state if the ink was ball point or regular ink.

Have you tried plain rubbing alcohol? If not, try it.

First douse two wash rags with some rubbing alcohol. Hold one rag underneath the stained spot and rub the top part of the material with the other . . . turning the bottom rag as the stain appears on it.

Another method which works on some types of stains is to leave it in buttermilk overnight. Soak the garment in this and wash as usual. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Having four children, we also have dozens of birthday gifts to purchase for all of the invitations they receive.

I now buy a half-dozen gifts at a time (usually at sales), and when a party comes up my children can choose an appropriate toy from our immediate supply. This saves me not only at least 50 cents "but" about 30 minutes of my time. —Mrs. Kay Fulton

Dear Heloise:

Here is one: When you buy sugar put it in an old coffee pot. You can pour this any time you need it without any spilling! — Rita Melville

Dear Heloise:

For people who do not have enough fitted sheets to cover all their mattresses they might try my method. I put a blanket sheet (even an old one will do) "under" the bottom sheet before tucking the sheet under the mattress.

I find that this holds the sheet "much" better than just placing it directly over a mattress and pad. —Mrs. J. Horalek

Spanish Accent

Huevos con migas are fried eggs with a Spanish accent. Heat ¼ cup of olive oil with ⅛ teaspoon of garlic powder in a 9-inch skillet. Saute 6 slices of stale bread, cubed, until golden brown. Break 6 eggs over bread cubes. Lower heat, cover and cook slowly until eggs have set. Season to taste with salt, pepper and paprika. Serves 6.

South, declarer in today's hand, gave a convincing demonstration of the shell game at its best. In the process he effected the disappearance of one of the adverse trump tricks, and brought in his ambitious game contract in spades.

West opened the deuce of hearts and East's jack forced out the ace. Prospects for declarer were indeed bleak, for he was faced with the loss of two trump tricks and one each in hearts and diamonds. A discard was available on dummy's long club but, with the heart ace dislodged and the adverse trumps still outstanding, South appeared to be utterly at the mercy of his opponents.

One vague chance suggested itself and that was to cross over to the dummy and lead the spade jack in the hope of crashing the adverse honors, if East started with the king and one spade and could be induced to cover an honor. However, East's actions in the bidding convinced South that this opponent was more apt to have the ace of spades, and declarer decided to rest his hopes on a legitimate prospect that hinged on finding an even division in clubs and split spade honors.

After taking the heart opening, South played the ace, king and another club and sighed a breath of relief when all hands followed. Next came a fourth round of clubs, and the defense was helpless when declarer sluffed his small heart. If East trumped, it would be with a natural spade trick, and the defense would be limited to another spade and a diamond.

If West were permitted to ruff the fourth club, the result would be the same, for a trump lead would now bump both honors and the ace of diamonds could do no more than complete the defensive book.

Cherry Dessert Makes News

Certain to be newsy items during the month are recipes starring red cherries. Cherries are plentiful, and this gay fruit fits in so well with menus on red letter days.

Getting away from the standard cherry pie, here's just the dessert for this month's dinners or afternoon coffees. It's called Cherry Roly Poly and stars the fruit baked inside a sweet biscuit dough with cherry sauce poured on top.

For making sure your biscuits, as well as pie crusts, are tender and flaky every time, lard for the shortening is highly recommended by noted home economist Reba Staggs.

CHERRY ROLY-POLY

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
4 to 6 tablespoons lard
¼ to ½ cup milk
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) or
1 pint pitted sour cherries
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Water

Grease a 9-inch square baking dish. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in lard until mixture has fine even crumb. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead gently for ½ minute. Roll into an 8 x 10-inch rectangle about ¼ inch thick. Drain cherries, reserving liquid. Place cherries on biscuit dough. Roll as for jelly roll and cut into 1-inch slices. Place, cut surface down, in baking dish. Mix sugar with cornstarch. Add enough water to cherry juice to make 1 cup liquid and mix with sugar and cornstarch. Cook, stirring constantly, until tickened and clear. Bake rolls in a hot oven (425 degree F.) 15 minutes. Pour juice over rolls and bake 10 minutes longer. Yield: 8 to 10 rolls.

If you are travelling with small children, take along a few surprise toys to give them now and then.

Hot, Heady

If your family is beginning to balk at routine wintertime vegetables, here's a sauce to spark their interest again. This one's especially good with broccoli. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour. Gradually add ½ cup chicken bouillon, cooking and stirring until thickened. Remove from heat and stir in ¼ cup dairy sour cream and ½ cup (about 3 ounces) crumbled American blue cheese. Serve over hot green vegetables.

Low in Fat

Now modern research has uncovered another fact about variety meats . . . liver, kidneys, tongue, heart, sweetbreads. The edible portions are low in fat compared to other meats, and the fat is much more polyunsaturated.

Barbecue Pork Chops

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Looking for something different for Sunday dinner? Then try these unusually seasoned pork chops.

Barbecued Pork Chops
(Makes 4 servings)

4 thick pork chops, loin or rib
1½ teaspoons kitchen bouquet
1 can (8-ounce) tomato sauce
1 can (6 ounces) concentrated frozen orange juice
¼ teaspoon powdered thyme
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Brush pork chops with kitchen bouquet and brown over moderate heat in lightly greased skillet. Blend together and add remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, cover and then simmer gently until chops are fork tender—about 40 minutes. Serve with hot cooked noodles or with toasted picnic buns.

For Sunday supper, try this Savory Mushroom Sauce over noodles or toasted hamburger rolls.

Savory Mushroom Sauce
(Makes 4 servings)

3 tablespoons cooking oil
¼ cup diced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ cup diced green pepper
1 can (8-ounce) tomato sauce
¼ cup catsup
1 can (6 ounces) chopped broiled mushrooms
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup (4 ounces) diced processed American cheese
1 package (8 ounces) wide noodles or
4 toasted hamburger rolls

Heat oil in saucepan. Add onion, garlic and green pepper. Cook over moderate heat, stirring occasionally, for about 5 minutes. Add tomato sauce, catsup, mushrooms nicluding broth, and cornstarch. Blend together smoothly and bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Place over gently simmering water then stir in cheese, cover, and allow to stand for 5 minutes; then stir until cheese is blended with sauce. Serve over hot noodles cooked according to package directions for over split, toasted hamburger rolls.

Heat circulation is important in roasting meat, so use a shallow pan with a rack unless your oven comes with a special pan for this purpose.

Farm Bureau Urges Delay In Extending Grain Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — A farm leader today placed major blame for recent declines in livestock and poultry prices at the door of the Kennedy administration's feed grain program.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said in a statement prepared for a House Agriculture subcommittee that heavy sales of government surplus grains on markets had held grain prices below the normal levels.

In turn, the lower feed prices helped encourage an over expansion in production of milk, poultry, eggs, hogs and beef cattle, he said. Reduction in prices of these important products have followed.

Shuman urged the subcommittee to delay action on legislation—recommended by the administration to extend the feed grain program for 1964 crops—until later in the session.

The grain program offers price supports and payments to farmers who reduce acreages of corn, barley and sorghum grain.

The impact of the lower livestock prices will be a reduction in farm income far in excess of the feed program payments, Shuman said.

When the feed grain program first was submitted to Congress in 1961, the farm bureau opposed the provision permitting sale of surplus grains to hold down prices. It contended that such sales would encourage over production of livestock.

Shuman said the government grain sales also have held down prices growers receive for grain they produce for sale to others, and as a consequence have also held down their incomes.

He said increased use of grains in livestock production rather than the feed grain programs should be given major credit in a reduction of grain supplies since 1961. Administration has given the programs major credit.

Shuman said new feed grain legislation should be delayed until after farmers vote in late May or early June on a proposed new multiple price plan for wheat. He said that in the event this plan should be rejected—a result which he said he expected—Congress could consider wheat and feed grains together in new legislative proposals.

Area Cowboys Hit Texas Paydirt

DENVER — Rocky Mountain area cowboys accounted for almost a third of the $68,660 prize money payoff at the annual Houston, Tex., rodeo which ended Sunday night, tabulation of official results revealed today.

Northern ropers and riders filled their pockets during the 12-day arena competition, and walked off with victory in three of the five events' finals.

Don McLaughlin, of Fort Collins, snared calf roping, and $2,444; Walt Linderman, Belfry, Mont., captured bareback bronc riding honors, worth $1,846; and Larry Kane, Big Sandy, Mont., won saddle bronc riding, for $1,580.

Other northerners who scored big, included fromer Colorado Springs cowboy, Billy Hale, with $2,825 for second in steer wrestling, and Bob Perkins, of Boulder, Colo., with $1,570 for fifth place in the same event. Don Brannon, Lakewood, Colo., won $1,005 in go - round money.

Howard Carroll, Draper, Utah, won $1,313 in bull riding, and Ronnie Rossen, Broadus, Mont., $617.

Individual laurels, however, went to Jim Bynum, Waxahachie, Tex., who hit the winner's circle in steer wrestling, for $4,249. His victory, worth about $284 per second in arena effort to the 240 - pound cowboy, bounced Bynum from fifth to first place in the event's title standings for the season thus far.

In further slant on the sport's title races, Dallas Chartier, Benkelman, Neb., lost the lead in bull riding to Dickie Cox, 24, of McKinney, Tex.

Coxtail Riders Receive Club Merit Medals

Members of the Coxtail Riding Club received special awards for riding ability, knowledge of horses and horse-mastership at the annual banquet program of the club held last week at the Skyline Club.

Bronze awards were presented to Jenny Donald, Dristin Foss, Jan Bates, Dianne Gait, Susan Haley, Dianne Kundzicz, Jaye Lister, Connie Lorig, Kathy Morris, Kathy Sain, Nicky Stevens, Juni Striplin, Sherry Griffith, Michelle Weaver, Nicole Weaver, Dorothy Lohse and Dianne Schisler.

Those receiving the Silver Medal were Shelley Meserow, Sharon Ann Hollis, Lenore Foss, Retta Foster and Renie Finley.

The annual summer show presented by the Coxtail Riding Club will be given July 12-14.

Range Management Publication Off Press

A new publication covering range management is just off the press at Colorado State University.

The publication includes common kinds of plants found on range, identification pictures and characterists of the plants, judging, range use, seeding and general management for maxium meat production.

Single copies are available from the Bulletin Room, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, or from the local county extension office.

Lobbyists Seek to Crack Colorado Egg Inspection

Two bills now before the legislature may be the key to whether egg inspection in Colorado continues after July 1. They are House Bill 54 and Senate Bill 314. Members of a strong lobby, paid by very few egg and poultry dealers in Denver, are doing everything they can to stop the poultry and egg inspection program.

House Bill 54 is tied up in the Rules Committee of the House. Senate Bill 314 is a similar bill introduced in the Senate last week.

The Colorado egg inspection service was established in 1933 by an act of the legislature. The principal reason for the act then, as today, was to improve and maintain high quality in the eggs offered for sale to the public and to promote egg production by Colorado agriculture. The egg law required that all eggs be candled, graded, and sized and that the cartons be properly marked before they are offered for sale.

This inspection service has been administered by the Department of Agriculture and financed from fees and licenses paid by the handlers of eggs. Last spring, the Denver District Court declared that portions of the act pertaining to the collection of fees were unconstitutional. House Bill 54 and Senate Bill 314 would amend the egg law by establishing fees to finance this much needed service.

The bulk of egg inspection work is performed at the retail store level to protect customers by assuring them that the eggs have been accurately graded within eight days and have been correctly identified as to grade and size on the carton.

Without an adequate inspection service, neither producers, dealers, nor consumers will have uniform grading and classification of eggs. This would definitely encourage disorderly marketing and the lowering of the grade of eggs offered the public.

Not only is the egg inspection service definitely needed for the consumer, but it is important and necessary if Colorado producers are to maintain or increase egg production in our state. Approximately 50 per cent of the eggs consumed in Colorado are imported.

If inspection of eggs is discontinued, it would definitely jeopardize any further expansion of egg production in the state and would cause most of the small producers to halt egg production. In the highly competitive egg market, it can be expected that the lowering of standards will trigger the importation of larger numbers of lower grade eggs. This would naturally reduce the prices of the high quality eggs produced by Colorado growers, below the cost of production.

It appears at this time that if producers, retailers, and consumers do not contact their legislators requesting passage of these bills, the bills will fail to pass. The consequence will be the discontinuance of egg inspection within the next few months.

Colorado Joins Nation in Egg Month in March

The egg industry of Colorado will observe the tenth National Egg Month during March in a drive to alert the consumers of the state to the taste appeal, nutritional qualities, and versatility of eggs.

Lew Ray, chief of the markets division, Colorado Department of Agriculture, pointed out that Colorado will join the entire nation in the observance.

National Egg Month is sponsored by the nation's egg industry through the Poultry and Egg National Board, headquartered n Chicago with branch offices in New York City and Atlanta.

PENB, a non-profit organization representing the egg industry, helps the country's 50 million families in planning delicious, healthful and appealing meals and snacks through its many informational programs.

"Swing to Eggs for Go-Power" is the tenth anniversary theme for National Egg Month. This theme is designed to stress the fact that eggs provide energy and stamina for people on the go, at school, at work, and at play.

"Eggs add taste appeal to any meal, are easy to prepare in a variety of ways, are kind to the waistline, blend perfectly with all foods, and help build health and vitality," Ray said.

With all these plus qualities, an egg provides only 77 calories, he pointed out.

Governor John A. Love has added emphasis to the National Egg Month celebration by proclaiming its observance in Colorado durning March.

LOST TIME

CHICAGO (UPI) — The total time lost in 1962 from accidents to workers amounted to 280,000 man - days, the National Safety Council said.

Winners Named In Live Barrow Show at Lamar

Supreme champion of the live barrow show at the fourth annual All America Market Hog Show in Lamar Friday and Saturday was John Neely, of Fort Worth, Tex.

Neely won with a Hampshire barrow that also won champion of the heavy weight senior open division. The barrow was from a litter of 12 that weighed 486 lbs in 56 days. The litter won a pacesetter certificate at Texas A & M College, College Station, Tex. This was Neely's first year as a contestant in the market hog show at Lamar.

Mrs. Martha Romer, Holly, won the reserve supreme champion award with a Yorkshire-Hampshire crossbred barrow that was named champion of the light weight open division.

Nearly 150 persons attended the show's annual banquet Friday where the advantages of confined hog production were presented by O. L. Joseph, Western Division supervisor of the Behlen manufacturing Co., Columbus, Neb.

"We think hog producers will go to confinement methods because they will eventually be forced into it by market competition," said Joseph.

While confinement hog raising is new to us in the United States, it has been practiced for more than 20 years in Denmark, he explained. Joseph showed slides illustrating methods of confinement hog production in Denmark and new methods that have been developed for use of this system by farmers in America.

Lloyd Somerville, of Fruita, president of the Colorado Farm Bureau, attacked the efforts of the Kennedy administration to increase governmental controls on American farmers and destroy the market price system.

"Can freedom be bought with a few pieces of silver?" Somerville asked. "We must endeavor to restore and maintain the market price system for our agricultural production."

He pointed out that more research was needed in developing improved methods of marketing farm products.

James Romer, chairman of the hog show committee, reported that 183 animals were entered in the show including 50 in the barrow contest, 97 in the carcass contest, and 36 in the littermate sale.

One pound of uranium-235 is about the size of a walnut, but it produces as much energy as 1,500 tons of coal.

Hearing Held On Milk Price Levels for Area

DENVER (AP) — Continuation of present price levels on milk under certain conditions was proposed Tuesday at a hearing called by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Winston C. Yeager, general manager of Denver Milk Producers, Inc. made the proposal but said continuation should be subject to automatic adjustments based on supply changes.

Dwight Hull, manager of Intermountain Dairymen, Inc., at Colorado Springs, the second witness called, said he supported Yeager's recommendation completely.

About 50 dairy producers, processors and handlers attended the hearing, called to consider pricing amendments to the Colorado Springs-Pueblo and eastern Colorado milk marketing orders.

John J. Curry, USDA hearing examiner, said the purpose of the orders is to assure an adequate milk supply for all Colorado outlets without excess.

H. Alan Luke, administrator of the marketing orders, said more than 600 million pounds of milk was marketed and prices determined in Colorado under the orders last year.

Under the terms of Yeager's proposal, Luke's office would calculate supplies and needs by demand levels to determine supply adjustments as needed.

Cowbelles Plan Tuesday Meeting At Cliff House

Government Wool Program Again Shorn Short of Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government wool program employing payments to encourage greater domestic production of the fiber lost ground last year.

The program, in effect since 1955, seeks to attain an annual production of 300 million pounds of shorn wool. It has never reached that goal.

An agriculture department report today showed that production of shorn wool last year totaled 248 million pounds, down nearly 13 million from 1961. The highest output was 265 million in 1960.

Growers get incentive payments from the government in amounts sufficient, when added to market prices, to bring average returns to 62 cents a pound. Payments have been averaging nearly 20 cents a pound.

The 300-million-pound goal is designed to reduce this country's dependence on imports as well as to provide greater agricultural opportunities for farmers. Imports of comparable wool have been running more than 100 million pounds a year.

Department officials said downturns during recent years in grower prices of lamb for slaughter have discouraged an increase in sheep raising. Prices have improved somewhat in recent months and officials are hopeful this will encourage an expansion in sheep numbers.

Another discouraging factor was said to be a shortage of skilled sheep herders at wage levels farmers felt they could pay.

The wool payments are made from custom receipts collected on imported wool. These payments have been averaging around $58 million a year.

Last year's shorn wool crop was valued at $116 million, compared with $112 million 1961. The average price received by growers was 46.5 cents a pound, compared with 43 cents in 1961. Texas was far out in front with a 1962 crop of 52 million pounds valued at $23.5 million.

Mohair production last year was 27 million pounds, up 3 per cent from 1961. It was valued at $17 million, a decline of 23 per cent from 1961, reflecting a sharp decline in prices.

BRUSSELS—A capital increase of $1.5 million is announced by a bank in the Belgian capital.

Farm Bureau Urges Delay In Extending Grain Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — A farm leader today placed major blame for recent declines in livestock and poultry prices at the door of the Kennedy administration's feed grain program.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said in a statement prepared for a House Agriculture subcommittee that heavy sales of government surplus grains on markets had held grain prices below the normal levels.

In turn, the lower feed prices helped encourage an over expansion in production of milk, poultry, eggs, hogs and beef cattle, he said. Reduction in prices of these important products have followed.

Shuman urged the subcommittee to delay action on legislation—recommended by the administration to extend the feed grain program for 1964 crops—until later in the session.

The grain program offers price supports and payments to farmers who reduce acreages of corn, barley and sorghum grain.

The impact of the lower livestock prices will be a reduction in farm income far in excess of the feed program payments, Shuman said.

When the feed grain program first was submitted to Congress in 1961, the farm bureau opposed the provision permitting sale of surplus grains to hold down prices. It contended that such sales would encourage over production of livestock.

Shuman said the government grain sales also have held down prices growers receive for grain they produce for sale to others, and as a consequence have also held down their incomes.

He said increased use of grains in livestock production rather than the feed grain programs should be given major credit in a reduction of grain supplies since 1961. Administration has given the programs major credit.

Shuman said new feed grain legislation should be delayed until after farmers vote in late May or early June on a proposed new multiple price plan for wheat. He said that in the event this plan should be rejected—a result which he said he expected—Congress could consider wheat and feed grains together in new legislative proposals.

Area Cowboys Hit Texas Paydirt

DENVER — Rocky Mountain area cowboys accounted for almost a third of the $68,660 prize money payoff at the annual Houston, Tex., rodeo which ended Sunday night, tabulation of official results revealed today.

Northern ropers and riders filled their pockets during the 12-day arena competition, and walked off with victory in three of the five events' finals.

Don McLaughlin, of Fort Collins, snared calf roping, and $2,444; Walt Linderman, Belfry, Mont., captured bareback bronc riding honors, worth $1,846; and Larry Kane, Big Sandy, Mont., won saddle bronc riding, for $1,580.

Other northerners who scored big, included fromer Colorado Springs cowboy, Billy Hale, with $2,825 for second in steer wrestling, and Bob Perkins, of Boulder, Colo., with $1,570 for fifth place in the same event. Don Brannon, Lakewood, Colo., won $1,005 in go - round money.

Howard Carroll, Draper, Utah, won $1,313 in bull riding, and Ronnie Rossen, Broadus, Mont., $617.

Individual laurels, however, went to Jim Bynum, Waxahachie, Tex., who hit the winner's circle in steer wrestling, for $4,249. His victory, worth about $284 per second in arena effort to the 240 - pound cowboy, bounced Bynum from fifth to first place in the event's title standings for the season thus far.

In further slant on the sport's title races, Dallas Chartier, Benkelman, Neb., lost the lead in bull riding to Dickie Cox, 24, of McKinney, Tex.

Coxtail Riders Receive Club Merit Medals

Members of the Coxtail Riding Club received special awards for riding ability, knowledge of horses and horse-mastership at the annual banquet program of the club held last week at the Skyline Club.

Bronze awards were presented to Jenny Donald, Dristin Foss, Jan Bates, Dianne Galt, Susan Haley, Dianne Kundzicz, Jaye Lister, Connie Lorig, Kathy Morris, Kathy Sain, Nicky Stevens, Juni Striplin, Sherry Griffith, Michelle Weaver, Nicole Weaver, Dorothy Lohse and Dianne Schisler.

Those receiving the Silver Medal were Shelley Meserow, Sharon Ann Hollis, Lenore Foss, Retta Foster and Renie Finley.

The annual summer show presented by the Coxtail Riding Club will be given July 12-14.

Range Management Publication Off Press

A new publication covering range management is just off the press at Colorado State University.

The publication includes common kinds of plants found on range, identification pictures and characterists of the plants, judging, range use, seeding and general management for maxium meat production.

Single copies are available from the Bulletin Room, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, or from the local county extension office.

Lobbyists Seek to Crack Colorado Egg Inspection

Two bills now before the legislature may be the key to whether egg inspection in Colorado continues after July 1. They are House Bill 54 and Senate Bill 314. Members of a strong lobby, paid by very few egg and poultry dealers in Denver, are doing everything they can to stop the poultry and egg inspection program.

House Bill 54 is tied up in the Rules Committee of the House. Senate Bill 314 is a similar bill introduced in the Senate last week.

The Colorado egg inspection service was established in 1933 by an act of the legislature. The principal reason for the act then, as today, was to improve and maintain high quality in the eggs offered for sale to the public and to promote egg production by Colorado agriculture. The egg law required that all eggs be candled, graded, and sized and that the cartons be properly marked before they are offered for sale.

This inspection service has been administered by the Department of Agriculture and financed from fees and licenses paid by the handlers of eggs. Last spring, the Denver District Court declared that portions of the act pertaining to the collection of fees were unconstitutional. House Bill 54 and Senate Bill 314 would amend the egg law by establishing fees to finance this much needed service.

The bulk of egg inspection work is performed at the retail store level to protect customers by assuring them that the eggs have been accurately graded within eight days and have been correctly identified as to grade and size on the carton.

Without an adequate inspection service, neither producers, dealers, nor consumers will have uniform grading and classification of eggs. This would definitely encourage disorderly marketing and the lowering of the grade of eggs offered the public.

Not only is the egg inspection service definitely needed for the consumer, but it is important and necessary if Colorado producers are to maintain or increase egg production in our state. Approximately 50 per cent of the eggs consumed in Colorado are imported.

If inspection of eggs is discontinued, it would definitely jeopardize any further expansion of egg production in the state and would cause most of the small producers to halt egg production. In the highly competitive egg market, it can be expected that the lowering of standards will trigger the importation of larger numbers of lower grade eggs. This would naturally reduce the prices of the high quality eggs produced by Colorado growers, below the cost of production.

It appears at this time that if producers, retailers, and consumers do not contact their legislators requesting passage of these bills, the bills will fail to pass. The consequence will be the discontinuance of egg inspection within the next few months.

Colorado Joins Nation in Egg Month in March

The egg industry of Colorado will observe the tenth National Egg Month during March in a drive to alert the consumers of the state to the taste appeal, nutritional qualities, and versatility of eggs.

Lew Ray, chief of the markets division, Colorado Department of Agriculture, pointed out that Colorado will join the entire nation in the observance.

National Egg Month is sponsored by the nation's egg industry through the Poultry and Egg National Board, headquartered n Chicago with branch offices in New York City and Atlanta.

PENB, a non-profit organization representing the egg industry, helps the country's 50 million families in planning delicious, healthful and appealing meals and snacks through its many informational programs.

"Swing to Eggs for Go-Power" is the tenth anniversary theme for National Egg Month. This theme is designed to stress the fact that eggs provide energy and stamina for people on the go, at school, at work, and at play.

"Eggs add taste appeal to any meal, are easy to prepare in a variety of ways, are kind to the waistline, blend perfectly with all foods, and help build health and vitality," Ray said.

With all these plus qualities, an egg provides only 77 calories, he pointed out.

Governor John A. Love has added emphasis to the National Egg Month celebration by proclaiming its observance in Colorado durning March.

Winners Named In Live Barrow Show at Lamar

Supreme champion of the live barrow show at the fourth annual All America Market Hog Show in Lamar Friday and Saturday was John Neely, of Fort Worth, Tex.

Neely won with a Hampshire barrow that also won champion of the heavy weight senior open division. The barrow was from a litter of 12 that weighed 486 lbs in 56 days. The litter won a pacesetter certificate at Texas A & M College, College Station, Tex. This was Neely's first year as a contestant in the market hog show at Lamar.

Mrs. Martha Romer, Holly, won the reserve supreme champion award with a Yorkshire-Hampshire crossbred barrow that was named champion of the light weight open division.

Nearly 150 persons attended the show's annual banquet Friday where the advantages of confined hog production were presented by O. L. Joseph, Western Division supervisor of the Behlen manufacturing Co., Columbus, Neb.

"We think hog producers will go to confinement methods because they will eventually be forced into it by market competition," said Joseph.

While confinement hog raising is new to us in the United States, it has been practiced for more than 20 years in Denmark, he explained. Joseph showed slides illustrating methods of confinement hog production in Denmark and new methods that have been developed for use of this system by farmers in America.

Lloyd Somerville, of Fruita, president of the Colorado Farm Bureau, attacked the efforts of the Kennedy administration to increase governmental controls on American farmers and destroy the market price system.

"Can freedom be bought with a few pieces of silver?" Somerville asked. "We must endeavor to restore and maintain the market price system for our agricultural production."

He pointed out that more research was needed in developing improved methods of marketing farm products.

James Romer, chairman of the hog show committee, reported that 183 animals were entered in the show including 50 in the barrow contest, 97 in the carcass contest, and 36 in the littermate sale.

BETTE DAVIS PROVES AGAIN SHE'S AN ARTICULATE STAR

NEW YORK — Bette Davis took off like a flying tiger on Johnny Carson's show after accepting the photoplay award as most popular actress of the year, and proved again she's the most articulate star around. She recently explained her boldness in our fear-ridden industry with: "You have to be tough to survive this era, but sometimes the toughest are the most sensitive. The hardest thing to adjust to is that there is no loyalty. Just you and God." Bette took the train east — flew home. "I've had my last trip by covered wagon. The American desert I have seen!"

Flying sure doesn't bother Dick Chamberlain. We traveled to New York on the same plane and he slept all the way. Incidentally, he sleeps with his mouth closed — just thought you girls might like to know. George Lemaire, son of my old friend Rufus, was with him. Tells me that if Dick goes out with a girl his fans don't approve of he gets threatening letters.

After picking up her award as the most promising newcomer, Suzanne Pleshette was planning two weeks of fun in the big town before reporting to the "Youngblood Hawke" company in Kentucky.

Gary Clarke forgot his tuxedo and had to borrow one to wear when he accepted his award. It was a bit snug, but he managed to get thru the evening very well. It's his second trip to New York and he's still awed by it all. "The first time I came here three months ago, all I did was walk up one street and down another. I can't believe this town — it's frightening."

Patty Duke accepted the award for "The Miracle Worker"; tells me she'll have her own TV show next year. Seems incredible that she's 16.

Perry Cross, one of the helpers on Carson's show, tells me he'll be moving west to help pilot Jerry Lewis thru the rapids of that two-hour TV program he will do next fall.

After the show we all went to the Playbill and had a divine supper party with a lot of old friends including the Earl Wilsons, Earl Blackwell, Si Seadler and Julia Newman, who tells me she's getting many Broadway offers.

BETTE DAVIS PROVES AGAIN SHE'S AN ARTICULATE STAR

NEW YORK — Bette Davis took off like a flying tiger on Johnny Carson's show after accepting the photoplay award as most popular actress of the year, and proved again she's the most articulate star around. She recently explained her boldness in our fear-ridden industry with: "You have to be tough to survive this era, but sometimes the toughest are the most sensitive. The hardest thing to adjust to is that there is no loyalty. Just you and God." Bette took the train east — flew home. "I've had my last trip by covered wagon. The American desert I have seen."

Flying sure doesn't bother Dick Chamberlain. We traveled to New York on the same plane and he slept all the way. Incidentally, he sleeps with his mouth closed — just thought you girls might like to know. George Lemaire, son of my old friend Rufus, was with him. Tells me that if Dick goes out with a girl his fans don't approve of he gets threatening letters.

After picking up her award as the most promising newcomer, Suzanne Pleshette was planning two weeks of fun in the big town before reporting to the "Youngblood Hawke" company in Kentucky.

Gary Clarke forgot his tuxedo and had to borrow one to wear when he accepted his award. It was a bit snug, but he managed to get thru the evening very well. It's his second trip to New York and he's still awed by it all. "The first time I came here three months ago, all I did was walk up one street and down another. I can't believe this town — it's frightening."

Patty Duke accepted the award for "The Miracle Worker"; tells me she'll have her own TV show next year. Seems incredible that she's 16.

Perry Cross, one of the helpers on Carson's show, tells me he'll be moving west to help pilot Jerry Lewis thru the rapids of that two-hour TV program he will do next fall.

After the show we all went to the Playbill and had a divine supper party with a lot of old friends including the Earl Wilsons, Earl Blackwell, Si Seadler and Julia Newman, who tells me she's getting many Broadway offers.

Widows Deny Men Were Seeking Fortune

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—When four Birmingham, Ala., airmen failed to return from the 1961 invasion of Cuba, reports indicated they were soldiers of fortune. But their widows reject this.

"These men knew what they were getting into," said attorney Alex E. Carlson, who reported the disappearance to the wives. "It was a calculated risk. If they came back they had a nice nest egg."

The women each get $225 every two weeks from an unknown benefactor. But they insist money alone was not their husbands' motives.

"My husband was no soldier of fortune or adventurer," said Mrs. Thomas Willard Ray in an interview with Nashville Tennessean reporter Wayne Whitt.

Whitt also talked with Mrs. Wade C. Gray and Mrs. Riley W. Shamburger Jr., the other two widows who live in the Birmingham area. The fourth widow, Mrs. Lee F. Baker, now lives in suburban Los Angeles with her father and stepmother.

The money the widows receive comes from the Bankers Trust Co. of New York. Two attorneys, Carlson of Miami Spring, Fla., and Thomas F. McDowell of Birmingham, have told them the payments will continue until they marry again.

The widows say they have not been told the identity of the account against which the checks are drawn. Bank officials sign the checks.

Carlson said the payments come from a trust fund authorized by the airmen's employer.

Carlson, attorney for Double Check Corp., said that organization, acting as a sort of broker, found the men for a Central American anti-Castro group, which hired them. He said he was not at liberty to identify the group.

"The Central American group authorized Double Check to set up a trust fund for payments in case the men died," he explained. "Now the widows receive these disbursements."

Wildlife Preservation Not Encouraged by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., told the Senate Monday former President Dwight D. Eisenhower gave wildlife conservation experts no comfort on a recent Mexican hunting trip.

Fulbright put into the Congressional Record a news story which credited Eisenhower with shooting 40 ducks and 30 other birds in three hours.

"This may demonstrate that the general's marksmanship has improved," Fulbright said, "but it's not much encouragement to the people who want to preserve wild life."

Consumer Protection Commission Urged

DENVER (UPI) — State Rep. Ted Rubin, D-Denver, has offered a bill in the House to create a state Consumer Protection Commission.

The 13 - member commission would be appointed by the governor and serve without pay. The bill carries a $17,500 budget.

MOSCOW—Beatnicks are now being sentenced to five years of Siberian hard labor in Russia.

Cow Shot Along Fence Of Guantanamo Base

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's government has accused American forces of shoting a cow and staging a drunken gun battle along the 27-mile fence rimming the U.S. Guantanamo naval base.

A communique of the Armed Forces Ministry said a U.S. soldier drew a bead on a Cuban border guard Wednesday night, missed and killed the cow.

The following night, it claimed, two groups of drunken U.S. Marines "engaged in an intense gun battle."

There was no immediate comment from the American Navy.

SERMON LESSON

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Evangelist Don Chenowith in his sermon at Berea Baptist Church Sunday night quoted from St. Luke about the good man who would have kept watch if he had known what hour the thief would come.

Police Monday issued a three-state alarm for three men and five women who heard the sermon. They were wanted for returning to the church after the sermon and stealing $1,700 in equipment.

Aged Benefit Extension Hit By State Group

DENVER (AP) — A plan to extend health and hospital benefits to Colorado's aged under the federal Kerr-Mills Act "would be a questionable act of fiscal responsibility," the Colorado Public Expenditure Council said today.

It said that for Colorado to implement the program at this time would require a tax increase to provide the estimated $1.7 million needed for the state to match federal funds.

In a statement delivered to Gov. John A. Love and members of the legislature, the council said a bill setting up the program would provide coverage for more than 58,000 Coloradoans who are not now covered by the state's old age medical care program.

"The state can ill afford to commit itself to this new program at this time without realistic facing the cold fact that a tax increase is inevitable after one more year, provided no change is made in current spending trends," the council said.

Enactment of the bill would pose "a substantial threat to the fiscal solvency" of the state, he agency added.

It said costs of the existing old age medical care program historically have been grossly underestimated and that a comprehensive study should be made before the state commits itself to the federal program.

The council said passage of the Republican-sponsored bill by the Colorado Legislature would be an open invitation to senior citizens from every state of the union to move here and participate in the federal program and later qualify for the state's old age pension program.

If the federal program were implemented in Colorado, the council said, "it would be only a matter of time until the 'treat us all alike' argument would prevail and exactly the same medical program would be offered to both the pensioner and nonpensioner groups."

Four Russians Sentenced to Death for Graft

MOSCOW (UPI)—Four persons have been sentenced to death for making "hundreds of thousands of rubles" of illegal profit on rags and old paper, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said today.

Seventeen other persons, who were also found guilty in the cases, received prison sentences. Pravda did not say how long they were.

All 21 persons were tried in Baku, the capital of the central Asian republic of Azerbaijan.

In an effort to reduce economic abuses, Soviet authorities have decreed that the death penalty can be imposed for such crimes as speculation and embezzlement.

CU Provost Named To New York Post

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York University, the nation's largest private university, announced today that Dr. Oswald Tippo, currently provost at the University of Colorado, had been appointed executive dean.

Tippo, who has been at CU since 1960, will leave in June. He will be in charge of liberal arts colleges and the graduate school of liberal arts at the New York institution, which has an enrollment of 42,000 students.

Tippo earlier announced his resignation at CU. The announcement followed that of CU President Quigg Newton, who decided to leave after several months of bitter political controversy and attacks on his policies by Regent Charles D. Bromley of Denver. Bromley led the regents ticket in winning re-election last November.

Increase of ROTC Proposed by Solon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon wants to drop the high school ROTC program, but Rep. F. Edward Hebert, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, has other ideas.

The Louisiana Democrat intends to propose today a bill that would call for a seven-fold increase in the $6-million program. Hebert says he has a pledge of full support from committee chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has expressed "serious doubts whether most of this program is worth the cost."

Widows Deny Men Were Seeking Fortune

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—When four Birmingham, Ala., airmen failed to return from the 1961 invasion of Cuba, reports indicated they were soldiers of fortune. But their widows reject this.

"These men knew what they were getting into," said attorney Alex E. Carlson, who reported the disappearance to the wives. "It was a calculated risk. If they came back they had a nice nest egg."

The women each get $225 every two weeks from an unknown benefactor. But they insist money alone was not their husbands' motives.

"My husband was no soldier of fortune or adventurer," said Mrs. Thomas Willard Ray in an interview with Nashville Tennessean reporter Wayne Whitt.

Whitt also talked with Mrs. Wade C. Gray and Mrs. Riley W. Shamburger Jr., the other two widows who live in the Birmingham area. The fourth widow, Mrs. Lee F. Baker, now lives in suburban Los Angeles with her father and stepmother.

The money the widows receive comes from the Bankers Trust Co. of New York. Two attorneys, Carlson of Miami Spring, Fla., and Thomas F. McDowell of Birmingham, have told them the payments will continue until they marry again.

The widows say they have not been told the identity of the account against which the checks are drawn. Bank officials sign the checks.

Carlson said the payments come from a trust fund authorized by the airmen's employer.

Carlson, attorney for Double Check Corp., said that organization, acting as a sort of broker, found the men for a Central American anti-Castro group, which hired them. He said he was not at liberty to identify the group.

"The Central American group authorized Double Check to set up a trust fund for payments in case the men died," he explained. "Now the widows receive these disbursements."

Wildlife Preservation Not Encouraged by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., told the Senate Monday former President Dwight D. Eisenhower gave wildlife conservation experts no comfort on a recent Mexican hunting trip.

Fulbright put into the Congressional Record a news story which credited Eisenhower with shooting 40 ducks and 30 other birds in three hours.

"This may demonstrate that the general's marksmanship has improved," Fulbright said, "but it's not much encouragement to the people who want to preserve wild life."

Consumer Protection Commission Urged

DENVER (UPI)— State Rep. Ted Rubin, D-Denver, has offered a bill in the House to create a state Consumer Protection Commission.

The 13 - member commission would be appointed by the governor and serve without pay. The bill carries a $17,500 budget.

Cow Shot Along Fence Of Guantanamo Base

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's government has accused American forces of shoting a cow and staging a drunken gun battle along the 27-mile fence rimming the U.S. Guantanamo naval base.

A communique of the Armed Forces Ministry said a U.S. soldier drew a bead on a Cuban border guard Wednesday night, missed and killed the cow.

The following night, it claimed, two groups of drunken U.S. Marines "engaged in an intense gun battle."

There was no immediate comment from the American Navy.

SERMON LESSON

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Evangelist Don Chenowith in his sermon at Berea Baptist Church Sunday night quoted from St. Luke about the good man who would have kept watch if he had known what hour the thief would come.

Police Monday issued a three-state alarm for three men and five women who heard the sermon. They were wanted for returning to the church after the sermon and stealing $1,700 in equipment.

TALENTED YOUTH — Winner of the local Kiwanis Club "Stars of Tomorrow" talent search is Dick Basford, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Basford, 2318 Revere Lane. Dick, a student at Horace Mann Junior High School, played his accordian to victory over a field of 28 contestants. Presenting the trophy to Dick, who will now compete in the regional contest in Denver, is Larry Ochs, president of the Pikes Peak Kiwanis Club which sponsored this year's youth talent search. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Dick Basford Club Contest Finals Winner

Dick Basford played "Espania Cani" and "Tiger Rag" like a champion accordian player Sunday in the finals of the Kiwanis Club "Stars of Tomorrow" contest and the judges agreed.

The 13 - year - old boy who has been playing the accordian only 4 years, was named winner over three other finalist Sunday by Kiwanis Club judges.

Dick will compete in the regional finals this spring in Denver and if he wins the favor of the judges he, will go on to the national finals to be held in the east this summer.

Placing second in the finals which appeared on KRDO-TV was the Teenmates Plus Rosie Quintent from the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind.

Rosie Tafoya, a member of the quintent from the school, who sang a solo, named third place winner by the judges.

Judges for the youth talent search were Bill Armstrong, president of the Colorado Springs Kiwanis Club; Clay Aslin, president of the Manitou Springs Kiwanis Club; and Mike Fatiuk, secretary of the Monument-Palmer Lake Kiwanis Club.

Legion Post Loot Amounts to $409.55

City Police said Wednesday that loot from the burglary of the American Legion Post 5 totaled $409.55.

Officials of the organization said $334.55 in cash was taken from the safe at the building and $75 was stolen from various vending machines.

The building was entered sometime Sunday night. A meat cleaver and hammer was used to open the steel and concrete safe. Entrance was gained by forcing a rear door.

Prep Stars of the Week

JOHN O'CONNELL

* * *

MIKE DUNN

* * *

PPL

John O'Connell, the 6-7 workhorse of the St. Mary's Pirates, has been named City Star of the Week for the third time this season by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department for his performance as the Bucs wrapped up the Denver Parochial League crown last Friday.

O'Connell had one of the finest games of his career to lead the Pirates past longtime - nemesis, Regis. John accounted for over half of the teams points and rebounds, hitting a season high of 29 points and pulling down 17 caroms. In addition, he was a mainstay in the Pirate defense which effectively thwarted the Raiders' "big men."

In being selected, O'Connell edged Wasson's Darrell Greene who contributed 28 points to the Thunderbirds' losing effort against Trinidad last Friday. Others mentioned were Karl Tait of Wasson, Richie Jewett of Mary's, and Walt Hylton of Palmer.

Mike Dunn, Fountain's top scorer and court general, was selected the Pikes Peak League Player of the Week by the Gazette Telegraph Sports department for his outstanding effort against Manitou Springs last Friday.

The 5-11 senior collected 26 points to lead the Trojans over Manitou, 52-51, on the latter's home court. Dunn pumped in nine field goals and cashed in eight free throws.

Golden Gloves Boxing Show Ends Annual Run Tonight

Boxers from 13 states will battle in 32 semifinal bouts with the winners returning to the ring for the finals in eight weight classes.

The semifinalists qualified in preliminaries at the Stadium last week and represent the best in an original field of nearly 250 from 31 cities.

The colorful tournament will be dropped by its sponsor, Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which announced the decision Feb. 25. Cited were financial reasons and a new AAU rule which becomes effective Jan. 1 requiring all amateur boxers to wear protective headgear.

Throughout the years, the Tournament of Champions has produced such graduates as Barney Ross, Tony Zale, Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles, Harold Dade and Sonny Liston. One of the latest products is heavyweight contender Cassius Clay, who won the 175-pound title in 1959 and the heavyweight crown the next year.

Welterweight Rory O'Shea of Chicago is the only returning champion in tonight's field. The crowd favorite, however, probably will be heavyweight Ron Marsh, a 180-pound ex-Marine. He is a guard on Kansas' football team and a diving star on the swim squad.

Detroit, with four survivors, leads Fort Worth 12 points to 11 in the team title competition. One point is awarded for each bout won.

Tied at nine points are Chicago; Columbus, Ohio; Hollywood, and Nashville. Cincinnati and Kansas City have eight each.

PPL Teams Open District Action

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

It's that time again. A time when the student body pitches in an all - out publicity campaign proclaiming their basketball team is the best and will emerge victorious.

Meanwhile the coaches think back four months ago and realize that all the hard work is at stake; for in his business there isn't room for miscalculating a map of strategy. And he isn't allowed nay one loss if his teams intends to win this important battle.

Yes, it's District Tournament time again for the Pikes Peak League, scheduled for the Colorado Springs Auditorium, Thursday thru Saturday.

On the eve of the three - day single - elimination tournament, anxieties roam the respective dressing rooms of the eight coaches entered in the competition for a additional feather in their cap—a berth in the State Class AA Tournament slated next week in Denver. Two teams will represent the PPL in the state tourney; one seat automatically goes to the loop champion, Salida, and the other will go the winner of the District Tournament.

Should Salida win the tourney then the runner - up would get the green light for the keen competition in the Mile High City next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Which of the eight teams will prevail over the other seven candidates and cop the coveted tournament title remains a major question. Without a doubt, any of the eight cage teams could rally to the occasion to snatch the title. But tall and talented Salida must draw the role of the top favorite in lieu of their past 16-2 overall record.

Cheyenne Mountain draws a second to succeed should the PPL champions fail. Academy High, altho lacking height, has the shooting potential and speed to possibly pose a serious threat to the Spartans. But fate took an early hand in deciding the outcome of these two squads; both are engaged in roundball warfare right off the bat. Cheyenne and Academy tangle Thursday night in the third game of the first night's action.

Altho Fountain managed to whack Harrison during league play, Harrison on the other hand presented Don Schmidli's Spartans with their second successive defeat in loop play. But Salida won quite handily over Fountain.

The Fountain crew, small but effective, opens the tournament against Salida Thursday at 4:30; Harrison follows with a contest against Florence at 6; Academy-Cheyenne at 7:30; and Widefield clashes with Manitou Springs at 9.

Friday's slate includes the winner of the Salida - Fountain tilt against the victor of the Harrison-Florence encounter at 7. The winner of the Academy - Cheyenne contest pits their skills against the champion of the Widefield-Manitou game at 8:30.

The unsuccessful teams on Friday will clash for the third place honors at 7 p.m., Saturday. The victors of Friday's games will march into the Colorado Springs Auditorium for the championship game at 8:30.

Granted; Salida, Cheyenne and Academy may be top contenders, but it's a far cry from that familiar saying — "it's all over but the shouting." Harrison, Widefield, Florence, and Fountain all possess the ability to come up with a winning combination. But how they will stand under the constant pressure will seperate the lucky ball clubs from the consistently good roundball squads.

Altho Salida dropped two straight games earlier in the season to Harrison and Cheyenne, the Spartans have bounched back as their big men have proven their ability. The Spartans shadow the other seven clubs in the height department. The Lantz brothers, David and John, tower over 6-5 with the latter sophomore lad reaching 6-7. In addition to height, Dave Lantz is the third top scorer in the PPL with 15.6 points scored per game.

The Cheyenne team, altho performing several games below their potential, has also improved vastly and has developed a hunger to win; something they seemed to lack earlier in the season which explains their 4-4 league record. Bill Raines, the ace gunner in the loop with 19.5 mean, anchors the Indians in scoring and along with powerful Sid Reidlehuber will give the Salida crew a run for controlling the backboards.

Flashy John Julius puts teeth into the Academy offensive and defensive attack. Julius ranks third in the league scoring with an 18.3 average. Teammates Hank Arnold and Chris Munch put muscle in the Kadets' offensive shuffle; due to the team's lack of height Coach John Delventhal elects to run the revolving post. And the "Big Blue" mentor succeeded with that offense that netted a tie for second place via a 5-3 record.

DISTRICT TOURNAMENT SCHEDULE

Thursday
Salida vs. Fountain 4:30 p.m.
Harrison vs. Florence 6:00 p.m.
Academy vs. Cheyenne 7:30 p.m.
Widefield vs. Manitou 9:00 p.m.

Friday
Winners of Salida-Fountain, Harrison-Florence games 7:00 p.m.
Winners of Academy-Cheyenne, Widefield-Manitou games 8:30 p.m.

Saturday
Losers of Friday's games (Third Place Game) 7 p.m.
Winners of Friday's games (Championship Game) 8:30 p.m.

Raines Grabs Pikes Peak Point Title

Bill Raines, Cheyenne Mountain's scoring ace, finished out his career in the Pikes Peak League last Friday with a brilliant performance against Harrison. The 6-4 Cheyenne senior pumped in 19 points to spearhead the Indians over top challenger Harrison, 56-38, and knocked the latter team from a chunk of the PPL crown.

Raines completed the loop season with a 19.5 average in eight games for a total of 156 points; making 134 points from the field and 22 at the charity lanes.

Flashy John Julius, a member of last year's All - Conference team, finished in undisputed second position in the PPL individual scoring race via an 18.3 mean.

Tall and talented David Lantz pushed up to the third slot knocking out Don Cockroft of Fountain from that position. Salida's Lantz copped the third place with a 15.6 mean. Cockroft moved down to fourth place with a 14.8 average.

It was the 6-5 Spartan forward that enabled the southern team to wrap up its third successive PPL title as Lantz bombarded the Widefield squad with 10 field goals and one free throw for a total of 21 points. Salida whacked Widefield, 63-42, to claim the league title.

Mike Dunn upped his scoring average when he pumped home 21 points last week to guide Fountain over Manitou Springs, 52-51, and gained the fifth place position in scoring. Dunn has a 14.3 mean.

Teammates from Manitou Springs, Jim Rigdon and Tom Johnston, tied for sixth place with a 13.9 average for 111 points.

Rusty Wasinger of Widefield fell below his potential to take seventh place with 13.8. Wasinger led the race earlier in the season and set a school record in scoring.

Falcon Five Ends Season Against Marquette, Friday

It's been a long winter for the Air Force Academy basketball team, but a win over NIT-bound Marquette this Friday at the Cadet Gym could salve a lot of wounds as the Falcons close the 1962 - 63 season.

Starting time is set for 8 p.m., and there is no prelim game.

The Cadets absorbed their 12th loss of the season, Saturday, at the hands of nationally - ranked Texas Western, 62-45, at El Paso. The loss demolished any hopes the Cadets had of preserving Coach Bob Spear's record of never having a losing season in the history of AFA basketball.

TWC's NCAA Tournament - bound Miners coupled too much rebounding strength along with a blistering first half shooting performance to run up an early lead over the game Cadets, and coasted to the win.

Led by All - America Jim (Bad News) Barnes, the Miners' 6-8, 250-pound center, TWC hit six of their first seven field goal attempts to open the game.

Parke Hinman led the Falcons with 10 points — all from the field, but had considerable help from Rich Porter, John Judd and Roger Head. Head turned in one of his better defensive performances by holding Barnes to only two second half points and 13 overall.

Marquette, led by Ron Glaser, Bob Hornak and Richard Nixon, will be out for their fourth win in five tries against the Cadets. The Academy's win came in an overtime thriller at the AFA to close the 1960 - 61 season.

Guard Johnny Judd maintained his team scoring lead during the past week, as the 5-8 flash riddled Regis for 19 points — including the game - winning basket, and picked up nine against Texas Western.

Judd, however, surrendered his free throw shooting lead to Hinman who went three-for-three during the past two games.

Playing their last games of the season, the freshmen bowed to an aroused Prep School squad Friday, 60-51, and then surprised a strong Pueblo J.C. squad by defeating them handily, 73-62, at Pueblo — something the Falcons have not been able to do since 1955.

The frosh, coached by Capt. Walter Lenz, closed out their season with a 9-5 record, and the Pueblo win avenged a loss to the Indians in the season opener last December.

Lamar Junior College Defends National Title

LAMAR, Colo. (UPI)—The National Junior College championships will be held here Friday and Saturday, with Lamar Junior College hosting its second straight national meet.

The Lamar team won the Empire Conference wrestling championship last week, and will defend its national title won last year.

Eighteen schools will enter.

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) —Gary Player of South Africa, who finished sixth in the recent New Orleans Open, retained the over-all lead in the Professional Golfers Association money-winning standings for 1963 with a total of $20,402.50. Bob Rosburg moved into eighth place by finishing second in the New Orleans tourney.

Famed Harlem Globetrotters Slated For City Auditorium Show Tonight

The fabulous Harlem Globetrotters, who have performed before kings, queens, dictators and millions of fans thruout the world, swing into the Colorado Springs City Auditorium tonight for their annual one-night stand.

Providing the "straight-man" opposition for the Trotters on their tour thru the western part o fthe nation this winter is the San Francisco All-Nations tea, a collection of players of many nationalities. This is essentially the same team, then known as the San Francisco Chinese, who accompanied the Globetrotters as playing partners on a tour of Europe in the summer o f1959, including a 10-day visit to Moscow in Soviet Russia.

The game is scheduled for 8 p.m. with several entertainment acts slated just before the contest and at halftime.

The Globetrotters, as usual, are divided into two units this winter with the other team touring the eastern half of the country.

Leading the group here are assistant coach and dribbling wizard Bobby Milton who has seen action with the squad for the last 13 years, and chief comic Robert (Showboat) Hall, a 6-2 post from Detroit, Mich. It was Milton who replaced the Marcus Haynes, and Hall took Goose Tatum's spot after the breakup of the original quintet.

Another veteran of 10 years with the Trotters is Norman Lee, a 6-5 forward from Dayton, Ohio, while Ernie Wagner is in his ninth season. And tabbed as one of the coming stars of the organization is Hallie Bryant, 6-3 forward from the Big Ten and NCAA championship team of 1956-57 at Indiana U.

As a word of caution, however, anyone going to the game expecting to see a sedate scoring battle between these teams may go away disappointed. There will be a battle, alright, but it will be more between wits than baskets.

The Trotters can call on great talent at putting the ball thru the hoop when needed, as testified by their record as the Globetrotters have scored 7,412 victories against only 310 defeats in the past 35 years. And to really prove their ability, the men from Harlem annually take on the College All-Stars in a tour across the country — last year registering 14 wins against a single setback.

But what the fans really pack the stands for is what the Trotters do best — their zany program of fun and frolic. They'll do such things as play baseball or football right in the middle of the regulation cage affair . . . and get away with it as they have for more than three decades.

Another of the Globetrotters' stock-in-trade stunts that seemingly will never die is the "Magic Circle" pre-game warmup. It's a precise passing and ultra-fancy comic ball handling drill to the tune of "Sweet Georgia Brown" that sets the game mood every time. Most fans feel this alone is worth the trip to the auditorium.

As if the game itself wasn't enough, the Globetrotters' owner Abe Saperstein and promoter Abe Marylander have arranged for no less than seven acts of variety entertainment before the contest and at halftime. These include a batonist, finger balancer, Mexican juggler, punching bag duo, balancing act, acrobatic juggler and the always popular Robert Ashley and Dennis Hickerson who will stage a table tennis match.

In case there are any tickets left by tonight, they will be offered at the box office of the City Auditorium just before the game.

Five Cities Make Bid For Olympics

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—As far as Los Angeles is concerned, an honest mistake was made by the board of directors of the U.S. Olympic Committee when Detroit was named as the U.S. city to make a bid for the 1968 Olympics.

"Now, however, we are going to get a chance to make our bid again," said Joe Quinn, executive assistant to Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorky, today, "and we are confident our presentation will be acted on favorably."

All five interested U.S. cities—Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Philadelphia—will appear before the committee here on March 18 to present their cases again.

"We don't consider this an injustice to Detroit," said Quinn. "As a matter of fact, last October when we appeared before the site selection committee of the U.S. Olympic Committee in Chicago, we had been led to believe that no bid would be accepted. We were astonished, to say the least, that Detroit got the bid.

"Actually, as we discovered the next day, only four members of the committee were there, and when we polled them, they were in favor of Los Angeles by 3-1. The others were so-called monitors, representing the other committee members. We also discovered that the rules specify that they were not permitted to vote. Yet they did vote."

Quinn said he thought the committee was so wound up in the AAU-NCAA feud that it could not devote the proper deliberation to which city should become the American standard-bearer.

He also said he is certain Los Angeles will be the only United States city to be given serious consideration.

"And," he said, "we would have a good chance. "The other cities bidding are Cairo, Buenos Aires, Manila, Lyons, Mexico City and Laussanne. We have the facilities, and you know, the only time the Olympics ever made any money was when we held them in 1932.

Six NCAA Tournament Berths Left

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are six pieces left in college basketball's post-season pie—with 12 teams still looking for a cut.

Six conference berths remain open in the NCAA tournament with two clubs in each league in the running for the coast-to-coast extravaganza. Already set for the national tourney are nine conference entries and the 10 at-large selections.

In Tuesday night's developments Yale grabbed a share of the Ivy League lead with an 80-76 overtime victory at Harvard, Santa Clara went ahead in the West Coast Athletic Conference by winning at home against University of Pacific 79-62, and East Tennessee was knocked out of the Ohio Valley scramble, losing at Middle Tennessee 59-57.

IVY LEAGUE—Yale finished at 11-3, matching Princeton, and the two teams will play off at Fordham's gym in New York Friday night for the NCAA spot.

WCAC—Santa Clara now is 9-2 and San Francisco 8-2, with these two having a showdown Saturday night at San Francisco. Prior to taking on Santa Clara, the dons have a home game tonight with San Jose State.

OHIO VALLEY—With East Tennessee out of it, Morehead and Tennessee Tech are left alone at the top with 8-4 records. The co-champions will have a playoff, the conference's fourth in the past eight years.

BIG TEN—Ohio State in the lead at 11-2 with Illinois next at 10-3. The Buckeyes finish at Indiana and the Illini entertain Iowa, both games Saturday afternoon.

BIG EIGHT—Kansas State and Colorado will settle this one Saturday night on K-State's floor. The Wildcats now are 11-2 and the Buffaloes are 10-3, but if Colorado wins the showdown it will get the NCAA trip since it beat K-State in their other regular season game.

BIG SIX—Stanford has clinched a tie at 7-3 but UCLA, 5-5, has a mathematical chance. They'll meet Friday night at UCLA, then the UCLANS are at home against California Saturday while Stanford closes at Southern California.

Providence, 10th ranked nationally and headed for the National Invitation Tournament, romped to its 11th straight victory, winning at Fairfield 85-65.

In other Tuesday night games—Rice 73, Texas A&M 70; Arkansas 104, Texas Christian 94; Southern Methodist 88, Texas Tech 87; Oklahoma 70, Oklahoma State 65; Syracuse 100, Colgate 78; Pepperdine 73, Loyola of Los Angeles 55.

Liston-Patterson Bout to Be Aired

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sonny Liston's defense of his heavyweight title against Floyd Patterson at Miami Beach, April 10, will be broadcast by the ABC radio network. Les Keiter will provide the blow-by-blow description and Howard Cosell will handle the color commentary.

Fight Results

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK—Isaac Logart, 148, Cuba, outpointed Walter Daniels, 146½, Pittsburgh, 10.

BIMINI, Bahamas—Yama Bahama, 161, Bimini, stopped Harry Monroe, 169, Augusta, Ga., 7.

200 Boxers Slated To Compete in AAU

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—More than 200 boxers, three of them national champions last year, will compete in the National Amateur Athletic Union Tournament that begins Thursday.

The fighters will come from throughout the continental United States and also from Puerto Rico, Canada and South Africa.

Greyhounds Nip Miners In District Playoff, 57-53

GOLDEN (AP) — Colorado Mines blew a seven point lead midway through the second half Tuesday night, and Eastern New Mexico beat the Orediggers 57-53 in the NAIA Dist. 7 playoffs.

The victory sends the Greyhounds, 14-7 for the season, on their fifth trip to the NAIA Tournament March 11-16 in Kansas City, Mo. Mines ended its finest season with a 16-9 record.

The Orediggers ran up a 41-34 lead with 10 minutes 55 seconds remaining in the game, and then went cold. The Miners made only two points in the next 8:23—on a drive shot by Jay Edwards.

But the Greyhounds got hot and scored 23 points in the same time. Mines revived with a six-point outburst in the closing 1:37, but it proved in vain.

Eastern shot to an early lead and, midway in the first half, increased it to six points. But the Greyhounds fell behind after the Orediggers hit a series of jump shots.

Greyhound forward Tony Farrell led all scorers with 20 points. Steve Harvey and Edwards led the Miners with 13.

CU's Durley Set Seven-Foot Goal

BOULDER (AP) — Seven feet is the mark that Leander Durley, Colorado's sophomore high jumper, has for a target this spring.

His coach, Frank Potts, is sure he will make it. Durley set a Big Eight Conference record of 6 feet 10½ inches at Kansas City Saturday.

32 Teams Enter Cage Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ten more teams qualified Tuesday night for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' 32-team basketball tournament which starts here next Monday.

Winners of district playoffs Tuesday night were Arkansas Tech, Rockhurst of Kansas City, Fort Hays (Kan) State, Eastern New Mexico, Central State of Ohio, Northern Michigan, Transylvania of Kentucky, Stetson of Florida, Eastern Montana and California Western.

Previous qualifiers were Miles of Alabama, Western Carolina (N. C), Pacific Lutheran, Lewis and Clark, Howard Payne, Oklahoma Baptist, Grambling and Winston-Salem (N. C) Teachers.

Nicklaus Withdraws On Doctor's Advice

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A physician's advice has prompted Jack Nicklaus, one of golfdom's current Big Three, to withdraw from the $25,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament starting Thursday.

Nicklaus notified officials Tuesday that his physician had called him back to Columbus, Ohio, for further treatment of the bursitis that has been hampering his play since the start of the winter tour.

Aged Benefit Extension Hit By State Group

DENVER (AP) — A plan to extend health and hospital benefits to Colorado's aged under the federal Kerr-Mills Act "would be a questionable act of fiscal responsibility," the Colorado Public Expenditure Council said today.

It said that for Colorado to implement the program at this time would require a tax increase to provide the estimated $1.7 million needed for the state to match federal funds.

In a statement delivered to Gov. John A. Love and members of the legislature, the council said a bill setting up the program would provide coverage for more than 58,000 Coloradoans who are not now covered by the state's old age medical care program.

"The state can ill afford to commit itself to this new program at this time without realistic facing the cold fact that a tax increase is inevitable after one more year, provided no change is made in current spending trends," the council said.

Enactment of the bill would pose "a substantial threat to the fiscal solvency" of the state, he agency added.

It said costs of the existing old age medical care program historically have been grossly underestimated and that a comprehensive study should be made before the state commits itself to the federal program.

The council said passage of the Republican-sponsored bill by the Colorado Legislature would be an open invitation to senior citizens from every state of the union to move here and participate in the federal program and later qualify for the state's old age pension program.

If the federal program were implemented in Colorado, the council said, "it would be only a matter of time until the 'treat us all alike' argument would prevail and exactly the same medical program would be offered to both the pensioner and nonpensioner groups."

Four Russians Sentenced to Death for Graft

MOSCOW (UPI)—Four persons have been sentenced to death for making "hundreds of thousands of rubles" of illegal profit on rags and old paper, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said today.

Seventeen other persons, who were also found guilty in the cases, received prison sentences. Pravda did not say how long they were.

All 21 persons were tried in Baku, the capital of the central Asian republic of Azerbaijan.

In an effort to reduce economic abuses, Soviet authorities have decreed that the death penalty can be imposed for such crimes as speculation and embezzlement.

CU Provost Named To New York Post

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York University, the nation's largest private university, announced today that Dr. Oswald Tippo, currently provost at the University of Colorado, had been appointed executive dean.

Tippo, who has been at CU since 1960, will leave in June. He will be in charge of liberal arts colleges and the graduate school of liberal arts at the New York institution, which has an enrollment of 42,000 students.

Tippo earlier announced his resignation at CU. The announcement followed that of CU President Quigg Newton, who decided to leave after several months of bitter political controversy and attacks on his policies by Regent Charles D. Bromley of Denver. Bromley led the regents ticket in winning re-election last November.

Increase of ROTC Proposed by Solon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon wants to drop the high school ROTC program, but Rep. F. Edward Hebert, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, has other ideas.

The Louisiana Democrat intends to propose today a bill that would call for a seven-fold increase in the $6-million program. Hebert says he has a pledge of full support from committee chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has expressed "serious doubts whether most of this program is worth the cost."

Disappointed T-Birds Go to Slope for Closer

Wasson High School is an area of resigned disappointment this week. Students, faculty, and basketball team are all still in a state of semi-shock over the Thunderbirds untimely elimination from the South Central League race and state tournament last Friday night.

The 65-63 loss to Trinidad was the culmination of a season of almost unbelievable hard luck. Few SCL teams in history had been more heavily favored to win the championship than the Thunderbirds and certainly none were deprived by a more astounding series of defeats.

The loss to Trinidad last Friday was the fourth in league play this season and it eliminated Dick Westbay's club from any further hopes of a berth in the state tourney. The four defeats were by a total of only nine points. This is how they went:

1. A 77-74 loss to Pueblo Central in an overtime game after the Thunderbirds had enjoyed a 12 point margin early in the fourth quarter.

2. A 64-62 loss at Trinidad where the actual margin was provided when a Wasson player shot a ball in the Trinidad basket.

3. A 76-74 loss to Pueblo South in a game the T-Birds had led by as much as eight points in the last quarter. South won on a 40 foot shot by guard Ron Schwab after the ball was thrown in from out of bounds with only one second left.

4. Last Friday's 65-63 loss to Trinidad in which Wasson led by nine points in the fourth quarter and finally went down as Trinidad's Jim Toupal sank an off-balance heave from the corner with one second left on the clock.

Thus the sad story unfolded as the team that many considered the finest high school group to represent Colorado Springs in some years finds itself without a chance to demonstrate its abilities at the state tournament in Denver next week.

This week Westbay is hoping to regroup his forces for a final effort at Grand Junction Friday night. The game was origionally scheduled for Saturday but was moved back Tuesday afternoon. Tho the contest will have no heavier bearing on the standings than to allow the T-Birds to tie for third place, Wasson hopes to close out the campaign successfully.

Regardless of the disappointments in the season, it did provide the school with record-breaking performances which have already been recorded and will be moved further out of reach this weekend. Darrell Greene, the 6-0 senior forward, who set a school mark of 291 points as a junior in 19 games last winter, soared past that record in his 17th contest last Friday. The 28 points Greene scored gave him a total of 318, an average of 18.7.

The previous 18 game high was set by Bob Joyce, now of Colorado Unkversity, when he hit 273 points in the 1959-60 season. That left him with a 15.2 average, considerable below the mark now held by Greene. Giving an indication of the Thunderbirds' scoring power this year is the fact that Karl Tail also has bypassed both the old scoring marks, altho his chances of overhauling Greene with just one game left are slight. Tait now has 298 points in 17 games, a 17.5 average.

Tait long ago eclipsed the school rebounding record of 188 which Joyce also set in the 1959-60 season. The 6-4 center from this year's squad now has a whopping 264.

As a team, the Thunderbirds went over the 1,000 mark offensively for the first time in the school's history with the 63 points against Trinidad. Additionally, a victory at Junction will equal the 13-5 record of the 1960-61 team which ranks as the best mark in the school's history.

Greene Ups Margin In Scoring

Darrell Greene of Wasson all but nailed down the 1962-63 South Central League scoring championship last Friday by scoring 28 points in his team's 65-63 loss to Trinidad.

The 6-0 Wasson senior now has 262 points in 13 games for a 20.2 average. With only one round of games remaining his nearest challenger is teammate Karl Tait who has 234 points and an 18.0 average. Jim Toupal of Trinidad moved into third place with a 27 point showing against Wasson and Carl Bodam of Central took over fifth with a 34 points spurt against East. Bodam's was the top performance of the weekend and is the second high in the league this season. Greene scored 35 points in a game against Central early in the campaign.

Palmer has four players in the top 25 scorers. Walt Hylton ranks 16th with 135 points, Booby Joe Willimas is 18th, Dave Steward 22nd, and Alan Snyder 24th. Vic Shelton of Wasson is the only other Colorado Springs player included. He is 23rd.

Oklahoma Slips Past O-State Via Ditch Rally

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma beat off a last ditch rally Tuesday night by Oklahoma State and won 70-65 in a Big Eight Conference basketball game.

Gatewood then added a pair of free throws and little Eddie Evans got one to seal the verdict.

The game was the last of the season for Oklahoma and gave the Sooners an 8-6 conference record and a 12-13 over-all mark. Oklahoma is tied with Iowa State for third.

O-State, now 7-6 in conference play, can tie Oklahoma and I-State with a win Saturday over Kansas.

Oklahoma jumped off to a 9-1 lead and held a 37-29 halftime advantage. But the Sooners cooled off after hitting a high mark of 53-38 with 12:30 left and the Cowboys tied it 65-65 with 2:18 left.

Evans led Oklahoma with 23 points and Gatewood got 13. Gene Johnson and Larry Hawk each had 16 for Oklahoma State.

Faltering Terrors Meet Pueblo East Friday

The determined but faltering Terrors of Palmer conclude their schedule in the South Central League for the season Friday night on their home court.

Last weekend the Tribe suffered a pasting in the hands of Pueblo South, 61-48, and saw a bid to help crosstown Wasson into the state tournament go astray.

With a 4-9 loop record, the Terrors will attempt to shake off the East cagers and remain in undisputed fifth place. East is presently tied with Centennial via a 3-10 record for the next to last place in the SCL cellar. Grand Junction holds down last place with 2-11.

Schroeder hopes his lads will arise to the occasion Friday night for a repeated victory over the East squad. The Terrors slipped past the East team earlier in the season, 43-42, on the latter's home court.

Last weekend in the Steel City, the Terrors met their waterloo in the name of Pueblo South; a team that refused to budge from their bid for a place in the sun. The Colts were biting at the bit as the Terrors denied the South gun-run crew the opportunity to apply the fast break.

But the Colts picked up speed in the early stages of the second period to forge ahead 32-23 at intermission. The Terrors had an opportunity to bring the contest within striking distance in the third period, but blew it.

The Terrors enjoyed a brief rally in the final period as they scored 13 points, but could get only within a seven point margin of the galloping Colts.

Hockey Teams Await News As to Status in Olympics

By JOHN FARROW

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The big talking point today among ice hockey teams on the eve of the World championships was: Will we be competing in the Olympic Games next year?

The possibility of a walkout by hockey teams has arisen because of a controversy over money from radio and television rights at the Olympics, scheduled for Innsbruck, Austria.

He has come up with the revolutionary suggestion that the International Hockey Federation should organize its own world championship with the Olympics.

"We shall talk about it during our discussions here in Stockholm," Ahearne said. "The federation will decide what to do."

Ahearne said his federation received $77,000 from television and radio for the championships starting in Stockholm Thursday.

"Yet from the Olympic Games in Innsbruck we will get only about $3,000," Ahearne said.

The American, Canadian and West German teams were among the late arrivals for the championship.

Eight of the 21 teams entered—Sweden, Russia, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Finland, East Germany, West Germany and the United States — will compete for the World and European titles. The other 13 teams have been divided into Groups B and C.

The bottom two teams in Group A this year will meeet the top two teams in Group B to decide who joins the elite next year.

'We Could Still Win—If' Says Coach of U.S. Team

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — American Hockey Coach Harry Cleverly claimed today that the United States could win the World championship—if all the capable amateur players in the United States were available.

Cleverly, of Wellesley, Mass., brought his team to Stockholm Monday after a tour that took them to Russia, Czechoslovakia, Pland, Switzerland, West Germany, Norway and Sweden in warm-ups for the World competition starting Thursday.

"Our team is a very young one," Cleverly said. "If we could get together all the top players from universities, colleges and the amateur leagues then I'm certain we could still beat the Russians.

"But some of the players who should be on the team can't afford the trip. They have to think about earning money for their families. They just can't afford to take so much time away from home for a long time."

Cleverly said he would be very pleased to see his team get the fourth place in the championship—"Pleased? No, I would be delighted," he said.

Cleverly said the Russians, Poles and Czechs treated the Americans "like kings" on the pre-championship tour.

"They gave us the best you could have," he said. "I was amazed by it all."

Kegler Hudoba Wins Singles in ABC Tourney

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Fledgling politician Andy Hudoba has high hopes that his bowling ball will be an effective weapon for getting votes.

Hudoba, who is campaigning to become mayor of Struthers, Ohio, took first place Tuesday in the regular singles and all-events divisions of the American Bowling Congress tournament.

According to his doubles partner, Jack Baum, who took fourth place in all-events:

Hudoba took the all-events lead with a nine-game total of 1,864, including a 725 singles series. He also had 640 in the team event Monday night and 589 in the doubles Tuesday.

Ed Jucker Voted Top Cage Coach

By DICK JOYCE
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ed Jucker, who daringly changed Cincinnati's style of basketball and now hopes to lead the Bearcats to an unprecedented third straight NCAA championship, today was named college Coach of the Year by United Press International.

The dedicated, 45-year-old Jucker, whose team compiled a 23-1 record this season—his third as head coach at Cincinnati—received 118 votes from the 263 sports writers and radio-TV broadcasters who took part in the nationwide poll.

George Ireland of Loyola of Chicago finished second with 44 votes and Ohio State's Fred Taylor, who was named the top coach in 1961 and 1962, was third with 20 votes.

"This is the highlight of my career," Jucker said after learning of the honor. "It is every coach's dream, of course. I am surprised and happy. Give the credit to my assistants (Tay Baker and John Powless) and the ballplayers They made it possible through their sacrifices and supreme effort."

Jucker, promoted from assistant coach for the 1960-61 season, had the unenviable task of rebuilding the Bearcats after All-America Oscar Robertson had been graduated. Led by Robertson Cincinnati's run-and-shoot offense won the tough Missouri Valley Conference three straight years.

When Coach George Smith was moved up to the athletic director post at Cincinnati, Jucker took over and made the bold move of discarding the Bearcats' style of offense for the unpopular slow, deliberate game, with the emphasis on defense.

Under Jucker, Cincinnati ran up records of 27-3 and 29-2 and was ranked second each year behind Ohio State. But in the finals of the NCAA tournament each year the Bearcats upset Ohio State and now this year Cincinnati is favored to capture the title. Play in the NCAA tourney gets under way next week.

Thus in three seasons, Jucker's teams have won 79 games against only six defeats—to rank as one of the most remarkable records in college history. Cincinnati has been ranked No. 1 all season long by the UPI board of coaches this year.

Award Night, Star Game Set Tonight

The annual Young America League hockey Awards Night and high school league All-Star game are set for the Broadmoor World Arena tonight. The program will get underway at 7 p. m. with the YAL awards, the high school awards follow at 8 p. m. and then the Terrors of Palmer High will take on the stars of the three other prep teams in the All-Star affair at 8:15 p.m.

Included in the awards will be trophies for champions in the lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight divisions of the Young America League. High scorer, Most Valuable Player and the all-league teams will also be in for awards.

Palmer High will receive the championship trophy for the City High School League, and certificates will be presented to the top scorer, Most Valuable Player and all-league team members. The all-league team was announced after the final game of the season last Saturday night.

The Terrors were awarded the title after winning the first round of action and then finishing in a tie for the second round with Cheyenne Mountain High School's Indians. Instead of arranging a playoff between the co-champions of the second round, the league commission handed the title to Palmer on the basis of its over-all record — the criteria to be used next year under a recent rule change.

TALENTED YOUTH — Winner of the local Kiwanis Club "Stars of Tomorrow" talent search is Dick Basford, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Basford, 2318 Revere Lane. Dick, a student at Horace Mann Junior High School, played his accordian to victory over a field of 28 contestants. Presenting the trophy to Dick, who will now compete in the regional contest in Denver, is Larry Ochs, president of the Pikes Peak Kiwanis Club which sponsored this year's youth talent search. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Dick Basford Club Contest Finals Winner

Dick Basford played "Espania Cani" and "Tiger Rag" like a champion accordian player Sunday in the finals of the Kiwanis Club "Stars of Tomorrow" contest and the judges agreed.

The 13 - year - old boy who has been playing the accordian only 4 years, was named winner over three other finalist Sunday by Kiwanis Club judges.

Dick will compete in the regional finals this spring in Denver and if he wins the favor of the judges he, will go on to the national finals to be held in the east this summer.

Placing second in the finals which appeared on KRDO-TV was the Teenmates Plus Rosie Quintent from the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind.

Judges for the youth talent search were Bill Armstrong, president of the Colorado Springs Kiwanis Club; Clay Aslin, president of the Manitou Springs Kiwanis Club; and Mike Fatiuk, secretary of the Monument-Palmer Lake Kiwanis Club.

Legion Post Loot Amounts to $409.55

City Police said Wednesday that loot from the burglary of the American Legion Post 5 totaled $409.55.

Officials of the organization said $334.55 in cash was taken from the safe at the building and $75 was stolen from various vending machines.

The building was entered sometime Sunday night. A meat cleaver and hammer was used to open the steel and concrete safe. Entrance was gained by forcing a rear door.

Disorderly Conduct Brings Soldier 10-Day Jail Term

A 22-year old Ft. Carson soldier was fined $100 and given a 10-day jail sentence Tuesday by Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher.

The judge found the soldier, Ruban Betancur, guilty of disorderly conduct but dismissed charges of riotous conduct and breach of the peace, all charges brought against the man by Emma Penney of Pueblo.

Mrs. Penney, formerly of 330 S. El Paso St., testified that the soldier had approached her in an alley when she was returning home from work one night, and hit her until her head began to bleed after she had refused to let him go home with her. She said she did not know the man.

Betancur denied hitting the woman and altho he admitted he was a "little high" on the night in question, said he knew what he was doing.

The complaining witness Mrs. Bonnie Hamilton, 556 E. Costilla St., told Judge Asher she wanted to drop the charges but the judge decided to hear testimony first.

She testified that Johnson came to her home Feb. 22, kicked the door in and grabbed her by the collar and slapped her. She went to a neighbor's house, she said, and called the police.

"Did you know him previous?" Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac asked the woman, who replied that she used to date Johnson.

"Is he a friend of the family?" Isaac then asked.

"Not of my husband; just me," Mrs. Hamilton answered.

Police officer Robert Isham testified that he and several other policemen responded to a call from the woman and found Johnson in an intoxicated condition, bruised on the head and in a "very uncooperative" manner. "We had to use force on him", Isham said, adding "We weren't the most popular people in his opinion."

Johnson said he was "pretty tore up and didn't know what I was doing."

Case Continued On Indecent Behavior Charge

The charge had been brought against the soldier, Kenneth Young, by Deloris Carlson, 3303 Alabama St.

Council for the soldier, Bill Carew, asked for a continuance until March 18 to allow time for a Carson psychiatrist to examine the man. Judge Asher granted the request but set the soldier's bond at $150.

Stuart Berland, 24, Ft. Carson, was found guilty of traveling the wrong way in a one - way alley and fined $15. A signal light violation was dismissed against the man at the request of the city.

Bonds of $25 each were ordered forfeited by the judge by Elbert Hines, 36, charged with a signal light violation, and Dale Thompson, 47, 1319 N. Nevada Ave., charged with being drunk. Neither man appeared in court.

Richard Vermillion, 34, 1222 N. El Paso St., pleaded guilty to a drunk charge and was given a 10-day jail sentence. The judge told the man he would be released today from jail and the balance would be suspended on the condition that Vermillion not be back in court in one year's time.

Bobbie Joe Null, 20, 1501 Manitou Blvd., pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct, riotous conduct and injury to private property, but had his case continued until Monday for sentencing.

The charges were brought against Null by his wife, Marilyn, who has a restraining order against him, and her mother Mrs. Enid L. Perkins, with whom Mrs. Null lives now at 3164 W. Pikes Peak Ave.

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Christian of Greeley spent the weekend of Feb. 23 with the Bob Christian family of Fountain and the Bennie Dicksons of Hanover.

The Young Folks Pioneers for Christ met Wednesday night at the Hanover Community Church. A film was shown.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Dickson received word recently that the Freddie Dicksons in Oklahoma have a new son.

Mrs. Nellie Dickson left for Oklahoma Feb. 28 to help out. This is Freddie's and Josie's fourth son.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fankell and Grace Finch spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chisman, while en route to Texas and Florida.

Mrs. Bertie Hartley, mother of Bob Hartley, was also in a Colorado Springs hospital.

The Rev. Fred Isler died Feb. 24 at the Stratton Home. He once was minister at the Fountain Church and is remembered by many in El Paso County. He had climbed to the summit of Pikes Peak 59 times and had climbed many other peaks.

The last time Roy Chisman was in the hospital, he shared a room with Mr. Isler who came to America from Switzerland.

Robert, Judy, Marvin and Ramona Chisman of Pueblo drove out to Robert's folks Sunday afternoon.

Bill and Rosie Baker called on the Roy Chismans Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reble and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Reble had dinner Sunday with the W. D. Rebles.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reble had supper Friday with the Billy Rebles in Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Betty Frisch and three sons attended church at Hanover Sunday with Wanda Ball. Betty is the youngest daughter of Mrs. John Baker of Fountain.

Iranians Want to End Polygamy Tradition

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iranian women demanded Monday an end to polygamy and greater protection for wives under the divorce laws.

The demands were made at a news conference by representatives of 22 Iranian women's political and social groups. Under present law, Iranian men may divorce their wives without stating a reason.

PPL Teams Open District Action

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

It's that time again. A time when the student body pitches in an all - out publicity campaign proclaiming their basketball team is the best and will emerge victorious.

Meanwhile the coaches think back four months ago and realize that all the hard work is at stake: for in his business there isn't room for miscalculating a map of strategy. And he isn't allowed nay one loss if his teams intends to win this important battle.

Yes, it's District Tournament time again for the Pikes Peak League, scheduled for the Colorado Springs Auditorium, Thursday thru Saturday.

On the eve of the three - day single - elimination tournament, anxieties roam the respective dressing rooms of the eight coaches entered in the competition for a additional feather in their cap—a berth in the State Class AA Tournament slated next week in Denver. Two teams will represent the PPL in the state tourney; one seat automatically goes to the loop champion, Salida, and the other will go the winner of the District Tournament.

Should Salida win the tourney then the runner - up would get the green light for the keen competition in the Mile High City next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Which of the eight teams will prevail over the other seven candidates and cop the coveted tournament title remains a major question. Without a doubt, any of the eight cage teams could rally to the occasion to snatch the title. But tall and talented Salida must draw the role of the top favorite in lieu of their past 16-2 overall record.

Cheyenne Mountain draws a second to succeed should the PPL champions fail. Academy High, altho lacking height, has the shooting potential and speed to possibly pose a serious threat to the Spartans. But fate took an early hand in deciding the outcome of these two squads; both are engaged in roundball warfare right off the bat. Cheyenne and Academy tangle Thursday night in the third game of the first night's action.

Altho Fountain managed to whack Harrison during league play, Harrison on the other hand presented Don Schmidli's Spartans with their second successive defeat in loop play. But Salida won quite handily over Fountain.

The Fountain crew, small but effective, opens the tournament against Salida Thursday at 4:30; Harrison follows with a contest against Florence at 6; Academy-Cheyenne at 7:30; and Widefield clashes with Manitou Springs at 9.

Friday's slate includes the winner of the Salida - Fountain tilt against the victor of the Harrison-Florence encounter at 7. The winner of the Academy - Cheyenne contest pits their skills against the champion of the Widefield-Manitou game at 8:30.

The unsuccessful teams on Friday will clash for the third place honors at 7 p.m., Saturday. The victors of Friday's games will march into the Colorado Springs Auditorium for the championship game at 8:30.

Granted; Salida, Cheyenne and Academy may be top contenders, but it's a far cry from that familiar saying — "it's all over but the shouting." Harrison, Widefield, Florence, and Fountain all possess the ability to come up with a winning combination. But how they will stand under the constant pressure will seperate the lucky ball clubs from the consistently good roundball squads.

Altho Salida dropped two straight games earlier in the season to Harrison and Cheyenne, the Spartans have bounched back as their big men have proven their ability. The Spartans shadow the other seven clubs in the height department. The Lantz brothers, David and John, tower over 6-5 with the latter sophomore lad reaching 6-7. In addition to height, Dave Lantz is the third top scorer in the PPL with 15.6 points scored per game.

The Cheyenne team, altho performing several games below their potential, has also improved vastly and has developed a hunger to win; something they seemed to lack earlier in the season which explains their 4-4 league record. Bill Raines, the ace gunner in the loop with 19.5 mean, anchors the Indians in scoring and along with powerful Sid Reidlehuber will give the Salida crew a run for controlling the backboards.

Flashy John Julius puts teeth into the Academy offensive and defensive attack. Julius ranks third in the league scoring with an 18.3 average. Teammates Hank Arnold and Chris Munch put muscle in the Kadets' offensive shuffle; due to the team's lack of height Coach John Delventhal elects to run the revolving post. And the "Big Blue" mentor succeeded with that offense that netted a tie for second place via a 5-3 record.

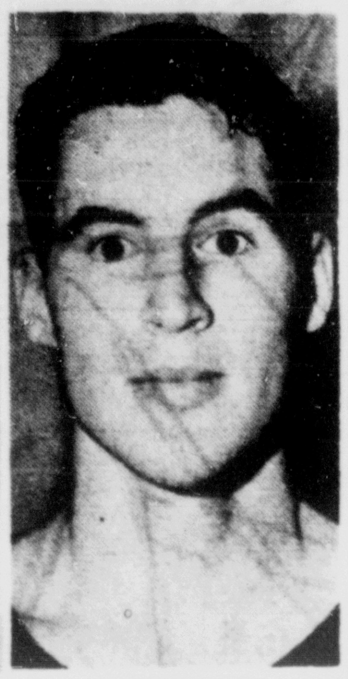
CITY



MIKE DUNN

PPL

John O'Connell, the 6-7 workhorse of the St. Mary's Pirates, has been named City Star of the Week for the third time this season by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department for his performance as the Bucs wrapped up the Denver Parochial League crown last Friday.

O'Connell had one of the finest games of his career to lead the Pirates past longtime - nemesis, Regis. John accounted for over half of the teams points and rebounds, hitting a season high of 29 points and pulling down 17 caroms. In addition, he was a mainstay in the Pirate defense which effectively thwarted the Raiders' "big men."

In being selected, O'Connell edged Wasson's Darrell Greene who contributed 28 points to the Thunderbirds' losing effort against Trinidad last Friday. Others mentioned were Karl Tait of Wasson, Richie Jewett of Mary's, and Walt Hylton of Palmer.

Mike Dunn, Fountain's top scorer and court general, was selected the Pikes Peak League Player of the Week by the Gazette Telegraph Sports department for his outstanding effort against Manitou Springs last Friday.

The 5-11 senior collected 26 points to lead the Trojans over Manitou, 52-51, on the latter's home court. Dunn pumped in nine field goals and cashed in eight free throws.

Raines Grabs Pikes Peak Point Title

Bill Raines, Cheyenne Mountain's scoring ace, finished out his career in the Pikes Peak League last Friday with a brilliant performance against Harrison. The 6-4 Cheyenne senior pumped in 19 points to spearhead the Indians over top challenger Harrison, 56-38, and knocked the latter team from a chunk of the PPL crown.

Raines completed the loop season with a 19.5 average in eight games for a total of 156 points; making 134 points from the field and 22 at the charity lanes.

Flashy John Julius, a member of last year's All - Conference team, finished in undisputed second position in the PPL individual scoring race via an 18.3 mean.

Tall and talented David Lantz pushed up to the third slot knocking out Don Cockroft of Fountain from that position. Salida's Lantz copped the third place with a 15.6 mean. Cockroft moved down to fourth place with a 14.8 average.

It was the 6-5 Spartan forward that enabled the southern team to wrap up its third successive PPL title as Lantz bombarded the Widefield squad with 10 field goals and one free throw for a total of 21 points. Salida whacked Widefield, 63-42, to claim the league title.

Mike Dunn upped his scoring average when he pumped home 21 points last week to guide Fountain over Manitou Springs, 52-51, and gained the fifth place position in scoring. Dunn has a 14.3 mean.

Teammates from Manitou Springs, Jim Rigdon and Tom Johnston, tied for sixth place with a 13.9 average for 111 points.

Rusty Wasinger of Widefield fell below his potential to take seventh place with 13.8. Wasinger led the race earlier in the season and set a school record in scoring.

Famed Harlem Globetrotters Slated For City Auditorium Show Tonight

The fabulous Harlem Globetrotters, who have performed before kings, queens, dictators and millions of fans thruout the world, swing into the Colorado Springs City Auditorium tonight for their annual one-night stand.

Providing the "straight-man" opposition for the Trotters on their tour thru the western part o fthe nation this winter is the San Francisco All-Nations tea, a collection of players of many nationalities. This is essentially the same team, then known as the San Francisco Chinese, who accompanied the Globetrotters as playing partners on a tour of Europe in the summer o f1959, including a 10-day visit to Moscow in Soviet Russia.

The game is scheduled for 8 p.m. with several entertainment acts slated just before the contest and at halftime.

The Globetrotters, as usual, are divided into two units this winter with the other team touring the eastern half of the country.

Leading the group here are assistant coach and dribbling wizard Bobby Milton who has seen action with the squad for the last 13 years, and chief comic Robert (Showboat) Hall, a 6-2 post from Detroit, Mich. It was Milton who replaced the Marcus Haynes, and Hall took Goose Tatum's spot after the breakup of the original quintet.

Another veteran of 10 years with the Trotters is Norman Lee, a 6-5 forward from Dayton, Ohio, while Ernie Wagner is in his ninth season. And tabbed as one of the coming stars of the organization is Hallie Bryant, 6-3 forward from the Big Ten and NCAA championship team of 1956-57 at Indiana U.

As a word of caution, however, anyone going to the game expecting to see a sedate scoring battle between these teams may go away disappointed. There will be a battle, alright, but it will be more between wits than baskets.

The Trotters can call on great talent at putting the ball thru the hoop when needed, as testified by their record as the Globetrotters have scored 7,412 victories against only 310 defeats in the past 35 years. And to really prove their ability, the men from Harlem annually take on the College All-Stars in a tour across the country – last year registering 14 wins against a single setback.

But what the fans really pack the stands for is what the Trotters do best – their zany program of fun and frolic. They'll do such things as play baseball or football right in the middle of the regulation cage affair . . . and get away with it as they have for more than three decades.

Another of the Globetrotters' stock-in-trade stunts that seemingly will never die is the "Magic Circle" pre-game warmup. It's a precise passing and ultra-fancy comic ball handling drill to the tune of "Sweet Georgia Brown" that sets the game mood every time. Most fans feel this alone is worth the trip to the auditorium.

As if the game itself wasn't enough, the Globetrotters' owner Abe Saperstein and promoter Abe Marylander have arranged for no less than seven acts of variety entertainment before the contest and at halftime. These include a batonist, finger balancer, Mexican juggler, punching bag duo, balancing act, acrobatic juggler and the always popular Robert Ashley and Dennis Hickerson who will stage a table tennis match.

In case there are any tickets left by tonight, they will be offered at the box office of the City Auditorium just before the game.

Five Cities Make Bid For Olympics

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—As far as Los Angeles is concerned, an honest mistake was made by the board of directors of the U.S. Olympic Committee when Detroit was named as the U.S. city to make a bid for the 1968 Olympics.

"Now, however, we are going to get a chance to make our bid again," said Joe Quinn, executive assistant to Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorky, today, "and we are confident our presentation will be acted on favorably."

All five interested U.S. cities—Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Philadelphia—will appear before the committee here on March 18 to present their cases again.

"We don't consider this an injustice to Detroit," said Quinn. "As a matter of fact, last October when we appeared before the site selection committee of the U.S. Olympic Committee in Chicago, we had been led to believe that no bid would be accepted. We were astonished, to say the least, that Detroit got the bid.

"Actually, as we discovered the next day, only four members of the committee were there, and when we polled them, they were in favor of Los Angeles by 3-1. The others were so-called monitors, representing the other committee members. We also discovered that the rules specify that they were not permitted to vote. Yet they did vote."

Quinn said he thought the committee was so wound up in the AAU-NCAA feud that it could not devote the proper deliberation to which city should become the American standard-bearer.

He also said he is certain Los Angeles will be the only United States city to be given serious consideration.

"And," he said, "we would have a good chance. "The other cities bidding are Cairo, Buenos Aires, Manila, Lyons, Mexico City and Laussanne. We have the facilities, and you know, the only time the Olympics ever made any money was when we held them in 1932.

Six NCAA Tournament Berths Left

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are six pieces left in college basketball's post-season pie—with 12 teams still looking for a cut.

Six conference berths remain open in the NCAA tournament with two clubs in each league in the running for the coast-to-coast extravaganza. Already set for the national tourney are nine conference entries and the 10 at-large selections.

In Tuesday night's developments Yale grabbed a share of the Ivy League lead with an 80-76 overtime victory at Harvard, Santa Clara went ahead in the West Coast Athletic Conference by winning at home against University of Pacific 79-62, and East Tennessee was knocked out of the Ohio Valley scramble, losing at Middle Tennessee 59-57.

IVY LEAGUE—Yale finished at 11-3, matching Princeton, and the two teams will play off at Fordham's gym in New York Friday night for the NCAA spot.

WCAC—Santa Clara now is 9-2 and San Francisco 8-2, with these two having a showdown Saturday night at San Francisco. Prior to taking on Santa Clara, the dons have a home game tonight with San Jose State.

OHIO VALLEY—With East Tennessee out of it, Morehead and Tennessee Tech are left alone at the top with 8-4 records. The co-champions will have a playoff, the conference's fourth in the past eight years.

BIG TEN—Ohio State in the lead at 11-2 with Illinois next at 10-3. The Buckeyes finish at Indiana and the Illini entertain Iowa, both games Saturday afternoon.

BIG EIGHT—Kansas State and Colorado will settle this one Saturday night on K-State's floor. The Wildcats now are 11-2 and the Buffaloes are 10-3, but if Colorado wins the showdown it will get the NCAA trip since it beat K-State in their other regular season game.

BIG SIX—Stanford has clinched a tie at 7-3 but UCLA, 5-5, has a mathematical chance. They'll meet Friday night at UCLA, then the UCLANS are at home against California Saturday while Stanford closes at Southern California.

Providence, 10th ranked nationally and headed for the National Invitation Tournament, romped to its 11th straight victory, winning at Fairfield 85-65.

In other Tuesday night games—Rice 73, Texas A&M 70; Arkansas 104, Texas Christian 94; Southern Methodist 88, Texas Tech 87; Oklahoma 70, Oklahoma State 65; Syracuse 100, Colgate 78; Pepperdine 73, Loyola of Los Angeles 55.

Golden Gloves Boxing Show Ends Annual Run Tonight

Boxers from 13 states will battle in 32 semifinal bouts with the winners returning to the ring for the finals in eight weight classes.

The semifinalists qualified in preliminaries at the Stadium last week and represent the best in an original field of nearly 250 from 31 cities.

The colorful tournament will be dropped by its sponsor, Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which announced the decision Feb. 25. Cited were financial reasons and a new AAU rule which becomes effective Jan. 1 requiring all amateur boxers to wear protective headgear.

Throughout the years, the Tournament of Champions has produced such graduates as Barney Ross, Tony Zale, Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles, Harold Dade and Sonny Liston. One of the latest products is heavyweight contender Cassius Clay, who won the 175-pound title in 1959 and the heavyweight crown the next year.

Welterweight Rory O'Shea of Chicago is the only returning champion in tonight's field. The crowd favorite, however, probably will be heavyweight Ron Marsh, a 180-pound ex-Marine. He is a guard on Kansas' football team and a diving star on the swim squad.

Detroit, with four survivors, leads Fort Worth 12 points to 11 in the team title competition. One point is awarded for each bout won.

Tied at nine points are Chicago; Columbus, Ohio; Hollywood, and Nashville. Cincinnati and Kansas City have eight each.

Seven Colts in Florida Derby

Such 3-year-old prospects as Calumet Farm's Paved, Maine Chance Farm's Get Around, Darby Dan Farm's Ornamento, Mrs. C. D. Morgan's Sky Wonder, Mrs. A. J. Giordano's Hot Dust, Russell Firestone's Ni Fizzle and William Jeancola's Sol Invictus match their speed in the midweek feature.

Lamar Junior College Defends National Title

LAMAR, Colo. (UPI)—The National Junior College championships will be held here Friday and Saturday, with Lamar Junior College hosting its second straight national meet.

The Lamar team won the Empire Conference wrestling championship last week, and will defend its national title won last year.

Eighteen schools will enter.

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) —Gary Player of South Africa, who finished sixth in the recent New Orleans Open, retained the over-all lead in the Professional Golfers Association money-winning standings for 1963 with a total of $20,402.50. Bob Rosburg moved into eighth place by finishing second in the New Orleans tourney.

Falcon Five Ends Season Against Marquette, Friday

It's been a long winter for the Air Force Academy basketball team, but a win over NIT-bound Marquette this Friday at the Cadet Gym could salve a lot of wounds as the Falcons close the 1962 - 63 season.

Starting time is set for 8 p.m., and there is no prelim game.

The Cadets absorbed their 12th loss of the season, Saturday, at the hands of nationally - ranked Texas Western, 62-45, at El Paso. The loss demolished any hopes the Cadets had of preserving Coach Bob Spear's record of never having a losing season in the history of AFA basketball.

TWC's NCAA Tournament - bound Miners coupled too much rebounding strength along with a blistering first half shooting performance to run up an early lead over the game Cadets, and coasted to the win.

Led by All - America Jim (Bad News) Barnes, the Miners' 6-8, 250-pound center, TWC hit six of their first seven field goal attempts to open the game.

Parke Hinman led the Falcons with 10 points — all from the field, but had considerable help from Rich Porter, John Judd and Roger Head. Head turned in one of his better defensive performances by holding Barnes to only two second half points and 13 overall.

Marquette, led by Ron Glaser, Bob Hornak and Richard Nixon, will be out for their fourth win in five tries against the Cadets. The Academy's win came in an overtime thriller at the AFA to close the 1960 - 61 season.

Guard Johnny Judd maintained his team scoring lead during the past week, as the 5-8 flash riddled Regis for 19 points — including the game - winning basket, and picked up nine against Texas Western.

Judd, however, surrendered his free throw shooting lead to Hinman who went three-for-three during the past two games.

Playing their last games of the season, the freshmen bowed to an aroused Prep School squad Friday, 60-51, and then surprised a strong Pueblo J.C. squad by defeating them handily, 73-62, at Pueblo — something the Falcons have not been able to do since 1955.

The frosh, coached by Capt. Walter Lenz, closed out their season with a 9-5 record, and the Pueblo win avenged a loss to the Indians in the season opener last December.

Nicklaus Withdraws On Doctor's Advice

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A physician's advice has prompted Jack Nicklaus, one of golfdom's current Big Three, to withdraw from the $25,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament starting Thursday.

Nicklaus notified officials Tuesday that his physician had called him back to Columbus, Ohio, for further treatment of the bursitis that has been hampering his play since the start of the winter tour.

LADIES PGA IS SET

LAS VEGAS (AP) — The Ladies' Professional Golf Association championship will be held at the Stardust Golf Club here on Oct. 10-13.

200 Boxers Slated To Compete in AAU

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—More than 200 boxers, three of them national champions last year, will compete in the National Amateur Athletic Union Tournament that begins Thursday.

The fighters will come from throughout the continental United States and also from Puerto Rico, Canada and South Africa.

Greyhounds Nip Miners In District Playoff, 57-53

GOLDEN (AP) — Colorado Mines blew a seven point lead midway through the second half Tuesday night, and Eastern New Mexico beat the Orediggers 57-53 in the NAIA Dist. 7 playoffs.

The victory sends the Greyhounds, 14-7 for the season, on their fifth trip to the NAIA Tournament March 11-16 in Kansas City, Mo. Mines ended its finest season with a 16-9 record.

The Orediggers ran up a 41-34 lead with 10 minutes 55 seconds remaining in the game, and then went cold. The Miners made only two points in the next 8:23—on a drive shot by Jay Edwards.

But the Greyhounds got hot and scored 23 points in the same time. Mines revived with a six-point outburst in the closing 1:37, but it proved in vain.

Eastern shot to an early lead and, midway in the first half, increased it to six points. But the Greyhounds fell behind after the Orediggers hit a series of jump shots.

Greyhound forward Tony Farrell led all scorers with 20 points. Steve Harvey and Edwards led the Miners with 13.

CU's Durley Set Seven-Foot Goal

BOULDER (AP) — Seven feet is the mark that Leander Durley, Colorado's sophomore high jumper, has for a target this spring.

His coach, Frank Potts, is sure he will make it. Durley set a Big Eight Conference record of 6 feet 10½ inches at Kansas City Saturday.

32 Teams Enter Cage Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ten more teams qualified Tuesday night for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' 32-team basketball tournament which starts here next Monday.

Winners of district playoffs Tuesday night were Arkansas Tech, Rockhurst of Kansas City, Fort Hays (Kan) State, Eastern New Mexico, Central State of Ohio, Northern Michigan, Transylvania of Kentucky, Stetson of Florida, Eastern Montana and California Western.

Previous qualifiers were Miles of Alabama, Western Carolina (N. C), Pacific Lutheran, Lewis and Clark, Howard Payne, Oklahoma Baptist, Grambling and Winston-Salem (N. C) Teachers.

Disappointed T-Birds Go to Slope for Closer

Wasson High School is an area of resigned disappointment this week. Students, faculty, and basketball team are all still in a state of semi - shock over the Thunderbirds untimely elimination from the South Central League race and state tournament last Friday night.

The 65-63 loss to Trinidad was the culmination of a season of almost unbelievable hard luck. Few SCL teams in history had been more heavily favored to win the championship than the Thunderbirds and certainly none were deprived by a more astounding series of defeats.

The loss to Trinidad last Friday was the fourth in league play this season and it eliminated Dick Westbay's club from any further hopes of a berth in the state tourney. The four defeats were by a total of only nine points. This is how they went:

1. A 77-74 loss to Pueblo Central in an overtime game after the Thunderbirds had enjoyed a 12 point margin early in the fourth quarter.

2. A 64-62 loss at Trinidad where the actual margin was provided when a Wasson player shot a ball in the Trinidad basket.

3. A 76-74 loss to Pueblo South in a game the T-Birds had led by as much as eight points in the last quarter. South won on a 40 foot shot by guard Ron Schwab after the ball was thrown in from out of bounds with only one second left.

4. Last Friday's 65-63 loss to Trinidad in which Wasson led by nine points in the fourth quarter and finally went down as Trinidad's Jim Toupal sank an off-balance heave from the corner with one second left on the clock.

Thus the sad story unfolded as the team that many considered the finest high school group to represent Colorado Springs in some years finds itself without a chance to demonstrate its abilities at the state tournament in Denver next week.

This week Westbay is hoping to regroup his forces for a final effort at Grand Junction Friday night. The game was origionally scheduled for Saturday but was moved back Tuesday afternoon. Tho the contest will have no heavier bearing on the standings than to allow the T-Birds to tie for third place, Wasson hopes to close out the campaign successfully.

Regardless of the disappointments in the season, it did provide the school with record-breaking performances which have already been recorded and will be moved further out of reach this weekend. Darrell Greene, the 6-0 senior forward, who set a school mark of 291 points as a junior in 19 games last winter, soared past that record in his 17th contest last Friday. The 28 points Greene scored gave him a total of 318, an average of 18.7.

The previous 18 game high was set by Bob Joyce, now of Colorado Unkversity, when he hit 273 points in the 1959-60 season. That left him with a 15.2 average, considerable below the mark now held by Greene. Giving an indication of the Thunderbirds' scoring power this year is the fact that Karl Tail also has bypassed both the old scoring marks, altho his chances of overhauling Greene with just one game left are slight. Tait now has 298 points in 17 games, a 17.5 average.

Tait long ago eclipsed the school rebounding record of 188 which Joyce also set in the 1959-60 season. The 6-4 center from this year's squad now has a whopping 264.

As a team, the Thunderbirds went over the 1,000 mark offensively for the first time in the school's history with the 63 points against Trinidad. Additionally, a victory at Junction will equal the 13-5 record of the 1960-61 team which ranks as the best mark in the school's history.

Greene Ups Margin In Scoring

Darrell Greene of Wasson all but nailed down the 1962-63 South Central League scoring championship last Friday by scoring 28 points in his team's 65-63 loss to Trinidad.

The 6-0 Wasson senior now has 262 points in 13 games for a 20.2 average. With only one round of games remaining his nearest challenger is teammate Karl Tait who has 234 points and an 18.0 average. Jim Toupal of Trinidad moved into third place with a 27 point showing against Wasson and Carl Bodam of Central took over fifth with a 34 points spurt against East. Bodam's was the top performance of the weekend and is the second high in the league this season. Greene scored 35 points in a game against Central early in the campaign.

Palmer has four players in the top 25 scorers. Walt Hylton ranks 16th with 135 points, Booby Joe Willimas is 18th, Dave Steward 22nd, and Alan Snyder 24th. Vic Shelton of Wasson is the only other Colorado Springs player included. He is 23rd.

Oklahoma Slips Past O-State Via Ditch Rally

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma beat off a last ditch rally Tuesday night by Oklahoma State and won 70-65 in a Big Eight Conference basketball game.

Gatewood then added a pair of free throws and little Eddie Evans got one to seal the verdict.

The game was the last of the season for Oklahoma and gave the Sooners an 8-6 conference record and a 12-13 over-all mark. Oklahoma is tied with Iowa State for third.

O-State, now 7-6 in conference play, can tie Oklahoma and I-State with a win Saturday over Kansas.

Oklahoma jumped off to a 9-1 lead and held a 37-29 halftime advantage. But the Sooners cooled off after hitting a high mark of 53-38 with 12:30 left and the Cowboys tied it 65-65 with 2:18 left.

Evans led Oklahoma with 23 points and Gatewood got 13. Gene Johnson and Larry Hawk each had 16 for Oklahoma State.

Faltering Terrors Meet Pueblo East Friday

The determined but faltering Terrors of Palmer conclude their schedule in the South Central League for the season Friday night on their home court.

Last weekend the Tribe suffered a pasting in the hands of Pueblo South, 61-48, and saw a bid to help crosstown Wasson into the state tournament go astray.

With a 4-9 loop record, the Terrors will attempt to shake off the East cagers and remain in undisputed fifth place. East is presently tied with Centennial via a 3-10 record for the next to last place in the SCL cellar. Grand Junction holds down last place with 2-11.

Schroeder hopes his lads will arise to the occasion Friday night for a repeated victory over the East squad. The Terrors slipped past the East team earlier in the season, 43-42, on the latter's home court.

Last weekend in the Steel City, the Terrors met their waterloo in the name of Pueblo South; a team that refused to budge from their bid for a place in the sun. The Colts were biting at the bit as the Terrors denied the South gun-run crew the opportunity to apply the fast break.

But the Colts picked up speed in the early stages of the second period to forge ahead 32-23 at intermission. The Terrors had an opportunity to bring the contest within striking distance in the third period, but blew it.

The Terrors enjoyed a brief rally in the final period as they scored 13 points, but could get only within a seven point margin of the galloping Colts.

Hockey Teams Await News As to Status in Olympics

By JOHN FARROW

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The big talking point today among ice hockey teams on the eve of the World championships was: Will we be competing in the Olympic Games next year?

The International Hockey Federation will decide the matter during its meetings here.

The possibility of a walkout by hockey teams has arisen because of a controversy over money from radio and television rights at the Olympics, scheduled for Innsbruck, Austria.

He has come up with the revolutionary suggestion that the International Hockey Federation should organize its own world championship with the Olympics.

"We shall talk about it during our discussions here in Stockholm," Ahearne said. "The federation will decide what to do."

Ahearne said his federation received $77,000 from television and radio for the championships starting in Stockholm Thursday.

"Yet from the Olympic Games in Innsbruck we will get only about $3,000," Ahearne said.

The American, Canadian and West German teams were among the late arrivals for the championship.

Eight of the 21 teams entered—Sweden, Russia, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Finland, East Germany, West Germany and the United States — will compete for the World and European titles. The other 13 teams have been divided into Groups B and C.

The bottom two teams in Group A this year will meeet the top two teams in Group B to decide who joins the elite next year.

'We Could Still Win—If' Says Coach of U.S. Team

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — American Hockey Coach Harry Cleverly claimed today that the United States could win the World championship—if all the capable amateur players in the United States were available.

Cleverly, of Wellesley, Mass., brought his team to Stockholm Monday after a tour that took them to Russia, Czechoslovakia, Pland, Switzerland, West Germany, Norway and Sweden in warm-ups for the World competition starting Thursday.

The Americans won only five matches out of 19. Three were tied.

"Our team is a very young one," Cleverly said. "If we could get together all the top players from universities, colleges and the amateur leagues then I'm certain we could still beat the Russians.

"But some of the players who should be on the team can't afford the trip. They have to think about earning money for their families. They just can't afford to take so much time away from home for a long time."

The Americans left New York on Jan. 29.

Cleverly said he would be very pleased to see his team get the fourth place in the championship—"Pleased? No, I would be delighted," he said.

Cleverly said the Russians, Poles and Czechs treated the Americans "like kings" on the pre-championship tour.

"They gave us the best you could have," he said. "I was amazed by it all."

The team, strengthened by new arrivals Jack Kirrane and Dickie Michaud, was due for a final workout today. The Americans play their first round game against Finland on Friday.

Kegler Hudoba Wins Singles in ABC Tourney

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Fledgling politician Andy Hudoba has high hopes that his bowling ball will be an effective weapon for getting votes.

Hudoba, who is campaigning to become mayor of Struthers, Ohio, took first place Tuesday in the regular singles and all-events divisions of the American Bowling Congress tournament.

According to his doubles partner, Jack Baum, who took fourth place in all-events:

"This ought to be worth a thousand votes."

Hudoba took the all-events lead with a nine-game total of 1,954, including a 725 singles series. He also had 640 in the team event Monday night and 589 in the doubles Tuesday.

Baum, who has been Hudoba's ABC doubles partner for nine straight years, shot 1,931 for his all-events total.

Ed Jucker Voted Top Cage Coach

By DICK JOYCE
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ed Jucker, who daringly changed Cincinnati's style of basketball and now hopes to lead the Bearcats to an unprecedented third straight NCAA championship, today was named college Coach of the Year by United Press International.

The dedicated, 45-year-old Jucker, whose team compiled a 23-1 record this season—his third as head coach at Cincinnati—received 118 votes from the 263 sports writers and radio-TV broadcasters who took part in the nationwide poll.

George Ireland of Loyola of Chicago finished second with 44 votes and Ohio State's Fred Taylor, who was named the top coach in 1961 and 1962, was third with 20 votes.

"This is the highlight of my career," Jucker said after learning of the honor. "It is every coach's dream, of course. I am surprised and happy. Give the credit to my assistants (Tay Baker and John Powless) and the ballplayers. They made it possible through their sacrifices and supreme effort."

Jucker, promoted from assistant coach for the 1960-61 season, had the unenviable task of rebuilding the Bearcats after All-America Oscar Robertson had been graduated. Led by Robertson Cincinnati's run-and-shoot offense won the tough Missouri Valley Conference three straight years.

When Coach George Smith was moved up to the athletic director post at Cincinnati, Jucker took over and made the bold move of discarding the Bearcats' style of offense for the unpopular slow, deliberate game, with the emphasis on defense.

Under Jucker, Cincinnati ran up records of 27-3 and 29-2 and was ranked second each year behind Ohio State. But in the finals of the NCAA tournament each year the Bearcats upset Ohio State and now this year Cincinnati is favored to capture the title. Play in the NCAA tourney gets under way next week.

Thus in three seasons, Jucker's teams have won 79 games against only six defeats—to rank as one of the most remarkable records in college history. Cincinnati has been ranked No. 1 all season long by the UPI board of coaches this year.

Award Night, Star Game Set Tonight

The annual Young America League hockey Awards Night and high school league All-Star game are set for the Broadmoor World Arena tonight. The program will get underway at 7 p. m. with the YAL awards, the high school awards follow at 8 p. m. and then the Terrors of Palmer High will take on the stars of the three other prep teams in the All-Star affair at 8:15 p.m.

Included in the awards will be trophies for champions in the lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight divisions of the Young America League. High scorer, Most Valuable Player and the all - league teams will also be in for awards.

Palmer High will receive the championship trophy for the City High School League, and certificates will be presented to the top scorer, Most Valuable Player and all - league team members. The all - league team was announced after the final game of the season last Saturday night.

The Terrors were awarded the title after winning the first round of action and then finishing in a tie for the second round with Cheyenne Mountain High School's Indians. Instead of arranging a playoff between the co-champions of the second round, the league commission handed the title to Palmer on the basis of its overall record — the criteria to be used next year under a recent rule change.

Tonight's game will have the Terrors playing against the top players from Cheyenne, Wasson and Fountain Valley.

AH, WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN!
IT WAS ALL SO PERFECT! THE GREAT EXPLOSION; THEN MY "DISASTER" WIRE TO THE GOVERNOR; T.V. AND RADIO SPEECHES; PRESS RELEASES; FIFTEEN MILLION IN MY GRASP! GONE! ALL GONE NOW!
WHILE AT THE HACIENDA!
HAD HIS "DISASTER" WIRE FOR THE GOVERNOR ALL WRITTEN; ALSO HIS T.V. SPEECHES, PRESS RELEASES. GAD, WAS HE READY!
DID HE SEE YOU TAKE THESE OFF HIS DESK?
NO! HE WAS OUTSIDE TRYING TO FIGURE WHY NO DISASTER!

Disorderly Conduct Brings Soldier 10-Day Jail Term

A 22-year old Ft. Carson soldier was fined $100 and given a 10-day jail sentence Tuesday by Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher.

The judge found the soldier, Ruban Betancur, guilty of disorderly conduct but dismissed charges of riotous conduct and breach of the peace, all charges brought against the man by Emma Penney of Pueblo.

Mrs. Penney, formerly of 330 S. El Paso St., testified that the soldier had approached her in an alley when she was returning home from work one night, and hit her until her head began to bleed after she had refused to let him go home with her. She said she did not know the man.

She added that Betancur had taken her to a first aid station at the Colorado Springs Fire Department after her head began to bleed.

Betancur denied hitting the woman and altho he admitted he was a "little high" on the night in question, said he knew what he was doing.

The judge dismissed riotous conduct and breach of peace charges against Johnny Johnson, 21, 210 S. El Paso St., but found the man guilty of drunkness and resisting the police.

Johnson was fined $25 on each charge.

The complaining witness Mrs. Bonnie Hamilton, 556 E. Costilla St., told Judge Asher she wanted to drop the charges but the judge decided to hear testimony first.

She testified that Johnson came to her home Feb. 22, kicked the door in and grabbed her by the collar and slapped her. She went to a neighbor's house, she said, and called the police.

"Did you know him previous?" Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac asked the woman, who replied that she used to date Johnson.

"Is he a friend of the family?" Isaac then asked.

"Not of my husband; just me," Mrs. Hamilton answered.

Police officer Robert Isham testified that he and several other policemen responded to a call from the woman and found Johnson in an intoxicated condition, bruised on the head and in a "very uncooperative" manner. "We had to use force on him", Isham said, adding "We weren't the most popular people in his opinion."

Case Continued On Indecent Behavior Charge

The charge had been brought against the soldier, Kenneth Young, by Deloris Carlson, 3303 Alabama St.

Council for the soldier, Bill Carew, asked for a continuance until March 18 to allow time for a Carson psychiatrist to examine the man. Judge Asher granted the request but set the soldier's bond at $150.

Stuart Berland, 24, Ft. Carson, was found guilty of traveling the wrong way in a one - way alley and fined $15. A signal light violation was dismissed against the man at the request of the city.

Bonds of $25 each were ordered forfeited by the judge by Elbert Hines, 36, charged with a signal light violation, and Dale Thompson, 47, 1319 N. Nevada Ave., charged with being drunk. Neither man appeared in court.

Richard Vermillion, 34, 1222 N. El Paso St., pleaded guilty to a drunk charge and was given a 10-day jail sentence. The judge told the man he would be released today from jail and the balance would be suspended on the condition that Vermillion not be back in court in one year's time.

Bobbie Joe Null, 20, 1501 Manitou Blvd., pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct, riotous conduct and injury to private property, but had his case continued until Monday for sentencing.

The charges were brought against Null by his wife, Marilyn, who has a restraining order against him, and her mother Mrs. Enid L. Perkins, with whom Mrs. Null lives now at 3164 W. Pikes Peak Ave.

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Christian of Greeley spent the weekend of Feb. 23 with the Bob Christian family of Fountain and the Bennie Dicksons of Hanover.

The Young Folks Pioneers for Christ met Wednesday night at the Hanover Community Church. A film was shown.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Dickson received word recently that the Freddie Dicksons in Oklahoma have a new son.

Mrs. Nellie Dickson left for Oklahoma Feb. 28 to help out. This is Freddie's and Josie's fourth son.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fankell and Grace Finch spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chisman, while en route to Texas and Florida.

Ruth Chisman took Grace Finch to the doctor Sunday. She was suffering from a case of shingles on her leg and stayed in town for a few days.

Mrs. Bertie Hartley, mother of Bob Hartley, was also in a Colorado Springs hospital.

The Rev. Fred Isler died Feb. 24 at the Stratton Home. He once was minister at the Fountain Church and is remembered by many in El Paso County. He had climbed to the summit of Pikes Peak 59 times and had climbed many other peaks.

The last time Roy Chisman was in the hospital, he shared a room with Mr. Isler who came to America from Switzerland.

Robert, Judy, Marvin and Ramona Chisman of Pueblo drove out to Robert's folks Sunday afternoon.

Bill and Rosie Baker called on the Roy Chismans Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reble and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Reble had dinner Sunday with the W. D. Rebles.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reble had supper Friday with the Billy Rebles in Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Betty Frisch and three sons attended church at Hanover Sunday with Wanda Ball. Betty is the youngest daughter of Mrs. John Baker of Fountain.

Iranians Want to End Polygamy Tradition

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iranian women demanded Monday an end to polygamy and greater protection for wives under the divorce laws.

The demands were made at a news conference by representatives of 22 Iranian women's political and social groups. Under present law, Iranian men may divorce their wives without stating a reason.

AIR FORCE COMMENDATION—Capt. George M. Peterson receives the Air Force Commendation Medal from Brig. Gen. W. B. Latta, deputy chief of staff for communications and electronics, North American Air Defense Command. Capt. Peterson, now C&E officer at the NORAD combat operations center, earned the decoration while assigned to the directorate of logistics and, later, the office of the deputy for materiel at headquarters, 28th air division, Hamilton AFB, Calif. in 1961-62. He is a native of DuBois, Pa. and has more than 20 years in military service.

Soviets Try to Pretend Stalin Was Never There

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, in grim, uneasy fashion, today marked the end of its first decade since dictator Josef Stalin died in the Kremlin.

In former days, the occasion would have brought forth ceremonies and tributes. But today, with Stalin discredited by his successors, there was silence or abuse.

The man who ruled Russia with an iron hand for more than a quarter of a century still lies buried in a place of honor. But his memory has been daubed with blood and vilification in a massive campaign of de-Stalinization carried out by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and the current Communist hierarchy.

So low has Stalin been downgraded that all official mention of today's anniversary date has been removed from Soviet calendars.

The de-Stalinization campaign has been extended through the Communist bloc except for Red China and Albania, which still honor Stalin's name. Red China and Albania adhere to Stalin's "hard line" Communist policies as opposed to Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence.

Stalin died March 5, 1953, of a brain hemorrhage at the age of 73. His death, after such a long period of one-man rule, set off a scramble for power in the Communist party hierarchy. From a brief period of "collective leadership," Khrushchev emerged as party chairman and premier and the recognized leader of the Soviet Union.

It was Khrushchev who initiated the de-Stalinization campaign with his famed anti-Stalin "secret speech" in 1956. The campaign has been aimed at blaming Stalin for Russia's mistakes of the past and maligning him for his police-terror methods.

Stalin rose to power after Lenin died in 1924.

PROFITS SOAR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Corporate profits in 1962 hit a new high of more than $26 billion, government figures indicate. The previous high was set in 1959 when corporations cleared $24.5 billion. The biggest gains in the last three months of 1962 were racked up by autos, chemicals, rails and utilities.

Soviets Try to Pretend Stalin Was Never There

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, in grim, uneasy fashion, today marked the end of its first decade since dictator Josef Stalin died in the Kremlin.

In former days, the occasion would have brought forth ceremonies and tributes. But today, with Stalin discredited by his successors, there was silence or abuse.

The only recognition of the former leader was expected to be the usual file of curious visitors past Stalin's grave alongside the Kremlin wall.

The man who ruled Russia with an iron hand for more than a quarter of a century still lies buried in a place of honor. But his memory has been daubed with blood and vilification in a massive campaign of de-Stalinization carried out by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and the current Communist hierarchy.

So low has Stalin been downgraded that all official mention of today's anniversary date has been removed from Soviet calendars.

The de-Stalinization campaign has been extended through the Communist bloc except for Red China and Albania, which still honor Stalin's name. Red China and Albania adhere to Stalin's "hard line" Communist policies as opposed to Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence.

Stalin died March 5, 1953, of a brain hemorrhage at the age of 73. His death, after such a long period of one-man rule, set off a scramble for power in the Communist party hierarchy. From a brief period of "collective leadership," Khrushchev emerged as party chairman and premier and the recognized leader of the Soviet Union.

It was Khrushchev who initiated the de-Stalinization campaign with his famed anti-Stalin "secret speech" in 1956. The campaign has been aimed at blaming Stalin for Russia's mistakes of the past and maligning him for his police-terror methods.

Stalin rose to power after Lenin died in 1924.

PROFITS SOAR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Corporate profits in 1962 hit a new high of more than $26 billion, government figures indicate. The previous high was set in 1959 when corporations cleared $24.5 billion. The biggest gains in the last three months of 1962 were racked up by autos, chemicals, rails and utilities.
